It seems to me that the future is in the hands of the race itself. I do not mean to say that cruelties are not to exist in the future and injustices and a great many reasons why complaints should be made against the inhumanity of man, but I do mean to say that there never has been a time in the history of the Negro race when the future offered such a basis for belief in your success as a race and for the belief that you have it in your hands to make that success as it is to-day.

Afterwards, at a banquet given him in Birmingham, Ala., on November 2, 1909, before a great audience, he discussed the lynching problem and said:

This country is ceasing to have sections, not ceasing to have traditions, and there is a definition that I want to make as emphatic as possible. I would not have the South give up a single one of her noble traditions. I would not have her abute a single bit of the deep pride she feels in all the great heroes who represented her in that awful struggle between the North and South. I would have the whole country know, as I believe the South is growing herself to know, that it is possible to preserve all those traditions intact and have a warm and deeply loyal love for the Old Flag to which she has come back and to know that the North respects her for those traditions she preserves, and does not ask her to discard one, but only wishes to unite with her in the benefits of a common country and of a sympathy and association between the peoples of the two sections that will certainly lead us on to a greater and greater future.

On the whole, there is surprisingly little friction between the blacks and the whites. One may live a long time in many parts of the South without realizing that the most important problem of the United States lies all about him. Then an explosion comes, and he realizes that much of the South is on the edge of a volcano. For a time the white South attempted to divest itself of responsibility for the Negro. He had turned against those who had been his friends and had followed after strange Gods; therefore, let him so his way alone. This articular active was universal nor was it consistently maintained; for there is hardly one of the older Negroes who does not have a white man to whom he goes for advice or help in time of trouble—a sort of patron, in fact. Many a Negro has seen saved from the chain gang or the penitentiary because of such friendly interest, and many have been positively helped thereby toward good citizenship. Nevertheless, there has been a tendency on the part of the whites to remain passive, to wait until the Negro asked for help.

Undoubtedly there is now developing in the South a growing sense of responsibility for the welfare of the Negro. The Negro quaeters of the towns, so long neglected, are receiving more attention from the street cleaners; better sidewalks are being built; and the streets are better lighted. The sanitary officers are more attention from the street cleaners; better sidewalks are being built; and the streets are better lighted. The sanitary officers are more attention from the street cleaners; better sidewalks are being built; and the streets are better lighted. The sanitary officers are more attention from the street cleaners; better sidewalks are being built; and the streets are better lighted. The sanitary officers are many lumber and construction camps and to raise poultry and pigs. The labor contractor is providing better quarters, though conditions in many lumber and cons

The mobs which have so often stained the reputation of the South defiance of the law and by horrible cruckly as well do not represent best elements of the South. The statement so often made that the most substantial citizens of a community compose lynching parties may have been partially true once, but it is not true to-day. These mobs are chiefly made up from the lowest third of the white community. Perhaps the persistence of the belief has prevented the wiser part of the population from stamping out such lawlessness; porhaps some lingering feeling of mistaken loyalty to the white race restrains from strong action; perhaps the individualism of the southerner has interfered with general acceptance of the idea of the inexorable majesty of the law which must be vindicated at any cost. Yet, in great of these undercurrents of feeling, sheriffs and private citizens do cocasion brave the tury of enraged mobs to rescue or to protect. Attempts to prosecute participants in such mobs usually fail in the South, as elsewhere, but occasionally a jury convicts.

Yet it must not be forgotten that over certain parts of the South a nameless dread is always hovering. In some sections an unaccompanied white woman dislikes to walk through an unlighted villing street at night; she hesistates to drive along a lonely country road in already light without a pistol near her hand; she does not dare to walk through the woods siene. The trun districts are poorly policed and through the woods siene. The trun districts are poorly policed and through the woods siene. The trun districts are poorly policed and through the woods siene. The trun districts are poorly policed and through the woods siene. The trun districts are poorly policed and through the woods alone. The trun districts are poorly policed and through the woods alone. The trun districts are poorly policed and through the woods alone. The trun districts are poorly policed and through the woods alone. The trun districts only one in 10 or even 20 years, that is enough. Rural folia on the back of their minds persists an uncontrained morbid dread. The news of another victim sometimes turns men. The more suspicion of intent is sometimes committee which have brooded over the possib

In the course of this debate some of the advocates of this bill seem to think that there is something magical, powerful, irresistible in an act of Congress and that a perfect remedy for all evils is found in Federal legislation, and that all crimes may be prevented by Federal courts, United States marshals, Federal officials, and the Congress at Washington.

We all vividly recall how less than three years ago, while this House was in session, we here in Washington, under the shadow of the Capitol of the Nation experienced a terrible race riot which resulted in quite a number of whites and blacks being killed, and we were under Federal law, in a city that is governed by Federal laws, in a city governed by Federal police, and that, too, when this city was guarded by United States troops and when soldiers with their rifles rode in the street cars with their guns pointing out of the window, and when women did not dare to go out on the streets at night, and when the passions of the Negro were inflamed and he was a wild man with the gun. What would have happened to the city at that time had not the soldiers been quartered here and had we been left to the help given us by Federal laws, Federal police, and Federal courts? If race riots can not be prevented in the city of Washington under Federal officials and Federal courts and troops, how can they be prevented in the States by Federal marshals, officials, and courts, when these agencies may be hundreds of miles away from the scene of the riot?

The whole issue in a nutshell then is this: Can Congress by this antilynching bill lawfully enact a criminal code for the States to punish the peace officers of the States and deprive the States of the right of conducting their own affairs under the Constitution?

When Rome was at the height of its glory and power, the Roman lawmaking body started the downfall of the empire by enacting a code of laws and regulations for the homes and household of its citizens, saying how the servants in the house should conduct themselves, how they should act toward their masters and how the master should act toward his servants, and what should be the rule and regulations of his home. Every act of the State was put under the supervision and power of the contral government at Rome.

Paul, the brave and fearless defender of the rights of the people against arbitrary and centralized power, sent a letter to the Romans, in which he said:

Who art thou that judgest another man's servants; to his own mas-r he standeth or falleth.

And when certain advocates of centralized power in this Congress attempt to regulate the affairs of the States and to punish the supposed delinquencies of their subordinate officers, the men in this Congress who are unshackled should rise and say, "Who art thou, that judgest the servant of a State? To his own master—the State—he standeth or falleth."

Rome for a season ruled with an iron hand. The people became vassals of a central power, and Rome became a hateful memory.

Lord God of hosts, be with us yet, Lest we forget, lest we forget.

EXTENSION OF REMARKS

HON. OSCAR E. KELLER,

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES,

Tuesday, January 24, 1922,

On the amendment proposing to increase the appropriation for the Federal Trade Commission from $855,000 to $955,000 in the independent offices appropriation bill in the House January 24, 1922.

Mr. KELLAR. Mr. Speaker, the House Appropriations Committee in reporting out the independent offices appropriation bill reduced the Federal Trade Commission appropriation $100,000, giving no substantial reason for such drastic action. In the report accompanying the measure the bare statement is made that the appropriation for the Federal Trade Commission is cut $100,000. It is presumed that if the question were asked, "Why was this appropriation cut?" they would answer, "For the purpose of economy." But in my opinion this is not real economy. Economy is, of course, very necessary at this time. The Government must deflate as well as business, but adequate appropriations for the Federal Trade Commission means economy for the people.

The Federal Trade Commission started to deflate back in April, 1919, when of its own volition it cut its force 50 per cent to save money, and since that time it has decreased its force upon three occasions. Here is a branch of the Government voluntarily decreasing its estimates to Congress, a very unusual occurrence in the usual course of submitting the yearly estimates. The usual custom for the various bureaus and departments in submitting their estimates is to make them as high as possible, realizing full well that the Appropriations Committee will slash them considerably in order to make a record of economy and still allow them sufficient for their actual needs. The Federal Trade Commission should be praised for their action in voluntarily reducing their estimates instead of being ridiculed.

The appropriation allowed the commission for the last fiscal year was $955,000. Gen. Dawes and the Budget Commission analyzed the program of the Federal Trade Commission very thoroughly in considering their estimates for the next fiscal year and recommended the same amount. Yet the Appropriations Committee, without any assigned reason, deliberately reduces this amount to $555,000. The reduction was made in spite of the fact that since Gen. Dawes submitted his recommendations the commission has been directed by Senate resolutions to prosecute three very important investigations: First, profits and market manipulations in export of grain; second, high prices and combinations in house-furnishing goods; third, profits of flour millers. Congress instructed the commission to make these investigations, and thereby informed the people who are interested in the resolutions that investigations would be made. The conclusion is justly arrived at by these people that Congress is sincere in its determination to investigate conditions in the various activities mentioned above. In the very next breath the appropriations to carry out these investigations are materially reduced, making it impossible for the commission to proceed as directed to by Congress. What must be the ultimate conclusion of the people? It can only be that Congress is not sincere in its purpose to fulfill its avowed purpose to investigate the illegal practices of certain combines. The people

A few days ago the commission sent a report to the Senate showing a conspiracy on the part of the Tobacco Trust to keep up prices. If the proposed amendment to increase this appropriation $100,000 fails, the commission will not have sufficient funds to proceed against the violators of the law disclosed in this report. There are other investigations now under way in which the people are vitally interested. The question of the production price of coal, which affects every home in the United States, is one. Every encouragement must be given the commission to vigorously, and officially proceeding these investigations.

sion to vigorously and effectively prosecute these investigations. The legislatures of Iowa, Illinois, Wisconsin, Minnesota, and Missouri have passed resolutions urging the commission to carry to a conclusion the "Pittsburgh base" steel case, involving the issuance of an order to the Steel Trust and other steel companies to discontinue the practice they have pursued in fixing the price of steel in all sections of the country. This is the practice which automatically fixes the price of steel in the Middle West and Northwest and makes "Gary dinners" no longer necessary. By this practice the price of steel manufactured in the Western States is determined by the price set by the Steel Corporation at Pittsburgh, plus the freight from Pittsburgh, though the steel is manufactured right at home and never pays this freight rate at all. For example, all the steel manufactured at Gary, Ind., and in Chicago territory carries $7.60 a ton additional price for the imaginary freight from Pittsburgh, which is never paid. This affects millions of people, and certainly Congress does not want to stop here by discontinuing the investigation.

It is difficult for the people of the United States to understand what we mean by economy in the reduction of appropriations when, three years after the armistice was signed, we are still appropriating in the neighborhood of $800,000,000 for the Army and Navy, for protection to the people of the United States against foreign enemies, when there is not the slightest possibility of war for some time to come. And yet the committee reduces the commission's appropriation $100,000 for the sake of economy. In my opinion, the Federal Trade Commission is of real protection to the people of the United States, and the only body in the Government machinery that protects them from the profiteers; and everybody will agree that the profiteers and unfair manufacturers and unfair merchants have been operating freely altogether too long. The point I want to stress is that we are appropriating millions upon millions for protection at the present time, where it is not needed, and then quibble over this small amount for the Federal Trade Commission, which gives the people protection against an enemy within our very midst.

In this present bill we are carrying an amount of $55,000,000 or so for the settlement of claims arising from the operations of the Shipping Board, which the committee itself admits it knows nothing about. They blindly voted in the committee for this amount which affects a very few citizens of the country. Now, I am not opposed to the payment of just claims against the Government, but still the committee appropriates money to pay these claims after admitting they know nothing about them. The committee has no right to come before this body and arbitrarily reduce the appropriation recommended by Gen. Dawes for the Federal Trade Commission, which appropriation affects 110,000,000 people in this land of ours.

Undoubtedly the packer will welcome the decrease recom-mended by the committee because the commission only last month opposed the modification or weakening of the packer consent decree in the hearings before Attorney General Daugherty's interdepartmental committee. It opposed modification of the decree unless to strengthen it, and particularly opposed the proposal to let the packers back into the wholesale grocery The commission declared the packers already had a monopoly in meat, and was the dominant factor in poultry, butter, cheese, and eggs; and that to modify the decree would make the five big packers a practically complete food trust. If this appropriation is decreased it will curb the commission in its fight against this strong, well-organized combination. If this appropriation is reduced it will mean joy to the Steel Trust; it will mean hope to the Tobacco Trust; revenge to the Beef Trust, and immunity to the flour and grain combinations. only opposition to the Federal Trade Commission comes from business men who are unfair and want to profiteer at the expense of the people of the United States. This appropriation is a protection to the consumer, to the farmer, to the merchant, and the independent manufacturer, all of whom are certainly entitled to protection from unfair methods of competition. There is no question but that the people of the United States believe the Federal Trade Commission is the only Government agency that stands between them and the profiteer. Mr. Chairman, I hope this amendment will be adopted; I hope Congress will allow the full amount recommended by Gen. Dawes for the maintenance of the Federal Trade Commission for the next fiscal year—$955,000—if only to show the people we are sincere when we pass resolutions calling for investigations to be made by this commission. I believe a vote for this amendment is a vote in favor of real economy.

OF

HON. W. W. LARSEN,

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES, Saturday, January 21, 1922.

Mr. LARSEN of Georgia. Mr. Speaker, I desire to extend my remarks in the Record by inserting an article written by the Rev. C. M. Ledbetter, of Hawkinsville, Ga., on the subject of lynching its cause and crue lynching, its cause and cure.

In doing so permit me to say that I have enjoyed an intimate, personal acquaintance with Mr. Ledbetter for some years. He is not only a fine Christian character, but is a man of splendid ability, with practical knowledge of business affairs and the courage of his conviction.

I commend his article to the thoughful consideration of my colleagues and to all who may be interested in the question. The article follows:

Colleagues and to all who may be interested in the question. The article follows:

LYNCHING—TS CAUSES AND CUES.

The lynching subject has been discussed by all classes of people in all sections of the country and in all sects of ways. Indeed, it may have considered many things of many physicians and is neithing bettered." It might be thought by some that the last word has been said on this subject. But I, fer one, do not think so, it is verily true that most of what has been said in the papers and on the studyed. But I, fer one, do not think so, it is verily true that most of what has been said in the papers and on the study of the st high places. The illiterates and the semiliterates are easily used by this class of politician.

To advance a step, I wish to state another fact—which is a true fact, though a large majority of our southern people hate to admit it and I hate to admit it—but I must keep before me the fact so well stand I hate to admit it—but I must keep before me the fact so well stand I hate to admit it—but I must keep before me the fact so well stand I hate to admit it—but I must keep before me the fact so well stand I have stated it so to the me will not admit it when stated baldly as I have stated it, but it is the everlasting truth. As long hat his is a fact we can never punish the lynchers. I am fully aware that most all of our newspapers, nearly all of our lawyers and preachers, denounce lynching for any and every offense, but I know that a majority of our men will either indorse or excused the thing. And we must say that no fence is higher than the lowest place and no chain is stronger than the weakest link. If this thing were not true as I have stated, we could punish some lynchers, while many more are afraid to tall the truth for fear of retailatory measures by the lynchers and sympathisers. I have known men to go on the stand and swear they did not recognize them.

But is there a way out of this terrible condition? Yes, but we did not recognise any of the lynchers when positively I know they did recognise them.

But is there a way out of this terrible condition? Yes; but we must change public opinion, and we will never change public opinion till we thoroughly recognize the fact it needs changing. Look the facts squarely in the face and don't abuse the man who states them. The way most of us are doing is simply to abuse the fellow who states the facts when they are unpleasant.

But to the task of changing public opinion. We all must recognize that this must be done if we stop the evils complained of. Can it be done? I think it can. It is going to take time, thought, prayer, patience, and money. Mr. John D. Rockefeller gave, I believe, $1,000,000 to help stump out tookworm in the South, and I am sure the money was well spent. I went over one whole county and helped it is more than the money was well spent. I went over one whole county and helped I. remember in one attile section where one whole family of eight or nine members was one the charities of the people, and not a single one of the family could work enough to support himself, and in three or of the family could work enough to support himself, and in three or of the family could work enough to support himself, and in three or of the family could work enough to support himself, and in three or of the family could work enough to support himself, and in three or of the family could work enough to support himself, and in three or the family could work enough to support himself, and in three or the family could work enough to support himself, and in three or the family could work and go showt it in a determined and a system of the support of the support

HON. MARTIN C. ANSORGE.

OF NEW YORK,

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES,

Wednesday, January 25, 1922.

Mr. ANSORGE. Mr. Speaker and gentlemen, I thank the chairman of the Judiclary Committee and the House for its unanimous consent that I may have this further opportunity to speak on this important measure.

In the first place, I want to answer the question just propounded by the gentleman from Texas [Mr. Sumners] to the gentleman from Wyoming [Mr. Mondell].

The gentleman from Texas asked the gentleman from Wyoming whether he would have voted for the enforcement act before the passage of the eighteenth amendment?

I remind the gentleman from Texas that the enforcement bill now before the House is being passed just 54 years after the passage of the Jourteenth amendment. The plain implication of the question asked by the gentleman from Texas was that the proposed bill requires a new constitutional amendment. But clearly that begs the very question which has been debated on the floor of this House for the past five weeks. The answer is that section 5 of the fourteenth amendment, passed in 1868, gives Congress the power to enforce by appropriate legislation the provisions of the amendment, so that the enforcement act, which is now before the House, is being passed 54 years after the adoption of the amendment.

The gentleman from Texas [Mr. Sumners] also referred to the conviction yesterday of some white and colored men in Oklaboma for the lynching of a Negro, and the House was reminded from the floor of several isolated instances of convictions of white men for the lynching of Negroes. On the first day of the debate on this bill I pointed out that 3,482 persona had been lynched in the past 33 years, of whom 2,718 were Negroes. These statistics have been before the House during all these weeks of debate, and I have sat through all of it, and I have heard no statistics of convictions for the lynching of Negroes other than the few isolated cases which have been mentioned from time to time. It is therefore clear that the charge that lynchers of Negroes, in the overwhelming majority of cases, go unpunished stands unconscoverted before this House in committee.

It is my contention that the failure to prosecute lynchers has constituted a failure on the part of the States to grant the protection guaranteed by the Constitution and that prosecutions and convictions would have acted as a deterrent of future lynchings. The opponents of this bill may claim that sheriffs have been overpowered when in the honest enforcement of their duties, but they can not claim that the States have not failed to prosecute and convict the lynchers.

I also want to refer briefly to the statement made to-day by the gentleman from New York [Mr. Cockban] to the effect that Negroes in the South own farm lands valued at over $2,000,000,000, whereas in the North the value of their farm lands is but $66,000,000. This seems ridiculously small in comparison, but it must be remembered that the majority of Negroes in the North live in towns and cities and that they have, by their zeal and endeavor, accumulated a substantial amount of property not included in the category of "farm lands."

History records that the legislation and the amendments fostered by Congress to protect the Negro safeguard their newly acquired rights in an active, positive, and direct way. By the passage of the thirteenth amendment, slavery was prohibited and possible legal constitutional objections concerning abolition were settled beyond legal controversy.

Slavery as an institution had been condemned by the emancipation proclamation issued by President Lincoln to take effect in January of 1863. By this instrument the Negro was set free by the Army commanders as soon as the Union forces took possession and occupied slave territory. A doctrine that the colored man was no longer a subject of property was a mere humanitarian announcement in view of the peculiar conditions which ensued in the Southern States. In this respect we have an exact forerunner of the present inactivity of the State governments, in the regions where lynchings are tolerated, to the official attitude of the State governments in the enactment of civil and criminal statutes at the time when the "black laws" were in vogue immediately after the Civil War. Now, as then, a failure on the part of the State administrative officers and agencies called forth a display of Federal power which found its expression in post Civil War times in the war enactments and the direct congressional legislation which were closely related to them.

A failure to enforce the law equally and without partiality to color justified a departure from the constitutional plan originally contemplated by the framers.

Perhaps the main evil which Congress sought to remedy was the official attitude of the executives of the State governments, but by the abolition of slavery as an institution any individual who either enforced involuntary servitude or undertook to commence and enforce bondage was subject to the Federal penal jurisdiction.

One need only recall the various forms of protective measures enacted by Congress between the thirteenth and fourteenth amendments intended to safeguard the civil, political, and even social rights of the Negro in order to acquire a true perspective of the protection which Congress aimed to throw about the former slave by means of special legislation in his favor.

The provisions of the freedman's bureau and the first civil rights legislation indicate the extent to which our National Legislature deemed it necessary to go to offset the direct interferences by State activity with the rights of the new class of citizens, and the neglect and inactivity on the part of the State executive machinery in enforcing the law and treating all persons within their jurisdictions fairly and without discrimination.

The fourteenth amendment, which was ratified in July, 1868, was passed to overcome whatever constitutional objections could be urged against the exercise of this Federal power. By the fifth section of this amendment Congress was given power to enforce the amendment by appropriate legislation. Undoubtedly the Supreme Court of the United States interpreted the legal effect of these two amendments and of the fifteenth amendment, which was passed in 1870, in a way which restricted in some measure the direct exercise of Federal power in behalf of the colored man. By a bare majority of one in the Slaughterhouse cases (16 Wall., 165), and later in United States v. Cruikshank (92 U. S., 588) and United States v. Harris (106 U. S., 290), our supreme judicial authority declared that the prohibitions of the fourteenth and the fifteenth amendments applied to the official acts of the State governments and the officers acting by virtue of an authority which the State conferred upon them. The right to franchise, which is distinct from citizenship—Minor v. Hopperset (21 Wall., 162)—was not granted as a Federal right arising from the fifteenth amendment but was merely a restraint upon official State activity in denying the right of suffrage because of race, color, or previous conditions of servitude.

Under the thirteenth amendment, however, the powers of Congress to enact primary and positive laws was established by the determination of the Supreme Court of the United States. Congress could under this amendment prohibit by law, and therefore punish for its violation, any man whether acting as an officer of a State government or its subdivisions or merely as a private individual for participating in any activities which tended to renew slavery or anything that approximated it. The annulment of this condition of servitude was added to the powers of Congress, and legislation directed to remove these evils was adjudicated to be as valid as if it had been passed pursuant to a power originally granted to the Federal Government upon the framing of the Constitution. Thus in Clyatt.v. United States (197 U. S., 726) the Federal Government rightly exercised its dominion over private individuals who were parties in a plot to enforce involuntary work. The limits of this doctrine, however, were determined by the decision in United States v. Hodges (203 U. S., 1), which was followed by United States v. Powell (212 U. S., 564). The court there drew the distinction that while Congress could pass direct legislation to prohibit slavery and enforced labor similar to it, an interference to the right to contract or hold property was not such an indicia of slavery as to be within the Federal power.

The cases here collected are the leading utterances of the Supreme Court as regards direct interferences by the National Government by legislation in behalf of an oppressed class.

It is not controverted that official abuse by any State officer can be made penal under the Federal criminal law. This is the exact holding in Ex parte Virginia (100 U. S., 667, 676), and has been repeated on numerous occasions by the Supreme-Court. It is likewise settled that a partiality in administration or refusal to apply the law justly has fallen under judicial-condemnation. Maladministration, abuse of power, or inactivity are merely incidents of the misuse of powers granted by the State. (Yick Wo v. Hopkins, 118 U. S., 356.) A law which is fair on its face can be administered with injustice and fall within the corrective powers of the National Government. Cases which are apparently in opposition to this canclusion are those where there was a mere private interference in isolated cases with the enjoyment of a social, political, or civil right.

It is clear that scattered, isolated, and unconnected individual offenses are not within the contemplation of the powers granted by the amendments. But the legislation here proposed is founded upon a legislative finding by Congress, that as regards the evil of lynching, the State authority has pro tanto censed to exist and has been surped by the mob. The only appropriate congressional measures, therefore, are laws which fill the void of authority thus resulting because of official inactivity in enforcing the State law. The exercise of Federal power, to be appropriate, useful, and efficient, must be as broad as the evil which it seeks to destroy.

Congress has found that the unwillingness or neglect to enforce criminal law against offenders in lynching cases is suffi-ciently appreciable to be taken cognizance of by the national authority. The first section of the fourteenth amendment

No State shall make or enforce any law which shall abridge the privileges and immunities of citizens of the United States, nor shall any State deprive any person of life, liberty, or property without due process of law, nor deny to any person within its jurisdiction the equal protection of the laws.

While the first portion of this section deals with making and enforcing laws, the other portions say that no State shall "deprive" any person of life, liberty, or property without due process of law, nor "deny" to any person the equal protection of the laws. A person can be deprived of life, liberty, or property without due process of law either by legislation passed by the State or by unequal administration of a statute which superficially indicates no discrimination. It can be effectively done by a suspension of the laws as regards a certain group or by an arbitrary and incomplete law enforcement policy. In this way persons can be denied the equal protection of laws or be deprived of their liberty by a failure of officials to observe their status as citizens as well as by tyrannical practices originating in arbitrary laws aimed against them.

The failure to prosecute those who violate the State law by means of lynching by official passivity or inactivity removes the protection which the State usually affords an individual by making an interference with his liberty criminal and to the extent of removing the deterrent of committing crime thus denies or deprives the citizen of the protection which he is entitled to have from his own State. The due process of law which the Constitution guarantees to citizens of the United States, as well as to citizens of the State, means proper protection from crime and punishment for those who offend the criminal law of the State by interfering with the liberty of the injured citizen.

Official neglect which instead of punishing and preventing further violations of the State's peace encourages the offenders to do a similar act at another time, allows two standards of conduct to exist in the State to the detriment of the liberty of the class against which the discrimination is made.

Were there no State governments enforcing the law it would not be argued that Congress did not have the power to step in and secure to all citizens the benefits of the fourteenth amend-That is the basis for the removal of causes to the Federal courts where proper protection is not afforded by the State government. It is significant to note that where the State, whether by legislation or by judicial or administrative inertia, does not recognize the rights of liberty of all equally and fails in the performance of its duty toward all of its citizens, the implications are as stated in the case which is most earnestly relied upon by the opponents of this bill that the Federal power is deemed warranted—United States v. Harris (106 U. S., 639):

When, on the contrary, the laws of the State, as enacted by its legislative and construed by its judicial and administered by its executive departments, recognize and protect the rights of all persons, the amendment imposes no duty and confers no power upon Congress. Section 5519 of the Revised Statutes is not limited to take effect only in case the State shall abridge the privileges or immunities of citizens of the United States, or deprive any person of life, liberty, or property without due process of law, nor deny to any person the equal protection of the laws. It applies, no matter how well the State may have performed 1ts duty. Under it private persons are liable to punishment for conspiring to deprive anyone of the equal protection of the laws enacted by the State.

Gentlemen, in view of the facts, and in view of the decisions, how can it be said by members of the opposition that to vote for this bill would violate their oaths of office? The Constitution provides that no State shall deprive any person of life without due process of law. The Constitution says that no State shall deny to any person the equal protection of the laws. The Constitution gives Congress the power to enforce by legislation these provisions. How can Congress enforce these provisions without legislation? If this is not the legislation which the empowering clause contemplates, what form of legislation can Congress pass which would ease the consciences of those who fear that by carrying out the provisions of the Constitution they are doing something unconstitutional?

EXTENSION OF REMARKS

HON. JAMES H. SINCLAIR, OF NORTH DAKOTA,

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES,

Thursday, January 26, 1922,

Mr. SINCLAIR. Mr. Speaker, there is being now held in this city a great conference on the subject of agriculture. At the request of the Secretary of Agriculture, there are gathered delegates from every section of the Union, brought here to study the serious problems of farming and to endeavor to formulate a remedy for the deplorable plight in which the farmers of our Nation find themselves. Appeals for aid come from every agricultural section. The wheat grower, the cotton planter, the corn and live-stock raiser, even the dairy and fruit man, all find themselves in dire financial distress, with bankruptcy almost inevitable.

This condition has been brought about by the unprecedented drop in the prices of farm products in the past year. At the same time all the farmer's investment and working capital which forms the basis for his production has been made upon an inflated valuation. Thus the cost of producing last year's crop was many millions of dollars in excess of its market value.

Agriculture is the basic industry of all civilized peoples. Its prosperity is reflected in every other industry; likewise its poverty. When agriculture fails no other industry can succeed. It is pretty generally conceded that agriculture is now on the brink of national ruin. If we are to return to normalcy we must place the business of farming on a sound and prosperous It will require advanced legislation to do this. We ought to do something for which perhaps there is no precedent, but the conditions are so serious as to require prompt and far-reaching action. This Congress has the gravest problem to solve that has ever confronted a legislative body, for not only must we deal with the situation in America on its own account, but in its relation to the rest of the world. The civilization of Europe is even now hanging in the balance. It is our duty to take the legislative steps necessary to remedy our condition before we become as sadly involved in business disruption.

The question naturally arises, "What steps shall we take in this emergency?" The first suggestion is for direct aid to the Some legislation along this line has been enacted. farmer. The revival of the War Finance Corporation has been considered an agricultural measure. It no doubt has done some good indirectly, but, in my opinion, it has been more of an aid to bankers than to farmers. I have yet to hear of a single farmer who has been given an additional dollar of new credit through this agency, whereas I have received any number of complaints from farmers who have tried to get help and have not succeeded. Upon bringing these complaints to the attention of the officials of the War Finance Corporation I was informed that it is not the intention of the law to give aid directly to the farmer. However, the distribution of this great amount of money, over $10,000,000 having been loaned in North Dakota already, can not help but be reflected in better conditions for the farmers and business interests of the State. As truly indicating the serious situation of the farmers of my State, I am in receipt of a telegram from the executive committee of the Nonpartisan League, which reads as follows:

FARGO, N. DAK., January 24, 1922.

. J. H. SINCLAIR, Representative in Congress, Washington, D. C.:

Representative in Congress, Washington, D. C.:

Situation in this State among farmers even more desperate than outlined by President in his address to agricultural conference. Farmers have lost power to help themselves and business stagnation prevents help from local sources. Unless something is done quickly conditions will be deplorable in spring. Hope well-nigh abandoned now in drought-stricken parts of State. There is but one chance for recovery. The State executive committee of the Nonpartisan League, representing 55,000 farmers, demands that the Federal Government fix the minimum price for No. 1 dark northern spring wheat at $2.20; that the Government revive the Grain Corporation, with power to buy the 1922 crop; that Department of Agriculture, through agricultural colleges and other agencies, begin immediate campaign on an extended scale to show the farmer the necessity of reducing wheat acreage, and thus limiting production, to prevent price-depressing surplus. This campaign should take on the dimensions of Liberty loan drives and should reach the farmer through poster, newspaper, and billboard. This program, to be effective, must be given immediate force. It can not long wait if this generation of farmers is to survive the fearful losses that have bled our producers white, and unless material aid is given at once agriculture will crumble and all the superstructure of business that is built upon it will fall in ruins. If you delay you destroy us.

A. A. LIEDERBACH,
Chairman State Executive Committee, Nonpartisan League.

What the farmers of the United States need is not so much temporary and direct aid, although in some sections this must be extended to keep them in business; but far more important will be the establishment of a marketing system that will insure a profitable price for what they raise in the future. It is of little use to extend further credits without providing the means whereby the loans may be repaid. Many farmers are now too poor to command sound credit. If given more credit they would be only that much deeper in debt. What we need and must have is a stable market that will afford at all times an opportunity to sell our products at prices that will return a decent living and a profit in addition to the producer. This will enable the farmer to go to work with some hope of eventually paying off his debts. Congress is the only agency that can, in my opinion, give this remedy. The machinery has been tried before and found adequate, not only in the United States but in Canada and Australia as well. The United States Grain Cor-poration demonstrated that it could and did control prices during the war, and I believe it can again do so in peace times. during the war, and I believe it can again do so in peace times. I have, therefore, introduced a bill, H. R. 9461, which has for its purpose the fixing and stabilization of prices of the principal farm products through a revival of the grain corporation. The principle of this bill is indorsed by farmers and farm organizations generally, even where there is a difference of opinion as to the means for its accomplishment.

GUARANTEED MINIMUM PRICE FOR GRAIN.

In order to meet the emergency which now confronts the farming population of this country, and in order to save agriculture from complete wrecking and destruction, we advocate the revival (in modified form) of the grain corporation and the establishment of a minimum price for the surplus grain products of the country. Such guaranteed minimum price to cover the cost of production and a reasonable profit thereon, and to continue until such time as agriculture shall recover from its present critical condition.

This is in line with my plan, which in addition to putting the wheat grower on his feet will bring relief to the cotton planter, corn and live-stock producer. It is the only means that I know of that will do it in time to save the farmers of the country from further financial loss and eventual ruin.

The Antilynching Bill.

EXTENSION OF REMARKS

HON. HAMILTON FISH, JR., OF NEW YORK,

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES,

Thursday, January 26, 1922.

Mr. FISH. Mr. Speaker, under leave granted to revise and extend my remarks in the Record, I submit a speech made by myself on the 18th of January, as follows:

Mr. Fish. Mr. Chairman and gentlemen of the House, I believe that Abraham Lincoin would turn in his grave if he thought that 60 years after the emancipation proclamation a Republican House would hestate to pass legislation to protect colored people from being deprived of their lives without due process of law, and I fail to follow the logic or the political tactics of my Republican colleagues who try to pretend that this legislation is not aimed at special sections of the South. The spirit of Abraham Lincoin still lives and the Federal Government is obliged to take cognizance of the hideous plague of lynching and provide a penalty so drastic as to render it dangerous for future mobs to indulge in.

Mr. Urshaw. Will the gentleman yield?

Mr. UPSHAW. Will the gentleman yield?
Mr. Fish. Yes.
Mr. UPSHAW. There is no reference whatever to colored people in

Mr. Fish. Yes.

Mr. Upshaw. There is no reference whatever to colored people in this bill.

Mr. Fish. That is the exact point, and I will say to the gentleman from Georgia that the reason for this bill, and in my mind the sole justification for the bill, is that his State and a few others States like his own fall to prosecute the lynchers.

Mr. Deshaw again rose.

Mr. Fish. Does the gentleman want to ask me a question?

Mr. Fish. Proceed.

Mr. Fish. Proceed.

Mr. Ushaw. I just want to ask the gentleman if he realizes that there has nevel been a lynching in Georgia in which there has not been an effort on the part of the State to punish the lynchers? And I wish to say further that the editorial just read from the New York Tribune does not bring out the fact that Georgia has had a thousand times greater provocation for lynching than New York has had.

Mr. Fish. I will ask how many men have been convicted for lynching in the State of Georgia?

eted. Mr. Fish. Has a single one been convicted? Mr. Uрэнлw, Yes; a number of them,

Mr. Pish. And sent to jail?

Mr. Upshaw. Many of them have.
Mr. Pish. I think the gentleman is mistaken.
Mr. Bish. Thish the gentleman is mistaken.
Mr. Bish. The State of Georgia has an average of 10 lynchings a year, whereas the State of Georgia has an average of 10 lynchings a year, whereas the State of Georgia has an average of 10 lynchings a year, whereas the State of Virginia has no more lynchings than the Northern States, and in each case in the State of Virginia the lynchers have been prosecuted and convicted. It is only for your State of Georgia and others like her that we are obliged to enact Federal legislation to enforce the fourteenth amendment. Lapplause.]

I will say, furthermore, to the gentleman from Georgia that it would be far more profitable for a certain Member of the Congress of the United States who declared that American soldiers have been lynched in France and have been hanged without being convicted by court-martial in the American Expeditionary Forces—it would be far more profitable, I say, if that man who made those infamous charges would investigate lynchings in his own State instead of besmirching the record of the American Expeditionary Forces. [Applause.]

Mr. Dishaw. Will the gentleman yield?

Mr. Fish. I can not remain silent on this question. I would be miruse to those colored men of this country who paid the supreme sacrifice, and especially to men of my own command who gave up their lives to make the world safe for democracy, if I failed to advocate the passage of the antilynching bill. Let me tell you something that perhaps you Members of the House do not fully appreciate and that is that the colored man who went into the war had in his heart the feeling that he was fighting not only to make the world safe for his own race. [Applause.] I wish also to testify to the loyalty, fortitude, and bravery of the colored soldiers, which compares favorably with any soldiers in the allied a raises or our own. Gentlemen, consider the appailing fact that there have been men who wore the u rape. I can say further to the gentleman from Georgia, how can he defend the fact that even women have been lynched in the State of Georgia?

Mr. Urshaw. Will the gentleman yield?

Mr. Fish. No; the gentleman can answer in his own time. I am not a lawyer and do not intend to go into the legal points of the bill, but I have had political experience enough to know that it will be contested and disputed on constitutional grounds to the very end. It will be up to the Supreme Court finally to pass on the constitutionality of the antilynching bill and not the eminent constitutional-lawyers of the House.

I have sworn to support the Constitution of the United States, and on that account, if for no other reason, it would be my sacred duty as a Member of the House of Representatives to vote for a drastic antilynching bill: to protect the rights and lives of American citizens everywhere in the United States and put an end to lawlessness, which threatens the administration of justice. Who can tell, if lynching is not suppressed, when it will spread to take in the unpopular employer or capitalist and even public officials while enforcing the law?

My distinguished colleague, Mr. Ansonge, of New York, representing a constituency of nearly half a million people, of whom 100,000 are colored men and women, has clearly pointed out the fact that members of a lynching mob in the South are seldom apprehended, rarely prosecuted by the local or State authorities, and almost never convicted.

Of all the dastardly and cowardly crimes lynching is the worst recovery the property of the property of members of a lynching mob in the South are seldom apprehended, rarely prosecuted by the local or State authorities, and almost never convicted.

Of all the dastardly and cowardly crimes lynching is the worst because the lynchers are armed to the teeth and the victim is generally an unarmed person in the custody of the sheriff or local official. The mob is composed of cowardly ruffans, and unless drastic legislation is passed and enforced the spirit of lawlessness will run rich throughout the country. As for me, I do not think the bill is drastic enough; it should provide for machine guns in all county jalls where lynching is rampant for use against mobs who attempt to substitute their desires for the orderly process of the law and thereby subvert our republican form of government.

The advocates of this bill do not believe that its passage will solve the racial question, but they believe that it is a step in the right direction. Personally I advocate the creation of a commission to examine into the economic and political status of the colored people and report back to the House a comprehensive plan for the betterment of their condition and assure them equal protection and equal opportunity under the law.

Mr. Brand. Has the gentleman yield?

Mr. Fish. I will.

Mr. Brand. Has the gentleman any information in regard to the first lynching that occurred in Georgia?

Mr. Rish. There have been lynchings there for 50 years.

Mr. Brand. The first lynching which ever occurred in Georgia. so far as I can gather, was in 1865. A Negro man raped a white woman in Gwinnett County. He field for protection to Lawrenceville, where a company of Federal soldlers was stationed. When learning the facts, they took him in custody and hanged him in the courthouse square. The lynchers were partly from your own State and other States north of the Masson and Dixon line.

Mr. Fish. It is the exception that proves the rule. There have been lynchings in Georgia for 50 years, and it exists to-day, so that square. The lynchers were partly from your own State and other States north of the Mason and Dixon line.

Mr. Fish. It is the exception that proves the rule. There have been lynchings in Georgia for 50 years, and it exists to-day, so that colored cittsens are forced to come to Congress and ask for protection of their lives. And if you Republicans fall to pass the bill, you will spread discouragement among the colored people throughout the land, who have been given to understand that the Republican Party was going to do everything in its power to provide that the colored citizen whould have equal rights under the law and that his life will be protected everywhere in the United States. The colored citizen will not only be disappointed and discouraged but he will believe that Congress has turned a deaf ear to his plea for simple justice, if some of you wavering Republicans fail to support the bill for disputed constitutional reasons. The rejection of the bill will close the door of hope and do much to aggravate the racial problem.

This is meritorious legislation, legislation which we have promised to the colored people in our party platform. We owe it to ourselves and to those colored people who fought in our Army and to their kin: we owe it to our party, to tell the people in the South that the antilynching bill is aimed against special counties and States in the Booth, and if they can not and will not enforce the laws, if they will not prosecute the lynchers, then the Federal Government will do it for them.

Mr. Bankhead. Does the gentleman think he is interpreting the act of the Republican Party in that?

Mr. Fish. The Republican Party has written it into its platform, and it has no apology to make for the antilynching bill.

Mr. Connally of Texas. Will the gentleman yield?

Mr. Fish. Yes.

Mr. Connally of Texas. The gentleman does not approve of the mob in East St. Louis. Would not the gentleman favor an amendment to this bill so that it would include the riot like that in East St. Louis, where 25 or 30 people were killed?

Mr. Fish. I would favor some amendments to this bill. I understand that quite a few believe that the bill should be amended. In my opinion, however, many Members of the House are wasting their time discussing the bill from a constitutional point of view before the provisions of the bill are perfected by amendments.

Mr. Connally of Texas. Does not the gentleman understand that his bill would not punish the mob in East St. Louis that killed a number of colored people?

Mr. Fish. In that case men were prosecuted and convicted. I think six white men are now in jail for having taken part in that riot. I ask the gentleman is there a single white man in the State of Texas now in jail who took part in any lynching? [Applause.]

The Chairman. The time of the gentleman from New York Mr. Fish I is not a Nr. London. The gentleman from New York Mr. Fish I is not a Nr. London. The gentleman from New York [Mr. Fish] is not a Nr. London.

Mr. London, The gentleman from New York [Mr. Fish] is not a politician. He is young in politics, and he has told more of the truth about the bill than the other people on the Republican side.

The Antilynching Bill.

We must keep the faith! Yea, we must remain true to the principles of Abraham Lincoln!

EXTENSION OF REMARKS

HON. WILLIAM F. KOPP.

OF IOWA,

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES,

Thursday, January 26, 1922.

THE ANTILYNCHING BILL.

Mr. KOPP. Mr. Speaker and gentlemen of the House, the discussion of this measure has deeply interested me. The evil to be corrected is serious. The remedy proposed is important.

In no sense can this be considered a sectional measure. It applies alike to all parts of our country. It may be invoked more in the South than in the North, but, if so, only because the evil is more prevalent in the South than in the North. There is, however, no purpose or desire to disturb the relations between the two sections. As a son of one who wore the blue, I rejoice that our fathers were a generous foe. Lincoln spoke "with malice toward none; with charity for all." At Appomattox Grant returned the sword of Lee. Such has been the spirit of the North.

But when we are asked to surrender American principles we can not comply. When we are told that slavery was a good thing for the colored man, we refuse to accept the conclusion. When it is proclaimed that mobs are necessary in America, we challenge the assertion.

A nation that will not guarantee a judicial hearing to every citizen is recreant to its highest duty. Mob law must be ended. Every man in America, rich or poor, white or black, is entitled to a trial in court. As far as I can bring it about, every man in America shall have such a triat. The equal protection of the laws is the very foundation of this Republic.

The justice of legislation against lynching can not be quesoned. Do you doubt the need of such legislation? Listen. In the last 30 years more than 3,000 American citizens have tioned.

been lynched. Of these, more than 50 have been women, children have been put to death in this awful manner. During 1920, the last year for which we have accurate figures, 65 persons were lynched. Most of these were hanged or shot, but 8 were burned. Think of it—burned! The mobs piled up combustible material, placed the victims upon it, poured out large quantities of coal oil, and then applied the torch. While the helpless victims groaned and writhed in frightful agony, the frenzied and infuriated mobs shouted for joy. Such scenes must be made impossible in America. This is not civiliza-Such scenes tion. This is savagery, savagery in its most terrible and hideous form

It is said that mobs are necessary on account of the colored race. How absurd! Are not the courts able to convict and sentence colored men when guilty? The judges are white; the prosecuting attorneys are white; the juries are white. No; the question is not whether a guilty colored man, charged with a heinous offense, can be convicted, but whether an innocent colored man, charged with such an offense, can be acquitted. That is the only question, as far as the prosecution of colored people is concerned. Race prejudice may convict an innocent colored man, but it never acquits a guilty one.

During this debate many cruel things have been said about the colored race. This I deeply regret. It ill becomes us to taunt the colored race upon its weakness. Many boastful things have been said of the white race. It ill becomes us to thank God that we are not like other men. We have a common Father. We have a common religion. We have been thrown together, and we must bear each other's burdens.

The presence of the colored race in America seems to be looked upon by some as a crime. Certain it is that if this be a crime, it can not be laid at the door of the colored man. He did not come here voluntarily. He was brought here against his will. The slave traders were white men. Talk about brutes! Talk about cruelties! Talk about atrocities! Talk about moral degradation! Of all the world's infamous charac-ters the slave traders were the worst. It still makes us shud-der to think of them. Hell itself must have blushed for shame when they entered there.

The colored race has been out of slavery only a little over half a century. Necessarily it has its limitations. The marvel is not, however, that it has progressed so little, but that it has progressed so much. No doubt it has among its numbers some who are not a credit to the race and who make more difficult the pathway of those who are. As a whole, however, the colored people are kind, affectionate, and loyal. When sickness comes into your home and contagion strikes terror even to the bravest hearts they will not desert you. The colored people are making a heroic effort to advance in civilization. They are doing many kinds of work. They are acquiring homes. They are building churches. They are producing wise leaders, Booker T. Washington will always stand out as one of the great men of this generation. Let us not close the door of opportunity to the colored race. On the contrary, let us encourage it to make further progress. The better the colored race becomes the better it will be for the white race.

The man who takes part in a mob brutalizes himself and all with whom he comes in contact. He is an enemy of both races. The white man can not make the colored man better by inflicting injustice upon him. No. No. The white man can not uplift the colored man by degrading himself. That is impossible. This is the true philosophy:

Be noble! and the nobleness that lies In other men, sleeping, but never dead, Will rise in majesty to meet thine own.

The colored race is here, and here to stay. Extinction is unthinkable. Deportation is impossible. The two races can not thinkadie. Deportation is impossible. The two faces can but be separated. For weal or for woe, their destinies are linked together. There is only one solution and that is kindly cooperation. Therein—and therein alone—lies the hope for the future.

A mob is always monstrous, but especially so when an innocent man is put to death. Not infrequently that happens. It is a difficult thing to determine the gullt or innocence of a person, even in an orderly court of justice, where sworn testimony is taken, and where there is time for counsel and deliberation. But a mob does not reason. It does not consider evidence. It is moved by passion and acts upon suspicion. When a mob puts an innocent man to death it, at the same time, brands him guilty of some infamous crime. Thus he is robbed not only of his life but also of his good name. No greater wrong than this can be done to any man. Those who survive must suffer infinite grief and sorrow.

The legal questions involved have been fully and ably discussed by others, and I shall only touch upon them. claimed that the bill before us is unconstitutional. Whenever there is any substantial opposition to a bill, some one is sure to make that claim. During the past 50 years hundreds of bills have been denounced as unconstitutional, but during all of that time only a few have actually been declared unconstitutional by the Supreme Court of the United States. It is true that in the old days of State rights this bill would probably not have been sustained, but it must be borne in mind that since those days the Constitution has been amended. It must also be borne in mind that even without amendment the Constitution grows and expands. It keeps pace with the advancing thought of the Nation. The Constitution must be interpreted in the light of the day in which we live. If the States permit American citizens to be deprived of life, without due process of law, it is the duty of the National Government to give them protection. That is one of the great purposes of the Constitution.

My mind goes back to the war. I saw the boys march away. They came from every nationality, but all were Americans. Among them were many colored boys. They were called to the service and responded willingly and bravely. They, too, followed the flag. They, too, died beneath its folds. They, too, suffered and endured all the agonies and horrors of war. Those who returned now ask whether the Nation which they protected in war will protect them in peace. To that question we can make but one answer. Our reply must be that this Republic will protect every American citizen.

Abraham Lincoln, the best friend that the colored race ever had and the noblest man that ever lived, made a solemn vow before God that if a victory came to the Union arms he would emancipate the slaves. The battle of Antietam was fought. The Union Army triumphed. Abraham Lincoln kept that vow and issued the emancipation proclamation. In the last national convention the Republican Party, in keeping with its history and tradition and with its high regard for human rights, declared that lynching was a terrible blot upon our country. That blot must be wiped out! We must keep the faith! Yea, we must remain true to the principles of Abraham Lincoln!

EXTENSION OF REMARKS

01

HON. T. FRANK APPLEBY,

OF NEW JERSEY,

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES, Thursday, January 26, 1922,

On the bill (H. R. 13) to assure to persons within the jurisdiction of every State the equal protection of the laws, and to punish the crime of lynching.

Mr. APPLEBY. Mr. Speaker and Members of the House, this bill has been before the House of Representatives for many days. A large part of the membership have wished to express their opinions of the proposed legislation and the time of debate has necessarily been limited. Consequently I have availed myself of the privilege of extending my remarks in the Record. Having listened carefully to the arguments for and against this bill, I have decided to cast my vote in favor of the proposed law. There are many good reasons why I shall vote for the Dyer bill. I will enumerate some of them in just a few words:

First, Lynching is murder and can not be justified on any grounds.

Second. The decision of the average mob, or, if you please, a gathering of citizens with inflamed minds for the purpose of taking the law in their own hands, is never safe. Many times we have read of these disgraceful decisions and proceedings of a mob, and would any one of us care to subscribe to the justice or righteousness of its acts? Certainly the average disinterested person will be pleased to see that legislation is about to be enacted to put a stop to mob violence.

Third. It has been conclusively shown through the statements made in this debate that in the States of the Union where antilynching laws have been adopted lynching has greatly decreased, and because of certain specific provisions of this bill the legislation, if enacted, will cause county officials to be more inclined to do their duty.

Fourth, Where any State, through the laxity of its officials, allows this practice to continue, it should be the duty of the United States Government to see that the fourteenth amendment is enforced by national legislation.

Fifth. There should be no distinction in race or creed in this country so far as the administration of the country's laws is concerned.

It is not my purpose to enter into details as to my opinion of the colored race, although I am frank to say that the opinion is favorable. My judgment is that the average colored person is a good citizen, trustworthy, economical, and law-abiding. That they are patriotic citizens can not be disputed. In the War of the Rebellion and the Spanish-American War, as well as the World War, the colored man fought valiantly for this country, his country, and to deny him the right of impartial trial, guaranteed him by the Constitution of the country for which he fought, is not justified on any grounds. When a citizen, black or white, commits a crime, let the law take its course. Is there anyone who can justify any other procedure?

That lynching should be stopped, all right-thinking men agree. Why it has not been stopped is a matter upon which Members of this House do not seem to agree. Geographical location apparently dictates very largely the viewpoint. To me, what seems a fair conclusion of the whole issue is this: Enact the pending bill and give the law a fair and impartial trial. If this is done, I am of the opinion that the number of lynchings will immediately decrease. When the State officials who are now tolerating lynching begin to study this new law, and understand that the Federal Government means business, you will soon find that the county and State officials will wish to cooperate with the Federal officers. When this is true, then the general public will begin to realize that the fourteenth amendment can be enforced.

I hold no brief for the criminal, white or black, but I do hold in high regard the citizen, white or black, who, by his efforts, strives to uphold the Constitution of the United States. My observation of the colored race leads me to believe that they are naturally fearful, and, consequently, law-abiding. The interest manifested by the colored people who have been sitting in the galleries of the House during this debate, listening quietly to the various opinions expressed regarding this proposed law, shows that these listeners are deeply interested in the outcome of the measure. Naturally, they impress me with the thought that their sympathies are with their race. They want to feel that they live under one flag, their country's flag, and that they, their colored friends, their relatives, will be accorded a square deal. And, most of all, they are glad to know that the antilynching law will be as applicable in one State as in another.

one State as in another.

As to the constitutionality of the proposed law, I would express no opinion. From the arguments presented I am led to believe, however, that it is constitutional. One of my friends has made the statement that this matter should not be settled now, but that a commission should be appointed to report upon the question at issue. My answer to the learned gentleman is this: There is no time like the present to deal with this extremely important question. If there is doubt about the constitutionality of the legislation, let the United States Supreme Court settle the matter in the same fair and impartial manner as other important questions have been settled. If lynching is a heinous crime, as all have agreed, even the most bitter opponents of the bill have conceded this, a blot upon our civilization, then, in the interest of all concerned, let us dispose of this legislation by enacting the antilynching bill into law.

EXTENSION OF REMARKS

OF.

HON. LEONARD S. ECHOLS.

OF WEST VIRGINIA,

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES,

Thursday, January 26, 1922.

Mr. Speaker, under leave to extend my re-Mr. ECHOLS. marks, I desire to say I shall not bother myself about the constitutionality of the bill any further than to say there is as good authority sustaining the constitutionality of it as there is against it. Lawyers whose integrity can not be questioned and whose legal opinions always carry great weight tell us it will stand every constitutional test. The courts are here to take care of that question. If I had been a Member of Congress a few years ago and this bill had been presented for consideration, I, too, might have questioned its constitutionality; but since the Government has of recent years embarked in that realm of paternalism and gone so far afield from what the fathers intended, I can not bring myself to seriously question its constitutionality. That school of statesmen who question the constitutional validity of the bill can not escape a large share of the responsibility for plunging the Federal Government into doing things that ought to be left to the States to do. However, I would not support any bill about which I entertain grave doubts as to its constitutionality. It is no new thing for the Federal Government to take jurisdiction of a crime that is also a violation of the laws of the State. The Congress has done more foolish things than to pass a bill about which there is as little justification in the belief that it is unconstitu-tional as there is about this bill. It has even done more foolish things than it would do if it passed an act taking concurrent jurisdiction with the States of all mob violence, riots, and insurrections. I am not so sure that it would not be wisdom for the Congress to pass an act making it a Federal offense to participate in mob violence, riots, or insurrections, and properly defining what constitutes such offenses. It is most difficult to obtain a fair trial of men engaged in either of these crimes by a jury drawn from the local community where the crime has been committed.

No matter what the crime or alleged crime might have been, the respectability of no community was ever elevated by mobviolence. Any community that permits lynching weakens its moral fiber and places its respectability upon a lower plane. I can appreciate the feelings of the man whose daughter or wife has been outraged by a degenerate, either black or white; but why give more leniency to the man because he is white when considering a crime that can be perpetrated only by a degenerate? If the opportunity were immediately given him there is not a Member of this House who would not promptly avenge the crime of an assault upon or the murder of a member of his family committed by either a black or a white man. That is only human nature. It is a far different thing to encourage those who will deliberately and premeditatedly engage in the sport of mob violence by our failure to pass this bill. The act of avenging an assault upon a member of one's family is committed under far different circumstances than is lynching. A wery large percentage of those who engage in lynching do so out of curiosity rather than for the purpose of avenging the crime or punishing the alleged criminal.

Lynching is a class of barbarism that ought to be reduced in every possible way, both by the State and the Federal Government. What is more revolting or degrading to civilization than having a mob of so-called intelligent men engage in lynching by burning a human being at the stake? No one but a degenerate who has reached the lowest depths of debasement entertains any sympathy for the black assailant of a white woman, but why undertake to excuse the act of the mob in lynching the culprit by burning him at the stake—a crime almost as revolting as the assault itself?

My abhorrence of the crime of lynching goes back almost to my infancy. Since I can remember, there have been but five lynchings in what now constitutes the congressional district which I have the honor to represent. Too many, I admit, but among that number not a black man can be counted. Three of these lynchings occurred when I was a mere boy, and the crime for which they paid the death penalty at the hands of a lynching mob was for the robbery and wounding of my grandfather. No murder was committed, no assault upon a white woman was committed, and it has always been doubtful whether or not one of the three men who met death at the hands of the mob had committed any crime greater than that of petit larceny. I well remember the talk of the community in which it was frequently stated that one of the men that was lynched was innocent of any crime. Lynching mobs are engaged in by those who have lost their reason. There may be an excuse for the man whose daughter or wife has been assaulted losing his reason, but there can be no excuse for a whole community losing its reason.

The only assault upon a white woman by either a white man or a Negro that has been committed in my section of the State since I can remember occurred on the 12th day of December, 1921. There was some talk of mob violence, but the intelligence of the community prevailed, and in a short time after the crime was committed the criminal was tried in the courts of my home county, convicted, and sentenced to death—not because he was black but because he committed the crime. He would have met the same fate had he been white. I am quite sure that the respectability of that community is higher to-day than it would have been had the mob assembled and hanged or burned the culprit at the stake. There was no sympathy expressed anywhere for the criminal, but there was a determination among the thoughtful element to preserve law and order. All has been accomplished in a lawful and orderly manner that could have been accomplished by the mob, and the community maintains its self-respect.

This bill is the outgrowth of promiscuous lynchings and the utter failure of public officers in certain States to punish the criminals engaged in that form of murder. The Negro has been the victim and for him there has not been the protection of the law to which he is entitled. Often he has met the fury of the mob when there was only the semblance of guilt attached to him. The bill is, of course, a Hepublican measure. No one expects it to receive the support or sanction of the Democratic Party. The opposition is based upon the assumption that it will encourage the black race to engage with more frequency in assaulting white women. There is but little, if anything, to support that assumption. Lynchings are far more frequent for other crimes than that one, as is shown by the fact that only one out of five is lynched for that particular crime.

I do not believe the enactment of this bill into law will be the cause of a single assault upon a white woman of the South by a black man. I believe its enactment will result in reducing the frequency of that crime by showing to the black man of the South that the Federal Government proposes to see that he is given the right to trial when charged with crime, as is guaranteed him by the supreme law of the land. It has been repeatedly said, and I have no doubt of the truth of the statement, that the political solidarity of the South has remained unbroken because the black man is there in great numbers. That is unfortunate. I would remind the South that in those sections of the country where the black race has been granted the right of suffrage just as good men are elected to public office as in those sections of the country where only the white man is permitted to vote. Law and order prevail in those States where the black man votes; taxation is no more burdensome and intelligence is as general and of as high degree as in those States where he is denied this privilege. I do not fear either the supremacy of the black race or their criminal activities, and I have known them all my life. Any race that has made the progress that the black race has made in this country since it emerged from the shackles of slavery is entitled to equal justice under the law.

It has been suggested during the debate on this bill if a "State failed to enact laws to punish lynching or murder or any other recognized crime, or if it enacted a law to punish one class of people differently from another class or color or race for the same crime, Congress could correct the omission." How much more serious, then, must the situation be in a community where a law against lynching exists, but is not executed, and no serious effort is made to execute it. It is well known to all of us that there are States where the law against lynching nembers of the black race is not executed, and as I stated in the beginning this bill is the outgrowth of that very thing. This bill does not take from the States the right or power to punish crimes. It only confers upon the Federal Government the power to punish crime, and it is safe to say that power will not be abused anywhere or even exercised in those localities where the States enforce the laws now upon the statute books.

Air Mail Service.

EXTENSION OF REMARKS

HON. ANTHONY J. GRIFFIN,

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES,

Friday, January 13, 1922,

On the bill (H. R. 9859) making appropriations for the Post Office Department.

Mr. GRIFFIN. Mr. Speaker, in my speech on this subject, delivered in the House January 13, I had not the time to go into the subject of Government ownership and control of the Air Mail Service, a subject raised, it may be recalled, by certain inquiries of the gentleman from Connecticut [Mr. Truson] and of the gentleman from Texas [Mr. Parrish.]

The former said he would be disposed to assent to the action

The former said he would be disposed to assent to the action of the committee in striking out entirely the appropriation for the maintenance of the Air Mail Service if there were any immediate hope of private individuals undertaking the business.

mediate hope of private individuals undertaking the business.

The latter asked if I did not think that the Air Mail Service could be handled under private contract with aviating companies at a less rate and more practically than the Government is handling it.

These questions open up a wide field of discussion. Men take their positions on the subject, as they do upon almost any other controversy, influenced by their education, their environment, and their personal interest. Underlying these factors there is, in the minds of those taking a hostile stand against Government ownership, a deeply imbedded conviction that whatever is touched with governmental interference is inevitably tainted with fraud, corruption, and inefficiency.

tainted with fraud, corruption, and inefficiency.

This is a rather unpatriotic view to take, and is not, in my opinion, confirmed by our past experience. If we examine the activities which have come under Government control in the last hundred years—the Postal Service, the parcel post, canals, and education—we will find them practically free of the evils of inefficiency and corruption so much emphasized when an extension of governmental control is suggested.

When it is offered in evidence that the railroads and telegraphs are owned and operated efficiently by the Governments in New Zealand, Australia, Great Britain, and in Europe, a thousand and one pretexts are put forward to explain their success in those countries and to discount their probable success here.

With such modes of reasoning no logic will avail. To them the couplet is particularly applicable—

The man convinced against his will is of the same opinion still.

The country and the world are on the verge of a great change in the methods of transportation. The airplane is no longer a toy or a vehicle of pleasure. It earned its place as a factor in transportation during the war, when it was subjected to tests which staggered the imagination and aroused the admiration of the world. It has emerged from the ordeal a practical, efficient, and economical instrumentality for the promotion of commerce and intercommunication.

Does it not seem foolish, therefore, for us to surrender this instrumentality into the hands of private individuals, whose sole aim can only be private aggrandizement, and thus deliberately put the commerce and industry of our country at the mercy of their precarious and uncertain efforts to reconcile public service with their own private profit?

Can it be possible that we will make this mistake when we

Can it be possible that we will make this mistake when we have before us the dismal failure of private efforts during the crucial period of the war? Millions of dollars were then wasted or stolen in the process of building up an adequate air service through private instrumentalities. We failed and an echo of that failure is even to-day reverberating in the public press. The Government is, at this moment, prosecuting suits against the Dayton-Wright and Wright-Martin Airplane Corporations for $3,700,000 for payments unearned and unlawfully paid to them

Are we going to be obliged to travel over the old pathway, littered, as it is, with the ruins of private inefficiency and greed, and repeat that awful experience in our handling of air transportation? I hope not. I sincerely trust that those who are in doubt will study the achievements of other countries in governmental ownership, and when they are confronted with the evidences of successful management and control, I hope they will weigh the evidence with open minds and not resort to the unflattering suggestion that other countries are more honest and more efficient than their own.

Personally, I believe in Government ownership and operation of universally essential public utilities. The Government assumes ownership and control of highways. Putting steel rails on a highway does not make it any less a highway. On the contrary, it enhances its utility. To turn a road thus improved over to private individuals or to permit them to lay the rails and monopolize the road for their individual gain puts entire communities at their mercy, empowering them to throttle farmer, manufacturer, and consumer alike by the exaction of burdensome rates of freight and passenger transportation. They have kept millions of tons of foodstuffs rotting on the farm that could have been sold to advantage and thus saved many a farm from bankruptcy, and which might at the same time have fed half-starved workers in congested industrial centers. They have enhanced the cost of manufacturing by the imposition of exorbitant freight rates on coal and raw material to such an extent as to seriously impair our power to export our home products to other countries, or even to compete with foreign products in our own land.

To trace the history of our privately owned railroads from their inception in the last century down to the present day is to open up a Pandora's box of stockjobbing, intrigue, spoliation, and receiverships varied by corruption of legislatures and the ruin of small investors.

If our Government, instead of presenting millions of acres to speculators, on their promise to build railroads, had undertaken the task itself, all of this shameful exploitation would have been avoided and the country would have to-day an economic saving of billions of dollars to its credit, represented in better and richer farms, happier workers, a more diversified industrial development, and a foreign trade commensurate with our national resources.

We would have saved the economic waste involved in the taking over of the railroads in the World War, when, if private ownership were really efficient, it had the opportunity to show its efficiency. On the contrary, private ownership failed, and the Government was obliged to spend over a billion dollars on their betterment in order to meet the emergency.

I am aware that propaganda has been industriously circulated to the effect that the Government took over the railroads in the highest state of perfection and turned them back to the private owners ruined and depreciated. This propaganda is, of course, only stacking the cards for future play and to impose upon the people and upon Congress.

No one will accuse former Director General of Railroads

No one will accuse former Director General of Railroads Walker D. Hines of leaning toward Government ownership. He has been a railroad man all his life; but he was frank and honest enough, in his testimony before the Senate Interstate Commerce Committee the other day, to denounce this vicious propaganda as absolutely false. He showed, in addition, that under Government ownership the labor and traffic efficiency of the railroads improved instead of deteriorating.

If the Government had owned and operated the railroads from their inception, as it could very well have done in cooperation with the Postal Service, the industrial and agricultural development of this country would have presented a generally pleasanter picture.

There might not have been created so many wealthy families to vie with European aristocracy in luxury and splendor, but even if our country were denied the distinction of being known abroad as the breeding ground of that genus known as the American millionaire, the great masses of our people might have been decidedly happler.

It is, therefore, to be earnestly hoped that in the development of the Air Mail Service we will not be beguiled to step into the pitfalls which covered the pathway of railroad progress. The airplane has proven an expensive experiment to the people of this country, and now that it shows signs of being profitable, I hope that they will not permit the fruits of their labor to be appropriated by private speculators.

OF

HON. J. M. C. SMITH,

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES,

Monday, January 30, 1922.

Mr. SMITH of Michigan. Mr. Speaker, accepting the privilege granted me of extending my remarks in the Record, permit me to incorporate what President Lincoln said about law and order. I find it in a spiendid editorial of the Charlotte Republican, of my home city. The extract is accompanied by the statement that it is well worth memorizing, and I concur in that advice.

If there ever was a time when we should have respect for the law, it seems to me that time is now. The propaganda which seems to be spreading not only in our own country but throughout the world for the abolition of our form of government needs only to be referred to in order to show with what care we should regard our institutions. There is no government on the face of the earth superior to ours. I am at a loss to know why our form of government should be abolished and supplanted by any other. Here every person is free to follow his own choice of endeavor and have his rights respected by others. Everyone here is free to become whatever he can make of himself. Heredity does not count in this country, autocracy is frowned upon, and more opportunities are strewn along the pathway of life here than in any other country. Let us have respect for our country, its laws, and its institutions. In no other way can we preserve the hearthstones of our homes or extend life's opportunities to all. Let us take advantage of our schools. Let us respect our churches. Let us hold our citizenship as a sacred, inherent right; and if we obey the law and preserve order, our country never will be in danger.

The following is the extract from the speech of President Lincoln above referred to, as delivered before the Young Men's Lyceum, of Springfield, Ill., January 27, 1837:

Let every American, every lover of liberty, every well-wisher to his least particular the laws of the Revolution never to violate in the least particular the laws of the country and never to tolerate their violation by others. As the patriots of seventy-six did to the support of the Deciaration of Independence, so to the support of the Constitution and laws let every American pledge his life, his property, and his sacred honor. Let every man remember that to violate the law is to trample on the blood of his father and to tear the charter of his own and his children's liberty. Let reverence for the laws be breathed by every American mother to the lisping babe that prattles on her lap; let the taught in schools, in seminaries, and in colleges; let it be written in primers, spelling books, and almanacs; let it be preached from the pulpit, proclaimed in the legislative halls, and enforced in courts of justice.

EXTENSION OF REMARKS

HON. ROYAL C. JOHNSON.

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES.

Monday, February 6, 1922.

Mr. JOHNSON of South Dakota. Mr. Speaker, in accordance with permission granted by unanimous consent of the House to extend my remarks in the Record and print the so-called "slacker lists" I desire to call attention to a letter of The Adjutant General, P. C. Harris, dated January 30, 1922.

It is my intention to insert these lists on the 5th day of each month until all of the names are printed. No good soldier will be injured by the publication of his name in these lists, but, on the contrary, if his military record is one to be proud of the publication will only serve to call attention to that record. If by mistake the names of good soldlers have not been elimi-nated from the record, it will be my pleasure and duty to insert in the RECORD the facts in each individual case and to see that the facts are brought to the attention of the Secretary of War, who is as anxious as any soldler of the late war with Germany to have the records correct. Mistakes ought to be corrected while the men are living and while there is evidence to substantiate any valid claim as to service.

The letter is as follows:

WAR DEPARTMENT, THE ADJUTANT GENERAL'S OFFICE, Washington, January 39, 1923.

The lists in which these names were originally included have been given at least one month's publicity.

The name of any man who, since the publication of the lists, has been found to have actually rendered service in either our own forces or in those of the allies during the period between May 18, 1917, and November 11, 1918, is not included; nor is that of any man who, though he rendered no service during the period mentioned, has, since the publication of his name, been found to have been erroneously inducted or to have been erroneously certified as a deserter, nor that of any man who is known to be no longer living.

Every reasonable effort has been made by the War Department to eliminate from these lists names which, for any of the aforementioned reasons, should not appear thereon. Should it develop, however, that certain of the names listed below should, for any of these reasons, likewise be removed, notice to that effect will be published in each such case in a later issue of the CONGRESSIONAL RECORD.

Some 1921 Experiences in Commercial Poisoning for the Control of the Cotton Boll Weevil.

EXTENSION OF REMARKS

HON. RILEY J. WILSON,

OF LOUISIANA,

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES,

Wednesday, February 8, 1922.

Mr. WILSON. Mr. Speaker, under the leave granted I print the following article, showing the results of experiments by various farmers of the cotton belt in the control of the boll weevil by the use of powdered calcium arsenate.

The article is as follows:

SOME 1921 EXPERIENCES IN COMMERCIAL POISONING FOR THE CONTROL OF THE COTTON BOLL WEEVIL.

(By B. R. Coad, Bureau of Entomology, United States Department of Agriculture.)

Some 1921 Experiences in Commercial Poisoning for the Control of The Control Bolt. Wespit.

(By R. R. Coad, Bureau of Entomology, United States Department of Agriculture.)

From time to time we receive inquiries concerning the results that farmers have been securing in their efforts to control the cotton boil weevil by the use of calcium arsenate. Commercial use of calcium arsenate has really extended over a period of only three years, although large-scale use of the material, under the direction of representatives of this laboratory, was practiced for several years carlier. As soon as the farmers themselves began to attempt to poison we were naturally very much interested in the results they secured, and each year have consistently made every effort to secure as much information as possible on this subject. We have not only attempted to get the farmers idea of his results, but wherever possible have verified these by procuring secured. In many cases viaits have been made by our own representatives for the purpose of studying the local conditions under which certain operations were conducted and making records, all of which increased our information which must serve as a basis for future recombened and result when poisoning. As might be expected, it is generally rather difficult to secure anything really tangible on the operations and result when poisoning is conducted entirely by the farmers. In spite of all of our urging to the contrary, very few make any provision for an accurate check or contrast area which will permit some measurement of the difference in yield between poisoned and unpoisoned cotton. The majority are satisfied to compare their yield with previous crops or with general local conditions. The result is that in making properly and the poisoning was profitable or not profitable, but they really have no basis for their conclusions other than the fact that their crop was good or bad.

Many others are found whose fields have shown a very pronounced weevil control due to poisoning, as illustrated b tions were made and nothing where only one application was made. Mr. W. A. Smith owned cotton adjoining Mr. Higgenbotham and did not poison. His yield was only about one-fourth that of Mr. Higgenbotham's on the tract poisoned five times.

G. H. Hulme-Co., Athens, Ga.: Treated 50 acres of cotton on July 27, August 8, 12, 18, and 27, making five applications in all. Continuous rains during much of this period, and two applications washed off immediately after being made. Fourteen hundred pounds of poison used. Coat of calcium arsenate. $168 for 50 acres. Cost of dusting machinery. $41.25. Total cost, $209.25 for 50 acres. Cost of dusting machinery. $41.25. Total cost, $209.25 for 50 acres. This 50-acre tract normally made about 35 bales before the weevil, and this year in spite of rains and unfavorable seasonal conditions yielded 30 bales.

Trawick Bros., Linton, Ga.: Treated 100 acres of cotton on July 10, 18, 23, and 28, making four applications in all during a period of frequent rains. The last three applications were washed off in less than 24 hours after treatment. Used 4,000 pounds of poison on the 100 acres. Of this 100-acre tract 35 acres were completely drowned out by the excessive rainfail, and the remaining 65 acres made 60 bales. Forty acres adjoining but unpoisoned made absolutely nothing owing to intensive weevil injury. In 1920 poison was used on this same 100-acre tract and 125 bales were made. The 1921 poisoning was done with an Juna Ag carr duster, Feeny mule-back duster, and Springfield hand guns.

J. E. Godfrey, Madison, Ga.: Treated 100 acres on July 6, 12, 25, and tensive weevil injury. In 1820 poison was been on this same tor-acterizate and 125 biles were made. The 1921 poisoning was done with an Iron Age cart duster, Feeny mule-back duster, and Springfield hand guns.

J. 18. Godfrey, Madison, Ga.: Treated 100 acres on July 6, 12, 25, and August 12 and 17, making five applications in all. Used the 1920 Magara cart duster and 4,000 pounds of calcium arsenate. Made 60 bales on the 100 acres, and after comparing with all surrounding crops estimated an increase of 25 bales due to poisoning.

E. H. Blount, Waynesboro, Ga.: Poisoned 126 acres with a 1920 model Nlagara cart duster on July 1, 12, 20, and 30; also made two applications of molasses-calcium arsenate mixture. Left careful check plats and found an average increase of 298 pounds more per acre where dusted than where not dusted. Rain fell on June 27, July 3, 6, and 15, and practically every day from then until August 15. Final yield, 73 hales on 128 acres. Two hundred and forty acres of unpoisoned cotton yielded at the rate of 0,59 bales per acre and the unpoisoned 0.18 bales per acre, thus showing an increase of 0.41 bales per acre due to poisoning. The cost of the poisoning for the season was estimated at $7 per acre. 25, and 30, making three applications in all. Left 17 acres as a check to the poisoning three applications in all. Left 17 acres as a check poison of calcium arsenate, coxting 11 cents per pound, on the 17 acres. These 17 poisoned acres yielded 13 bales, while the 24 unpoisoned acres yielded 8 bales. Mr. Neely thus estimates his increase due to poisoning at 5 bales on the 17 acres.

S. H. Jones, Elberton, Ga.: Poisoned 16 acres, using 600 pounds of calcium arsenate, coxting $78, and gathered 11 bales from this area. After comparing with the surrounding crops, estimates an increase of 5 bales on the 5 acres which produced 5 bales. Left 15 acres untreated as a check and these produced to bales, while the 24 unpoisoned acres yielded 13 bales, while the 24 unpoisoned acres witch produced 5 bales. Left 15 a in spite of this he made 22 bales on the 25 acres, while an adjoining 30-acre tract which was unpoisoned made only 2 bales. Mr. Vinson states he is sure he would not have made over 5 or 6 bales without poisoning.

J. T. Prittard, Winterville, Ga.: Treated 26 acres in all, 22 acres being dusted five times, and yielded 18 bales, while 4 acres dusted only two times yielded 2 bales.

John Mosley, Alken, S. C.: Poisoned 9 acres, starting on June 15. Used 360 pounds of poison. Almost daily rains throughout July, and estimates that rain reduced crop at least 25 per cent regardless of boil weevil. Picked 7 bales averaging 515 pounds each from the 9 acres. Adjoining cuts yield 1 bale to 3 acres. The adjoining farm averaged 3 bales to 10 acres. Consequently the contrast between poisoned and unpoisoned cotton is that between seven-ninths of a bale per acre.

T. K. Pitts, Florence, S. C.: Treated 150 acres of Webber 49 long-staple cotton. Used a 1920 Iron Age cart duster and made three applications, seven days apart, starting on July 10. In addition about 75 acres received a fourth application. Used 4.600 pounds of poison. First two applications were immediately washed off by rain. Yield was 50 bales of long staple on the 150 acres. Unpoisoned checks showed gain of 300 pounds of seed cotton per acre from poisoning. Adjoining farm, not poisoned, made less than 300 pounds of seed cotton per acre. Young's Pedigreed Seed Co., Timmonsville, S. C.: Treated 10 acres with a 1921 model C Niagara cart duster. Five acres were poisoned three times and 5 acres seven times. Poisoning started June 25, and averaged seven days apart. Yield was 15 bales on the 16 acres. Check plat showed increase of 69 and 236 pounds of lint per acre in two poisoned areas over unpoisoned.

J. F. Dalton, Bradley, S. C.: Poisoned 3 acres and left a check of 3 acres. June 16 acres. Check plat showed increase of 69 and 236 pounds of lint per acre in two poisoned areas over unpoisoned.

J. F. Dalton, Bradley, S. C.: Crease and left a check of 3 acres. The poison arsenate (Sherwin-Williams brand), costing me 20 cents, equal $60. As to the cost of applying same, am sure $25 would cover that, making about $85 or $3 per acre. I needed one more application, but the rains had set in and I did not try to get any more polson. I am satisfied that the poisoning doubled my crop, which means $700 worth of cotton for $85 spent to fight the weevil. I only made on the same land two years ago I bale on 15 acres."

W. L. Bouler. Thomasville, Ala: For experimental purposes Mr. Bouler divided 8 acres of cotton into three comparable parts. The treatment and results with these were as follows: Plat 1, 5 acres in extent, received five applications, one every week, starting June 2. Used 8 pounds of calcium arsenate for each application, making a total of 200 pounds, which cost $34. The cost of the fertilizer and sodd for the 5 acres was $75. Total cost of labor making crop on the 5 acres was $62. Cost of picking, $43. Rental of the land, $25. Total cost of crop of 15 acres, $240.30. Made 1.750 pounds of seed cotton per acre, which sold lint and seed for $691.50. Net profit on acres, $451.20.

Total cost of crop of 15 acres, $240.50. Made 1.750 pounds of seed cotton per acre, which sold lint and seed for $691.50. Net profit on acres, $451.20.

Pat No. 2, 2 acres in extent. Made three applications at seven day-time intervals. Cost of calcium arsenate on 2 acres, $8.50. Cost of fertilizer, $19.20. Cost of labor, $23. Rental of land, $10. Total cost on 2 acres, $60.70. Made 720 pounds of seed cotton per acre. Crop from 2 acres sold for $104.65. Net profit on 2 acres was $43.85.

Plat No. 3, 1 acre in extent. Not poisoned but otherwise fertilized and treated just the same as plats 1 and 2. Cost of fertilizer, $9.60. Cost of labor, $12.50. Rental of land, $5. Total cost for producing crop, $27.10. Yield was 273 pounds of seed cotton per acre, which sold for $20.82. Net loss, $6.28.

Comparing these three plats we see that from his season's operation Mr. Bouler secured the following results: Unpoisoned cotton showed a net loss of $6.28 an acre. Cotton poisoned three times, a net profit of $21.92 an acre. Cotton poisoned five times showed a net profit of $90.24 an acre.

Mr. Bollier secured the following results: Unpossoned cotton showed a net profit of $21.92 an acre. Cotton poisoned five times showed a net profit of $90.24 an acre.

M. J. Drinkard, Thomasville, Ala.: This gentleman furnished only a few figures, but states that he poisoned 2 acres, and that he figures his net profit from poisoning these 2 acres was $34.40, or an average of $17.20 an acre.

G. G. Alexander, Erwin, Miss.: Treated 110 acres with a 1921 mode C Niagara cart duster. Made three applications, starting on the 6th or 7th of August. Average yield was one-half bale per acre, while surrounding crops with the same cultivation made not to exceed one-fourth of a bale per acre without poisoning. The cost of the treatment for the season was between $4 and $5 per acre.

Dr. H. A. Gamble, Greenville, Miss.: Poisoned 150 acres, starting about July 1. Made five applications, using two Iron Age cart dusters. Crop averaged fully one-half bale per acre, while 14 measured acres yielded 11 bales. "It is my belief that if I had not poisoned I would not have made more than 1 bale to 10 acres. In 1916, without poisoning, I made only 4 bales on 80 acres." The cost was $6.55 per acre for the season, including depreciation on dusting machines.

Fallback Plantation, Scott, Miss.: Poisoned 20 acres, starting latter part of June with at least 90 per cent of the squares punctured at time of starting. Made four applications with Iron Age cart duster. Yield averaged one-half bale per acre of iong staple cotton. Adjacent land of same character unpoisoned yielded 1 bale to every 5 acres.

W. W. Worthington, Wayside, Miss.: Poisoned 125 acres with an Iron Age cart duster, starting July 15. Three applications were made. Yield was approximately three-fourths of a bale per acre, while surrounding unpoisoned cotton under same conditions yielded not more than one-half bale per acre.

Stanley Henshaw, Greenville, Miss. (James G. Lusk, manager): Poisoned 100 acres and left 10 acres unpoisoned as a check. Began early in June and made two appl on their results, but their letter is quoted from its interest in another connection.

"We are very much gratified with the apparent results of the poisoning, and our tests have attracted the attention of a number of plantations in our neighborhood, many of whom will probably try poisoning next year in the usual slip-shod manner and be disappointed with the results."

Rogecs, Jacobs & Co., Stringtown, Bolivar County, Miss.: Poisoned 20 acres with an Iron Age cart duster, starting about July 13. Per cent of weevil injury when poisoning begun, "not less than 90 per cent," Made four applications when weather was favorable for poisoning. Yield one-half bale per acre of long-staple cotton. Yield on adjacent land of same character but not poisoned "about 1 bale to every 5 acres." Results. "very satisfactory." "Never intend to raise cotton here again without poisoning."

Delta & Pine Land Co. of Mississippi, Scott, Miss.: For several years this firm has been poisoning practically all of the weevil-infested area of their crop, and they usually plant from about sixteen to eighteen thousand acres in cotton. No figures have been secured on the season's operation as a whole, but this firm uses approximately 100 tons of calcium arsenate annually and operate over 60 cart dusters, together with quite a number of hand guns. They have furnished interesting information on a few places where definite records were kept. In one case, on Fox plantation, a large cut of cotton was divided with 122 acres poisoned and 165 acres left unpoisoned as a check. The following is their tabulation of the results:

Acres poisoned. Acres not poisoned. Difference per acre.	122 165	Pounds. 4,158 2,808	Pounds. 340 170 170	Pounds. 680 340 340

R. O. Zeliner, Arkansas City, Ark.: Poisoned 450 acres, Left 200 acres unpoisoned. Started about July 25 making three and four applications 1 week to 10 days apart. Used eight Warlo 1-mule machines, Infestation averaged about 70 per cent when poisoning was started. Rains interfered with all applications except the first. Average yield of poisoned area more than one-half bule per acre. One tenant overaged a bale per acre by poisoning regularly regardless of weather, immediately renewing applications washed off by rain, and repeating all applications every four days. Unpoisoned cotton adjoining his crop with the same cultivation made only one-fourth bale per acre. "With my experience with poison believe 1 can make 1 bale to the acre regardless of weavell." Cost of poisoning $4.50 per acre for the season.

Dr. W. L. Banks, Hamburg, Ark.: One tenant poisoned 12 acres, starting July 12, and made 5 bales. Another tenant adjoining with land slightly better did not poison and made 4 bales on 22 acres.

H. H. Naff, Portland, Ark.: Poisoned 58 acres, starting July 15. Infestation at time of beginning was highest known, ranging from 10 to 85 per cent. Two, three, and four applications were made on different portions of the tract, five to seven days, using a 1-mule Warlduster. The 58 acres yielded from one-third to 1 bale per are, and for acres, with same soil and cultivation but not poisoned, made 25 per cent less than the poisoned crop, and averaged about 1 bale to every 4 and 5 acres.

Ben F. Fearing, Hamburg, Ark.: Poisoned 16 acres, starting with an infestation of 20 per cent. Made three applications on July 7, 11, and 16; using ideal 1-mule machine and hand guns. Yield of poisoned plat one-half bale per acre. Tield of check plat one-seventh bale per acre. The cost was about $4$ per acre, including poison at 15 cents per pound, labor, and dusting machines.

W. S. Warner, Lacompte, La.: Infestation at time of starting heaviest ever seen. First test had a check unpoisoned plat of 8 acres, which yielded 3 bales, while th calcium arsenate. Estimateu total cost of possion acre.

J. B. Cooper, Alexandria, La.: Infestation was 75 per cent or higher when poisoning was started and this was reduced to 40 per cent by poisoning. Crop was planted late and stand was poor. Treated 60 acres four to five times, starting July 20, using Warlo 1-horse machine. The poisoned area yielded from one-third to one-half bale per acre, while the unpoisoned check crops yielded from one-fifth to one-fourth bale per acre. Applied about 18 pounds of calcium arsenate per acre during the season. Paid 20 cents per pound for this. Estimated total court new acre $6.

during the season. Paid 20 cents per pound for this. Estimated total cost per acre $6.

D. Fortner, Madison Parish, La.: Poisoned 15 acres of long-staple cotton four times from July 15 to August 15. Weevil infestation so heavy at time of starting that no blooms were present. Yield was 8 bales on 15 acres, while check plat yielded one-third of a bale per acre. Made four applications from July 15 to August 15 on 3 acres of a tract surrounded by woods where infestation was complete and early. Yield was one bale per acre, while check plat yielded between one-third and one-half bale per acre.

Sixteen acres were poisoned three times by the Negro tenants. This tract in 1920 yielded one-sixteenth of a bale per acre, while in 1921 it yielded 8 bales or one-half hale per acre.

In all this work an Iron Age cart duster was used and Sherwin-Williams calcium arsenate. The cost of the poison was $1.59 an acre for the season.

yielded 8 bales or one-hall this work an Iron Age cart duster was used and Sherwin-Williams calcium arsenate. The cost of the poison was $1.59 an acre for the season.

Hobson & Fricke, Mound, La.: Started poisoning when infestation reached 10 per cent and attempted to hold this infestation at that figure or lower for the next few weeks. Treated 22 acres of Express long-staple cotton and from this picked an average of 1,500 pounds of seed cotton per acre. Cuts just across the turn row in the same field, but unpoisoned, yielded only 600 pounds of seed cotton per acre, thus giving an average gain by poisoning of approximately 900 pounds of long-staple cotton per acre. The total cost for poisoning was $60, or slightly less than $3 an acre.

W. C. Cole, Kilbourne, La.: Had 33 acres in cotton, 23 of which were planted April 12 to 20, and 10-from May 22 to 25. By July 1 the cotton was from 18 to 36 inches in height with no blooms present, and it was impossible to find an unpunctured square. Two hundred pounds of calcium arsenate and one Feeny handgun was ordered. This was delayed in shipment and did not arrive until July 14, so dusting was started on the 15th. Found handgun operation on foot too laborious, so rode mule back, dividing night's work between self and wife, but when it did made two more applications at a short-time interval, thus three applications were made, starting with a complete infestation and with a time interval of about 10 days between the first and second. In spite of this the cotton began blooming again and yielded 18 bales on the 33 acres. This, Mr. Cole states, was practically entrely made by poison, as he had set no crop before he started poisoning. His investment for poison was about $150, and the crop he made was worth over $1,500.

Lee F. Freeman, Mercedes, Tex.: This gentleman gives a lengthy and interesting detailed report of his experience in calcium arsenate dusting extending over a period of three years, and the following abstracts: "In 1919, after my cotton was almost destroyed by a of the atorn damage the weevils would destroy it. I made many mistakes that year, but smally succeeded in making about 10 bales on 80 acres of land, and at a rate of one-half bale per acre on part of the field. My neighbor, under the same conditions, except with poison left off, gathered 50 pounds of seed cotton per acre. This convinced me that poisonias could be made profitable, and I made further experiments in 1929, but weevil damage in that season was less than I have ever known. However, I made progress in the work and had become fully convinced of the efficacy of this method of controlling the weevil. Up to this time I had used everal different methods of applying arsenire."

that poisoning could be made profitable, and I made farther experiments in 1926, but weevil aimage in that season was less than I have ever known. However, I made progress in the work and had become ruly convinced of the efficacy of this method of controlling the weevil. Up to this time I had used several different methods of applying Mr. Freeman then declied to pinnt 50 acres for his 1921 crop, and of this treated 63 acres and left 15 acres untreated. The following is his description of the poisoning of this 65 acres:

"Because of many unfavorable circumstances this cotton planting was not begun until March II and finished more than a month later. I should have begun planting not later than February 18, or three weeks earlier, and you of course know what difference that makes in weevils appeared, and I do not think I ever saw them worse, season the weevils appeared, and I do not think I ever saw them worse, troubles we had local showers, which made them worse, My machine was not shipped according to instructions and reached ne 10 or 15 days late, or after infestation had become general over my field. This late beginning, the hindrance from showers, and the necessity of repeating applications because of the rains made my poisoning more expensive than it would otherwise have been. Much of this cotton was dusted six or eight times, but later you will see the why and where of some of this dusting."

On this 65 acres Mr. Freeman gathered 65 bales of long-staple cotton, while on the 15 ampoisoned acres but 5 bales were gathered, or only while on the 16 ampoisoned acres but 5 bales were gathered, or only while on the 16 ampoisoned acres but 5 bales were gathered, or only while on the 16 ampoisoned acres hut 5 bales were gathered, or only while on the 16 ampoisoned acres hut 5 bales were gathered, or only while on the 16 ampoisoned acres hut 5 bales were gathered, or only mile on the 16 are and thus has a minimum amount of cold winter washes. House bill No. 4.

EXTENSION OF REMARKS

HON. LON A. SCOTT, OF TENNESSEE.

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES, Thursday, February 2, 1922.

Mr. SCOTT of Tennessee. Mr. Speaker, as a member of the committee which reported the Spanish-American War and Boxer Rebellion widows' and orphans' pension bill, I am delighted to be permitted the honor of recording my hearty approval of its meritorious provisions.

This bill extends the generous and sympathetic hand of this great Government to the needy and helpless dependents of the gallant sons who patriotically responded to the Nation's cell to in resources, has forgotten the dependents of her defenders, arms in 1898. It matters not whether the husbands and fathers of those for whom this bill provides reach the firing line or not; they volunteer their services; they offer their lives for their country's honor and oppressed humanity. They were ready for the command, "Forward, march," to meet the forces of the Spanish King, whose tyranny and despotism had appalled the world with his deeds of oppression to a humble and defenseless

At no time in the history of the Nation, excepting, perhaps, the Revolutionary War, have the sons of America shed their blood for a more righteons and honorable cause than that which prompted the Spanish-American War. It was a signal to the world that America stands for and will fight for a square deal to humanity

This bill is worthy of the support of every Member of this House. Under this act widows of soldiers of the Spanish-American War and Boxer Rebellion are to receive $20 per month and children of the deceased soldiers $4 per month until they reach the age of 16. Heretofore these widows received the pitiful sum of $12 per month and children the shameful and insignificant amount of $2 per mouth.

Can it be urged with the slightest reason that this increase is not justified? Who would dare to challenge the justice of this increase? If the committee which reported this bill is to be censured let us hope it will be for its failure to recommend a larger sum. Permit me here to congratulate the Spanish-American War veterans for the considerate and patriotic manner in which they have presented and urged the claims of widows and orphans of their deceased comrades. Conscious of the heavy burdens bearing low the shoulders of the American people, as a result of the late World War, they come not commanding the Congress of the United States, but earnestly and urgently appealing that their deceased comrades' dependent widows and orphans may receive a more adequate and just pension.

Mr. Speaker, much has been said about the provisions of this act providing a pension for the Spanish-American War nurses. who ministered to the wounded on the field of battle and the sick in camp during the ravages of the horrible yellow-fever epidemic, which was so prevalent, bringing death to thousands of American soldiers.

I can not resist the opportunity to express my sincere approval of this particular feature of the bill. Failure to provide for these splendid women, who with no thought of future finan-cial reward lazarded their lives, endangered their health and happiness, that they might brighten the last moments of wounded and dying soldiers, and soothed the fevered brows of poor, unfortunate victims of that terrible epidemic, would be, Mr. Speaker, a national disgrace and a humiliating shame.

Ah, it has been urged that they were not regularly and legally inducted into the service, and for that reason the Government is under no obligations to them. Far be it from me to ever insist that this country is not under obligations to the woman who jeopardized her health and life to help save the lives of the sons of America who dare to defend the Stars and Stripes. It is to the everlasting credit of the noble womanhood of America that their unfaltering devotion and their coura-geous and self-sacrificing heroism have always been an inspiration to the men of our Nation in every national and international conflict.

Mr. Speaker, the Spanish-American War veteran organization has always been conservative in their requests of Congress, and I sincerely hope that their wishes in this instance may be realized.

Dewey's famous naval victory at Manila Bay, Roosevelt's heroic charge at San Juan Hill, placed America on the map as a world power and as a nation which dared to protect the defenseless and preserve the rights of civilization. National pride will not permit us to fail to indicate our gratitude for these glorious and outstanding military achievements. much better can we express our appreciation than to tender our country's Treasury to the orphans and widows of these patriotic defenders of honor and liberty. I believe the country will approve this measure. The principle of protecting the dependents of our Nation's defenders, the policy of national charity to the helpless widows and orphans of these brave heroes who liberated an oppressed and tyrannized people, deserves the generous approval of the Republic whose national banner they victoriously hoisted on Cuban and Phillippine

Let us fervently hope and earnestly pray that it may never be truthfully said that America, rich in tradition, inexhaustible whose flag they have never permitted to trail in the dust.

OF

HON. OLGER B. BURTNESS,

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES,

Saturday, February 11, 1922.

Mr. BURTNESS. Mr. Speaker, under the leave granted to extend my remarks in the Record, I insert a statement made by myself before the House Committee on Agriculture January 31, 1922, as follows:

STATEMENT OF O. B. BURTNESS, REPRESENTATIVE IN CONGRESS FROM THE FIEST DISTRICT OF NORTH DAKOTA, BEFORE THE AGRICULTURAL COMMITTEE OF THE HOUSE JANUARY 31, 1922, CONSIDERING LEGISLA-TION FOR THE STABILIZATION OF FARM PRODUCTS.

Mr. Burtness. Mr. Chairman and gentlemen, I would like to say at the outset that I rather regret that we are breaking in on this hearing without allowing Mr. Lyon, of Sioux Falls, S. Dak., to finish his argument, but in view of the fact that he could not be here to-day, I presume that such course is for the convenience of all. I should have preferred to hear the balance of his argument before I made such remarks as I desire to make on this particular legislation, or rather on legislation of this sort in general.

Inasmuch as this is my first appearance before this particular committee, it might not be out of place to say that I represent the eastern district of North Dakota, constituting, roughly, probably a little less than one-fourth of the State.

Considerable has been said here about the rights of producers and consumers. I represent the one district in the State where the producers and consumers are almost equal in number, as we usually refer to those designations. In my district are located the two largest cities in the State, also another of considerable size, in all of which union labor is well organized, and where persons generally designated as consumers reside. Of course, all of our business men in our towns, while by some considered as consumers, are primarily dependent upon the welfare of the farmers in the State—there is no question about that—so naturally our district and our State are intensely interested in proposed legislation of this sort.

I want to say at the outset, gentlemen, that I am not one

I want to say at the outset, gentlemen, that I am not one of those who feel that it is within the province of the Government or a part of governmental functions to guarantee prices as a permanent proposition to any industry. I am too much of an individualist to entertain notions of that sort. And I believe with that statement I can perhaps dispense with some of the questions which might otherwise be asked as to what should be done to guarantee profits here and there all along the line, in every line of industry—mining, manufacturing, merchandising—guaranteeing returns of laborers, and so forth and so on. I have enough confidence in the future to believe that eventually things will addust themselves.

I am one of those who believe that the greatest difficulty in our agricultural communities to-day is not so much here in America as it is over in Europe, and when conditions over there adjust themselves partially, and especially when the rate of exchange between our Nation and other nations is adjusted somewhat, not back to what it was in prewar days, but at least adjusted somewhat, that in itself will cure many of these evils, for while we think that our farm produce is selling very low at the present time, if we look at it from the standpoint of the German, the Italian, the Frenchman, or even the Englishman, who look at the cost of our farm products in terms of their own money, why we can, of course, realize that prices over there seem awfully high to them, even though they are low to us.

I feel that if legislation such as is being considered at the present time is advisable, or can be put through Congress at all, it must be on the theory that it is necessary to meet the existing emergency. If we are really in a desperate emergency, then I think we are entitled to ask that some precedents be smashed. I think that we are entitled to say that if we can figure out some sort of legislation which will help out in this emergency, it is justified, even though it might not be justified as an economic proposition permanently. So it seems to me that the first question to be determined is to find out whether or not such emergency actually does exist.

I do not know much about the condition of the country, except in the wheat-growing regions. Others can tell you what the conditions are elsewhere. I do know this, that the financial condition of our farmers is most acute, and their feelings most intense. It is not pleasant for them to go into a cheap restaurant and find that they have to pay as much for a dish of oatmeal there as they can get for an entire bushel of oats. It is only natural that it irritates them when they go to buy a pair of shoes and find out that in order to pay for that pair of shoes they have to haul just as many hides to market as they can get into their jitney or on top of their buckboard. Or when they sell their lambs or ewes that they get about as much per head, wool, hide, and all, as a few cutlets would cost them over the counter in a butcher shop, not to say what they would cost them in a restaurant.

But these are generalities, and let me be more specific and see what is the situation. I want to submit to you this morning a few figures which I believe no one can dispute as to the cost of the production of wheat as nearly as it can be ascertained in our spring-wheat area at least. I will file a table which I would like to have inserted in the record, and I will pass a few of these around to the members of the committee:

Acre costs, spring wheat, North Dakota.

(The foregoing figures for 1919 and 1920 are prepared by the farmmanagement department of the North Dakota Agricultural College from the actual records of 619 farmers scattered throughout the State. The 1921 figures are in part estimates, as complete tabulations have not as yet been made.)

These are figures for the years 1919, 1920, and 1921. The figures for 1919 and 1920 have been prepared by the farmmanagement department of the Agricultural College of North Dakota, and are based on records of 619 farms scattered through tife State on which the farmers have kept records. About half of the farmers come from the eastern and the other half from the western part of our State. So the farms are pretty well distributed, so far as different crop yields of the State are concerned.

State are concerned.

Now, you will notice that in the table details are given, including the use of land—the rental value of the land—the seed, man labor, board, horse labor, machinery, twine, manure, threshing, management, crop insurance, and miscellaneous.

You will note from the tables that in 1919 the figure estimating the production cost per bushel at that time was $2.75, the yield of our State that year being low, 7.1 bushels throughout the State per acre.

In 1920, when costs on the whole were higher than they were in 1919, the cost of production was less than in 1919, namely, $2.45, due to the fact that the yield was something more than 2 bushels per acre greater—9.4 bushels per acre in that season.

22.40, due to the fact that the yield was something more than 2 bushels per acre in that season. The figures given here for 1921 are based in part upon the records made by these same farmers, and in part on estimates, because the tabulations have not as yet been completed.

In 1919, as you will note, the total cost of production of an acre of wheat on the average was $20.54, in 1920 the cost was $23.12, and in 1921 the cost was $17.30. From the United States statistician of crop estimates, the agent of the Department of Agriculture located at Grand Forks, N. Dak., I learn that the average yield per acre this year is 8.3 bushels, making the cost per bushel $2.08.

Mr. Kinchelos. Well, these figures do not agree with those of the gentleman who just testified, when he said that he could make money by raising wheat at $1.25.

Mr. Burness. I want to say that Mr. Page is one of the very best farmers of our State. I believe he can raise wheat cheaper than 90 per cent of the farmers of the State. He is also in a better locality than the average of the farmers represented by these figures.

I want to submit a few more figures here that I think are quite authentic.

Mr. Ten Eyck. Let me ask you a question right there. You give the cost in 1921 of $17,30 per acre in raising wheat and threshing it, etc. Did you take the yield from off the same farms that the cost was obtained from, or did you take the average yield of your State?

Mr. Burness. These yields for 1919 and 1920 are the yields from these same farms and tally very closely with the average yield of the State, because of the fact that these farms were picked out throughout the State. So they are a fair average of the farms throughout the State. The yield for 1921—the figures are not yet complete—is the average yield for the State as a whole, as given to me by the representative of the Depart-ment of Agriculture at Grand Forks, N. Dak.

The CHAIRMAN. I had the impression that the average wheat yield for the State was larger than you have here.

Mr. Burtness. The variation is very slight from the average yield for the State. The average yield of our State in 1919 was a trifle lower than this figure-6.9 bushels per acre.

Mr. CLARKE, Mr. BURTNESS, would you consider that that land that did not yield but 7 bushels per acre over a series of years was really wheat land; that it could economically compete with other land?

Mr. Burtness. Well, some 15 or 20 years ago a yield of that kind could hardly be considered such, when the virgin soils were still found in many parts of the country, but now I think if you take the figures you will have to admit that it is, because I have here the figures of the Department of Agriculture, the Bureau of Markets and Crop Estimates, giving the average yield throughout the country for some of these years. And they are very little higher.

Mr. Voigt. Can you give us the average yield throughout the

Mr. Burtness. The average yield in 1919 throughout the country, as given in these figures, of spring wheat was 8.2; in 1920, 10.5; in 1921, 10.5. That is the country's yield.

The yield of the country as a whole on all crops is a great deal lower than people in general believe. You know, we do not hear so much about the poor crops when we talk about yields. The fellow that we hear about is the fellow that raises 20, 25, and 30 bushels of wheat to the acre, or that raises 100 to 200 bushels of potatoes to the acre, and so on, and so the general public often gets its idea of the average yield from hearing about those particular instances and does not take the average of the poor and the good together.

It is, of course, true that during all of these last few years our climatic conditions up there have been bad for raising wheat. This last season was too hot. The hot weather struck the country in June and July when our wheat was filling, with the result that our wheat was badly damaged. We had the best prospects that the State ever had, with the exception of one corner of it. In 1919 when the yield was low we had a very bad rust year when, prior to the coming of the rust, the prospects looked good.

Mr. Ten Eyck. Are you familiar with the cost system in Iowa? Mr. Burtness. No; I am not.

Mr. Ten Eyck. From my examinations and hearings I have attended I gather the impression that they have a very good cost system, and I was wondering if you had anything like that.

Mr. Burtness. I do not know about that.

Mr. TEN EYCK. Was this taken through the farm organiza-

Mr. Burtness. This was taken through the agricultural college. Mr. Rex Willard is at the head of this particular department. He used to be one of the farm agents of our county, and later went to the agricultural college which, in turn, of course, has its connections with the Department of Agriculture He occupies some official position in the Department of Agriculture also.

Mr. TEN EYCK. My idea in asking about this is to see how you get at these figures, because if they are authentic they are quite valuable.

Mr. Burness. Well, I do not think there is any question of authenticity. Of course, I did not keep the books or anything like that, but that is the report that we get as to the manner in which the figures are gotten together and tabulated by this department, which is not only representing our State agricultural college, but which is a part of the Federal Department of Agriculture.

Mr. SINCLAIR. These figures are authentic, and are accepted by other colleges.

Mr. Burtness. I have a letter here from Mr. Andrew A. Olson, of East Grand Forks, Minn., one of Congressman Steen-EBSON'S constitutents. This man. a splendid farmer, lives 3 miles southeast of East Grand Forks, Minn. He writes:

I operate 1,120 acres of land. In 1921 700 acres were seeded to grain; 95 acres, alfalfa; 90 acres, sweet clover; 100 acres, timothy; 30 acres, corn; 37 acres, potatoes; baiance, pasture. We keep 30 milch cows. Sell milk. Have lived here 43 years.

I knew his father before him. Now, he has detailed in this letter the figures for 1921. Remember, this man lives in the heart of the Red River Valley. I know his farm, and better land hardly lies out of doors. Conditions were splendid, except as I have heretofore suggested; that is, the hot weather came along while the wheat was filling, and seriously decreased the yield. I will leave with you here and want to make a part of the record a tabulation of the figures as I have taken them from his letter. They are not exactly the same items as have been used by the Department of Agriculture at our State college there, but in some ways they run very much the same. He charges $4.50 for the use of the land. I do not know what he had in mind, but it looks to me as if he had figured 6 per cent interest on the valuation of $75 per acre, and if that land is worth anything it is worth from $75 to $100 an acre.

The CHAIRMAN. In what locality is that?
Mr. Burtress. That is 3 miles southeast of East Grand Forks, Minn., between 2 and 3 miles from the banks of the Red River of the North.

You will note that his total figure there is $16.41 per acre.

Cost production spring wheat, Red River Valley, 1921.

(Wheat sold at 97 cents at time of threshing. Net loss, 83 cents per bushel, or $7.55 per acre. On 700 acres net loss $5,285.)

Mr. Burtness. In looking over Mr. Olson's figures I note that he has not made a charge for the use of machinery. Of course, everyone knows that machinery wears out, and that a farmer is justified in making a charge in figuring up the cost of production for the depreciation of machinery and repairs. He has a charge there for management and miscellaneous of $2 per acre, so it may be figured in as a part of that, although that charge is no higher than it is for management and miscella-

There is this difference between Mr. Olson's figures and the figures of the department. Mr. Olson includes the tax on the land, 98 cents per acre. The department has included the tax on the land as a part of the rental value, the theory of the department being that the rental value should include the taxes and upkeep of the buildings and things of that sort, and, of course, the average land covered by the department's report, taking the State as a whole, is less valuable than Mr. Olson's land, so that the charge for the land naturally would be less than the figure he gives.

Mr. Kincheloe. I have a good many farmers in my district who have lost in proportion on tobacco and corn and wheat—

Mr. Burness. I am going to come to that a little later, Mr. KINCHELOE, when I am going to suggest what I think ought to be done.

You will note that Mr. Olson's yield was 9.1 bushels per acre. The cost per bushel then was $1.80. At the time Mr. Olson threshed, wheat sold at the local elevators for 97 cents per bushel. That is a net loss of 83 cents per bushel, or $7.55 per acre. On the 700 acres his net loss would be $5,285.

Now, the estimate of the United States Bureau of Markets and Chen Burthage of the stronger in North Delected this neets.

and Crop Estimates of the acreage in North Dakota this past year was 8,827,000 acres; that is, wheat acreage. If farmer lost $7 an acre, there would be a loss there in that State alone of over $61,000,000.

I have just one more figure I want to submit to you-

Mr. TEN EYCK. How much wheat do you sow to the acre

Mr. Burtness. It depends somewhat upon the variety. should say anywhere from a bushel and a peck to a bushel and 3 pecks.

Mr. TEN EYCK. And it depends upon the time of the season?
Mr. BURTNESS. To a very small extent. Really there is only a period of about two weeks—at least that has been the case the last few years—when we can sow wheat and be assured that we will get a crop. The person who sows wheat in May might just as well not sow it at all. The durum wheat is a much coarser grain, and of course needs a little more

Mr. TEN EYOK. Is it injured very much by the Hessian fly?

Mr. Burtness. Not wheat; some years ago our flax was. Mr. TEN EYCK. That bothers us in our planting. We have to sow at certain seasons in order to get away from that insect.

Mr. Burrness. In the eastern part of the State we usually have plenty of rain. In my district, for instance, there is only one thing that seriously bothers us in raising our crop, and that is the hot winds that come in the summer, coupled with the If there were some way of plugging up the holes and keeping the hot winds out and preventing the rust-if every barberry bush could be cut down, and if other places where the rust spores seem to be able to live could be eradicated-I assure you that in the eastern half of the State we could show you an average of from 15 to 20 bushels per acre each year instead of from 8 to 10 bushels.

At a meeting of farmers at Gilby, N. Dak., on November 18, 1920, at which Mr. Willard, I believe—or at least one of the members of the department-was present, they figured out the cost of production during that year. That was a year ago this last season, after the season was over. The total acre cost, as they figured it at Gilby, in Grand Forks County, in a splendid farming community, was $24.64. The yield per acre was 11 bushels. The cost per bushel at that time was $2.24. With a similar yield this past season the cost would, of course, have been less, because there was a considerable reduction in labor and the cost of living-board, and things of that sort. But our farm machinery and many of the other things that we have to buy have not come down.

The CHAIRMAN, Mr. BURTNESS, as an experienced farmer and a practical man, of course you do not vouch for these figures that are submitted, do you? I mean, speaking as a practical business man and an experienced farmer. You know that the yield in your State has been running from 11 to 12 bushels to the acre?

Mr. Burtness. A very few years ago it did; yes. The Chairman. Very well. They have been losing, then, from $5 to $10 an acre?

Mr. BURTNESS. Many of them are: the bulk of them are.

The CHAIRMAN. And some of them are not?

Mr. BURTNESS. I want to tell you, Mr. Chairman and gentlemen, what in my judgment has saved many of them-what has protected them so that they can still remain upon the farms. That is the fact that they have been to some extent interested in dairying. The question has been asked here, Why not guarantee the dairy business, and so on?

The CHAIBMAN. Well, you have farmers in your district-I know a lot of them-practical, successful farmers, that never had a dairy, and they are worth considerable money.

Mr. BURTNESS. That is true.

The CHAIRMAN. And their average of production has been about the same as anywhere else, their expenses have been about the same, and still they have been making money. So I say that these figures can not be accepted as accurate.

Mr. Buntness. There are such cases scattered here and there throughout the State. But I challenge you, Mr. Chairman, or any member of this committee, to point out a single one of those men who came anywhere near meeting expenses during the past at from 40 to 50 cents.

The CHARMAN. I recall when you people were selling wheat

Mr. CLARKE. Do not the statistics show that in North Dakota they have a greater number of automobiles per capita than in any other State in the Union?

Mr. BURTNESS. I want to answer the chairman's question first. The past season was not what you would call a favorable season, yet we have had lots of seasons that have been worse as far as yield is concerned. But we have never had a season when the price that the farmers could receive for their cereal products was as low in comparison with the cost of production as in 1921. The emergency following the 1921 crop is greater than it has You will note from these figures-these average figures, which include some of the poor land as well as the good-that the cost of production during 1919 and 1920 was about what we got for our wheat. I am one of those who be-lieve that when we get the cost of production, including the rental value of the land and including compensation for the labor that is put upon it, we are getting along pretty well. We would not make any profit upon the investment, but we would make a small return or interest upon the money that we have invested in our lands, because that is included as a part of the rental value of our land, and we would be paid in the same way a laborer is paid for the amount of work that we do upon the

The CHAIRMAN. Let us get this cleared up. I do not want to insert figures and estimates that are, as I think, entirely mis-leading. Here you have an experienced farmer who is farming you can not rent it for half of that.

a large tract of land. He says he can grow wheat at a profit at $1.25

Mr. Burtyess. You must remember, Mr. Chairman, that these figures that I have given include the peak years, the years of highest easts.

The CHAIRMAN. They are simply figures; that is all. practical man knows that they can not and do not go on raising wheat at a cost of $2.75 and sell it at $1 and continue in business for any length of time.

Mr. Burtness. That has not as yet been done in my State. The CHAIRMAN. If you want the figures, the official figures, for all the years, I will give them to you. The yield is practically the game We know what the prices have been. have been growing wheat on an extensive scale and you as a practical business man know that the figures that are presented here are not to be relied upon.

Mr. BURTNESS. Mr. Chairman, I think there is a misapprehension in your mind as to what we have been getting for our grain in the past years.

The CHARMAN. I know. I have been selling it right in your

State for the past 20 years. Mr. BURTNESS. Theu you do know. But listen: In 1920 we were not selling our wheat for less than a dollar a bushel; we received from $2 to $2.40 during the threshing season. Later it was less.

The CHARMAN. Oh, that is a different thing.

Mr. Burtness. These highest figures of production costs are in 1919 and 1920; in 1919 there was a fixed Government price. If there had not been a fixed Government price during the war the ordinary law of supply and demand would have paid us a great deal more for wheat than we received. Everybody concedes that. So that, I think, is the real situation. Now, I know something about raising wheat, because for the last 10 years I have owned farm lands out there. During all that time I have had the land rented there.

The CHAIRMAN. I know; your father was one of the pioneers

Mr. Bureness, Yes. During the last three years I have stock and machinery. I know something about this, and I want to say to you that the figures submitted are as nearly right for the past few years as you can get figures.

Now, you want to understand this, that if we could have had a yield of 2 or 3 or 4 bushels more per acre the cost of production per bushel would have decreased very, very rapidly. The total cost of production per acre would remain approxi-nestely the same.

The CHAIRMAN. Now, Mr. BURTNESS, I would like to see something done, but it is clear that if we are going to accept these figures as the basis of what we do we might as well quit now, because it would bankrupt the country.

Mr. Burtness. I am not asking you to use these figures as the basis for your future legislation or as a guide to such instrumentality of the Government as might be given the authority to set the price, because each season must stand or fall upon the particular conditions of that season. Everyone must admit that the tendency is downward in the cost of products that the farmer The figures that have been given you here by Mr Page buys. show that labor is costing less than in 1919 and 1920. not know as yet what people will have to pay for their labor in 1922 The figures that I have given you here, the figures from Mr. Olson, for instance—I think you know him; I think he came from your State, Mr. Chairman. His figures show a total cost of $16.41 for 1921, as compared with the figures given by the department of $20.54 in 1919 and $23.12 in 1920.

The CHAIRMAN. In making up that $16.41 the man labor is only $1.98. He has got his horses in there and all of those things. Let me call your attention to these figures. They are simply figures prepared by somebody in the State there. Here is a man growing wheat. He knows exactly what he is talking about. Here is Mr. Olson, a farmer, right across the line. Now, his estimate of his cost is $16.41. According to your department it is $20.54. I want to get these things straightened out, so we will know what figures we are going to accept.

Mr. Burtness. Mr. Chairman, you have unintentionally mis-The figures of the department for 1921 stated the figures. are $17.80, not $20.54. The figures given by Mr. Olson are $16.41. That is a very slight difference, especially in view of the fact that the department's figures extend over all of the State and include much poorer land than that constituting

Mr. Olson's farm.

Mr. Burtness. How much do you think a person ought to be able to get for an improved farm with buildings on it, and so forth, per acre if it is worth about $100 per acre?

The CHAIRMAN. I would be glad to see him get $5 for it.

Mr. BURTNESS. Lots of the farmers will have mortgages against their land aggregating, say, 40 or 50 per cent of the value of the land. Take the $75 land with a mortgage of only $20 accepts it several to $100 per cent of the value of the land. $30 against it, carrying 7 per cent interest. It will take $2.10 an acre to take care of the interest charge alone upon the mortgage against that land. And no one will say that that is an especially top-heavy mortgage. And, of course, if the farmer is going to exist he has got to be able to pay his taxes and his interest charges at least, regardless of whether he gets anything for the rental value of his land or not.

The CHAIRMAN. My object in raising this question is to see if we can come together on some common ground and come to some understanding as to what might be the price to be fixed. Have you a suggestion as to that? Of course, if you are using these figures there is a big difference.

Mr. Burtness. I want to say this, that the tendency is downward. I have here and I expect to file with the committee a demand from the executive committee of the Nonpartisan League of our State demanding $2.20 per bushel, and I have the resolutions of the Tri-State Grain Growers, an organization of conservative, practical farmers, meeting annually, demanding $2 per bushel. Yet I am frank to say to you that with the downward tendency I would not expect the Government to establish that sort of price.

In my own judgment, basing it simply upon my own experience and my general information, I believe that the cost of production during 1921, this past season, within that territory where wheat can ordinarily be profitably grown, or should be profitably grown in ordinary years and times—eliminating those parts of our States, particularly in the Southwest, where I do not think wheat can ever be raised profitably except perhaps one year out of ten—I believe the cost of production this last season ranged from $1.50 to $2 per bushel. Let us have Mr. Page's estimate on that for last year. I am not saying that it will be the same this year.

Mr. Page. It is right around $1.50 to $1.55. This is the first year in 20 years that I have lost money farming.

Mr. Burtness, Mr. Olson's figure was $1.80.

Mr. Page. This is for my own farm.
Mr. Burtness. What do you think it would be on the average?

Mr. Page. I think the average is more than that. I will say this, that in running my farm I have run a threshing machine, on which I have made some money on the outside. I figure in the whole business, including raising cattle and hogs and those things; that all goes into that farming business, and it is all bunched in there together; and it is pretty hard to tell just what a bushel of wheat cost. But this is the first time in 20 years that I have run my farm and lost money. It cost me $5,000 to run that farm this year.

Mr. Burtness. I want to corroborate Mr. Page, to this effect: If our railroad rates are lowered, if there is a reduction in what we pay for farm labor, if there is a substantial reduction in the cost of our farm machinery and other things we have to buy, and if we can get a crop that will average up to what it was a few years ago, then in the better parts of our State the cost of production of wheat for the coming season may not exceed $1.25 per bushel. But remember that to-day we are selling our wheat in the State of North Dakota for as low as 60 and 65 cents in many parts of the State; that is, our durum wheat. Our marquis wheat is higher than that. The spread wheat. Our marquis wheat is higher than that. The spread between marquis and durum is something that has hurt us During the war the two wheats were selling out immensely. there for the same price.

Mr. CLARKE. Are you doing anything out there toward carrying your wheat over at all?

Mr. Burtness. The farmer in North Dakota has not been able to carry his wheat over; he has had to sell in order to meet his taxes and interest on his mortgage, or try to meet them. There is very little wheat left, in my judgment, in the hands of the producers.

Mr. KINCHELOE. Mr. BURTNESS, I want to get your idea about this bill. Take it for granted for the time being that your figures are correct. The farmers in Kentucky, I believe, raise more different kinds of commodities than the farmers in probably any other State in the Union. They raise wheat, they raise hay, they raise tobacco, they raise stock of all kinds, and they are in the same predicament that your farmers are in. Over in Mr. Williams's district, just across the line, I suppose they raise everything they raise in Kentucky except tobacco. There is not any doubt about our farmers being in a serious predicament. Now, I would like to know what your idea about this legislation is. None of the products of Kentucky are mentioned in Mr. SINCLAIR'S bill at all. What legislation would you suggest?

Mr. Burtness. I was just coming to that; that was my next step in the argument—as to what I feel the Government slould do at this time. I feel that there are a few crops that are basic crops-more staple than the rest of them-and that the prices of all farm products, to some extent at least, follow the prices for the few staple crops. As I view the situation, those staple crops include wheat, corn, and cotton, and possibly others, but particularly those three.

I feel that if the emergency is as great in the cotton district and the corn districts as it is in the wheat-growing districtsand I rather think it is-I feel the situation is such that we can smash a few precedents and have the Government come in and say that for the protection not only of the farmers but of all the people of this country, for the building up of our business interests, and to diminish our unemployment, we can afford to take a chance for two years and establish a minimum price at which the Government will be ready to buy the surplus that remains in this country after the general marketing season is

Mr. Clarke. You do not mean to say, Mr. Burtness, that corn and wheat and cotton are any more basic than milk and butter and eggs?

Mr. Burtness. I have already referred to the fact that, so far as our dairying industry is concerned, it is not suffering. the one thing that has saved many of the farmers of Minne-sota and North Dakota. If the prices of some of these other products can be established, I think the prices of those that are, perhaps, to many individuals, just as important will to some extent follow them.

Mr. TEN EYCK. Why is it that dairying interests are not suffering?

Mr. Burtness. I can not explain the reason for it. I rather think it is partly because of the fact that there are not so many people interested in it, that they have been able to conthat they have been able to control their prices a little bit better than the wheat farmers and the corn farmers, who must simply sell their product for the market price, whatever it is. That is, they are able to control it to a large extent where they distribute within adjoining cities, etc. They have better organization, and so on. I think It is an easier industry to organize. I am not giving that as the sole reason, or anything of that sort, but I rather feel that it is one of the factors that enter into the matter.

Mr. Ten Eyck. On account of their organization? Mr. Burtness. Partially so, at least. Mr. Kincheloe. You talk about basic crops. Well, we raise, as I say, probably more different commodities than any other State, but the money crop for the farmers in Kentucky Possibly our tobacco is not necessary for subsistence, but it is necessary for the welfare of those farmers who raise tobacco. And I will say to you incidentally that if you cut out the tobacco crop the Government will lose millions of dollars of revenue that they are collecting from the consumer with which to pay this loss.

Mr. Burtness. I am not claiming that tobacco should not be considered as one of the crops if you determine on legislation of that sort. With reference to such legislation, I doubt whether it would be good policy to adopt the so-called Christopherson bill, which is based upon the idea of making this a permanent proposition. I do feel that there are many things in the Christopherson bill that are right and that will appeal to the fairness of the public and should be considered.

For instance, there is the method of determining for each particular year what the cost of production is. To turn that matter over to the Department of Agriculture, the Department of Commerce, and the Department of Labor, representing all the various lines of industry in this country, seems to me to be eminently fair. Some agency must be established. I, for one, do not care whether the United States Grain Corporation is revived or some other agency is established. I do say that there is absolutely no necessity, whatever agency is established, of doing what was done during the war—the Government stand-ing ready to buy all of the crop of the country, and by this very complex system of licensing, and so forth, having the Government behind each and every transaction. I do not think we need that much governmental interference in our business in order to bring about the results that are desired in this case as an emergency proposition. I believe that along those lines the theory of the Christopherson bill is absolutely right, and that all we have to do is to have the Government stand ready to buy the surplus. In the wheat districts, for instance, if the Government stood ready to buy the 1922 crop between May and August of 1923 the matter could be taken care of very nicely. If the price is determined some time during the growing season, when they will know more about what the attuation will be, when they have the estimates of the crop statisticians, who estimate fairly closely what the yield is going to be, and when they will know the cost of production pretty well, they can then determine the price. The proper agency of the Gov-ernment can then determine what will be a fair price for the wheat and other crops included in the legislation, and the Government could take over the surplus that would not otherwise be used up.

We are raising in this country something more than 800,000,000 bushels of wheat a year, if I remember correctly. The exportable surplus is usually from 15 to 20 per cent of the total We will say it is 150,000,000. Assume that the United States Government would have to buy that 150,000,000 bushels. I am not for a great big high price or anything of that sort. I want that price reasonably low. I do not want a price that will simply aggravate the conditions, one that will build up an enormous surplus of wheat or that will start land speculation or anything of that sort.

Now, suppose we did buy 150,000,000 bushels of wheat, and suppose we lost 33 cents a bushel on it, or something of that sort, what would it amount to? It would amount to $50,-000,000—the exact amount that the Government of the United States made upon wheat which it bought from the farmers during the war. And as your chairman has so well suggested here this morning, the wheat farmers of this country, because of the fact that the prices were guaranteed during the war lost hundreds of millions of dollars. I would not call it a Government steal; it was not that; it was rather a case of the Government by this legislation going out and commandeering the profits that our wheat farmers would otherwise have made during the war. And I think that because of that fact the wheat farmer may be entitled to just a little bit more consideration than some others.

Mr. KINCHELOE. That is just one item-wheat. Take cotton and tobacco. Eighty per cent of the tobacco raised in my district is export tobacco. Look at what an enormous export surplus of cotton you would have in this country-millions of dollars worth of it. What are you going to do with that?

Mr. Burtness. Those are matters that would have to be taken into consideration with each particular item.

Mr. Christopherson. Let me suggest that, as I understand it, we have a particular grade of cotton in this country that is raised only in certain parts of the South-I do not know whether you call it the long staple cotton or not. Europe must have that cotton; they can get it no place except in this country. Mr. KINCHELOE. That is a very infinitesimal part of the cotton crop that is raised in the South.

Mr. CHRISTOPHERSON. My understanding is that it is a considerable portion of it.

Mr. KINCHELOE. Oh, there is very little of it raised in this Country.

The CHAIBMAN. About 50 or 60 per cent of the cotton raised here is exported.

Mr. Christopherson. I erred; I should have said short staple; whatever price we fixed on here Europe would have to pay that price.

Mr. Burtness. On the theory that they would have to get the cotton from us; but I do not want to get into an argument on cotton and tobacco, because I do not know anything about them. I do feel, as I have said, that cotton, corn, and about as basic and staple products as the farmers of this country raise. I believe also that if those three crops, and possibly one or two others, were stabilized in each particular community there would be an opportunity to raise one of those three crops, in the judgment of the individual farmer.

Now I want to make two or three observations with reference to some of the suggestions that were made here yesterday, particularly with reference to the surplus and with reference to limiting the acreage in the event such legislation as is now proposed is adopted, either as a temporary proposition or as a permanent proposition.

I want to urge this upon the committee, that if you determine to report legislation of this sort on the theory that it is going to be temporary I think there ought to be specific provisions in the law to the effect that if the Government buys any of the surplus the Government shall almost immediately-that is, within a reasonable time at least-get rid of the surplus. Unless you do, such surplus will simply aggravate the situation when the law is at an end and producers are again forced to accept prices based solely upon the law of supply and demand.

Mr. KINCHELOE. What are you going to do about those foreign countries when the rate of exchange is so very low?

Mr. Burtness. We are, of course, now selling our surplus to those countries. We can get rid of it then just the same as we can now for the low prices we are getting, and the prices will probably be better. And remember this, just as Mr. Lyon said yesterday, that this is a case where "the tail wags the dog," where the surplus for export largely determines the price of the entire crop, and that is unfair. You can not protect us by a protective tariff. The wheat of other countries comes in direct competition with ours in determining what we receive for our surplus, which in turn largely determines also our domestic price. Your manufacturers and your other industries are practically all of them protected by a protective tariff. And if the emergency is as great as we think it is. I think we are entitled to some further protection along those lines, if the Government can give it.

And let me say to you gentlemen, further, that if you will give us a decent price for our wheat we will buy your coal from Pennsylvania and burn that instead of burning corn, as some have been doing. We can buy woolen blankets from your New England factories, and woolen clothing, and send the children well dressed to high school and to college. We can buy new machinery instead of worrying along with the old worn-out stuff. We can buy jitneys from Michigan and some automobiles for good measure. And when we do those things we furnish employment not only to the people engaged in those industries, not only to the people engaged in the transportation systems of the country, but, indirectly, commerce will be revived and employment will be furnished to everybody.

Mr. TEN EYCK. You think you need this measure instead of the emergency tariff?

Mr. BURTNESS. I think some such measure as this would do more good. The emergency tariff has perhaps done us some good in North Dakota, and it may continue to do us some good if we can keep our surplus down to reasonable limits. It does us some good, because of the fact that out there in the Northwest we raise a kind of wheat that is absolutely required for good flour, and the only other place where they raise that same wheat, which must be mixed with somewhat softer wheats, is Canada; and when the wheat from Canada came in by hundreds of thousands of bushels, and even a million bushels a day, as it has done, that competed directly with our own wheat and, of course, had a very bearish effect upon the market,

The suggestion was made yesterday about decreasing acreage by Government control. I rather feel that that would be impossible. You would have to have a multiplicity of regulations and inspectors and things of that sort in order to enforce the decrease of the acreage, and I do not believe that the public generally would stand for that sort of proposition. If you made the right of the individual farmer to sell to the Government dependent upon this decrease, there would have to be a multiplicity of reports, and so on. A lot of them would not know how to prepare them, and lots of them would lose entirely the advantage intended to be given to them. I think that can be protected by fixing the right kind of a price. And, remember this, if you carry the surplus over from year to year, as was suggested yesterday could be done with a very small amount of money, and then decrease by law the acreage further the following year where a surplus is carried over, you might be jumping from the frying pan into the fire; because if you decrease the acreage of wheat unduly that will force the farmer to raise some other product, of which he will probably in turn get such an enormous surplus that it would not be worth anything.

believe the matter of acreage is something that can be left to the Agricultural Department and the various farm organizations by giving out throughout the country the right kind of information and also left to our various farm papers and various civic organizations. I believe that the Department of Agriculture should be able to do something more along those lines than it has ever done before. A bill was introduced in the Senate the other day that-would extend somewhat the use of the department or a governmental agency for that purpose, Mr. Ten Eyck. What I would like to have you explain to us is this: If the European countries who are buying wheat can get it in the other markets of the world cheaper than the price we fix for it, if this bill goes through, how will we be able to get rid of the surplus? I agree with you that the control of the surplus is really the controlling factor in relation to the price, outside of Government regulation. But how are you going to make the European countries purchase wheat at a higher figure from us under those conditions?

Mr. BURTNESS. I think it is plain that we can not make the European Governments pay us more for our wheat than they can buy wheat for elsewhere.

Mr. TEN EYCK. Then how are you going to get rid of the envolus?

Mr. Burrness. We are simply going to have to sell it as we are selling it now, for what it will bring in the Liverpool market, and the Government would have to pocket the loss. That would be justified, in my mind, only upon the theory that this is an emergency proposition. I am not one of those who believe that the Government can set a price that is worth anything to the producer without the Government standing ready to sustain a loss. I do not believe it can be done. That suggestion was made by one of the speakers yesterday.

Mr. TEN EYCK. Then we are in competition with all these same countries on all our manufactured articles. Do you be-lieve that it is a good thing for us to pay the difference between the price that the Government has fixed for wheat and what the European countries will buy it at, so that they can feed their people cheaper to manufacture their articles and in which we are competing with them?

Mr. Business. No: I do not think that the premise of your question will lead to that conclusion, for several reasons. The principal reason is this: Our labor and factories are proteeted against their labor by a protective tariff; and in establishing this system we are simply giving to the producers upon the farm, in a way, by another method, the same sort of protection that our Government gives to our manufacturing industries by the protective tariff which is the policy of this Government, at least of the present administration.

Mr. TEN EYCK. I am not talking about that; I do not refer to protection on the material that is coming in. That is, per-haps, taken care of in another way. I am now taking about the exportation of the surplus products from the factories of this country to compete with the manufacturers in European countries—countries that get their food cheaper because our Government stands the difference in the price. Your taxes will be used to pay that difference, to feed European labor cheaper than our labor is fed.

Mr. Burtness. The export surplus of our various factories would not be affected for the reason that wherever we have any to speak of we have practically a monopoly of the output. In such cases I am not at all afraid but that the American business man will be able to control his prices. There are other cases of an export surplus where we make a product that is so much better that it can compete favorably and get a bigger price.

Mr. Ten Even. Well, suppose we gave Europe their grain free, so that their labor could be fed at the lowest possible cost. Then how could any manufacturing concern in this country continue the exportation of its manufactured articles?

Mr. Burtness. I have not made any suggestion of that sort. I am suggesting that we sell our wheat in the Liverpool market, in the world's market—that is, this surplus—year by year, so that it will not compete here locally with the crop we raise the next year. And in terms of their money they feel they are paying enormous prices for the farm products that they are getting from this country at the present time. They will not get this wheat for nothing; they will pay the world's market price therefor.

Mr. Kincheloe. Well, following Mr. Ten Eyck's line of thought there, suppose prices were 25 per cent lower in the European countries. Then, they are living 25 per cent cheaper than the American labor, and, as Mr. TEN EYCK says, how can the American manufacturer compete on the basis of the price he would have to pay for labor here?

Mr. HURTNESS. As I have suggested, the American manufacturer is protected by a protective tariff.

Mr. KINCHELOE. I am not talking about the protective tariff protecting this country, but about our exports going abroad. I refer to our surplus manufactured articles that are sold in the European markets.

Mr. Burtness. Suggest some export surplus where it amounts to anything, where we have not either a monopoly or produce a product so superior that other nations can not practically com-

Mr. KINCHELOE. Why, the International Harvester Co. ships millions of dollars' worth of binders and sells them to farmers in the grain fields of Russia 25 per cent cheaper than you can buy them here.

Mr. BURTNESS. If they do that we need not worry about them. They are putting out a product that is so much better than any other product-

Mr. TEN EYCK. There is no one on this committee who is any better friend of the farmer than I am, or any better than I want to be, at least. But my idea is that we have got to be very careful in relation to doing something that we think is going to help him but which may unbalance conditions so that it will be a heavier burden upon him than he is now carrying. Now, let me say this: If your idea of what you want to accomplish is the proper theory, what we ought to do is to subsidize the farmer a dollar or so on every acre of land that is tilled, regardless of what is raised on it. Then we will have a subsidy that will

Mr. Burtness. I agree with you that all of these things must be taken into most serious consideration. Personally I do not believe that that would be as good a business proposition nor as economically sound as the plan that we have suggested.

Mr. Sinclair. Let me suggest that at the present time we are in a great emergency. The very thing that you are talking about happening is happening now. Take the case of wheat and go back and take the 10-year average of our exports; it will average between 50,000,000 and 60,000,000 bushels per year for 10 years. We have exported more wheat under those ruinously low prices in one year, this last year, than we exported in five years heretofore. The reason for that is that the disarrangement of the purchasing power of the American farmer has ruined American industry that the consumers of the United ruined American industry that the consumers of the United States can not consume and have not consumed in the past year the normal amount of wheat. They have not consumed a normal amount of any foods that have been raised. There is where your difficulty arises. Now, restore by some legislation—I do not care what kind—the power of the farmer to buy the products of American factories and American business, and you will increase the reverse. increase the power of consumption of the American laborer and all the other consumers of the United States, and more nearly equalize the consumption and production, and thereby absorb the surplus.

Mr. TEN EYCK. That is the idea. What we ought to do is to increase the purchasing power of the farmer.

Mr. Buerness. That is the very theory that we are in here

Mr. TEN EYCH. Just a minute—but you can not increase that economically and soundly by permitting Europe to buy your surplus, which in the long run is really the controlling factor in relation to the price of the farmers' produce, as has been admitted by every witness that has come before us. And if we continue to permit Europe to purchase our wheat at $1 a bushel, when the American manufacturer has to pay $2 a bushel, because Uncle Sam pays the extra dollar to the farmer that the European consumer refuses to pay, it puts into his hands an opportunity to beat us in every line of business and commerce.

Mr. BURTNESS. But your question is based upon the false premise that Uncle Sam will pay the extra dollar, as you call it, to the farmer for every bushel of wheat he raises.

Mr. Kincheloe. No; he will make the American consumer pay that extra dollar. It is absolutely the same thing.

Mr. SINCLAIR. It is also based upon this theory, that Uncle Sam is going to sit supinely with all the surplus in his hands and hand it over without making a bargain. The more fact that Europe buys our surplus wheat at all shows that there is a demand for it. They need it, and we will probably have something to say about setting the price.

Mr. The Eyck. But the demand is only so great as the price that Europe is willing to pay for it. What regulates the price that Liverpool now places upon our product? It is the fact that she can get it somewhere else at that figure. That controls the market price for our grain.

Mr. Buryness. In my opinion, if such a plan as this is adopted as a temporary proposition the final result will be that gradually the price at Liverpool and the local price here will converge, just as conditions are being reestablished throughout Europe, and that the tendency would be, as we return to normal conditions, not only in this country but in Europe, including normal rates of exchange, that the price here will grad-ually become lower, either to meet the level that exists now in terms of our own money, accompanied with the lowering of the cost of the products that the American farmer has to buy, or else the foreign price will come up gradually and meet our

Now, it is possible that that might not be accomplished in two years. I am only suggesting two years on the theory that it is but an experiment. I do not know just how it is going to work. There will be another Congress assembled here in two years, and we will be here in general session at that time. If it has worked out well and if there is a real necessity for continuing it, it can be extended at that time. If the prices of farm produce bear at that time a proper relation to the cost of the commodities he must buy there will be no need of extension. This viewpoint is contrary to the provisions of the Christopherson bill that you have before you. Mr. Sinclair's bill, as I understand it, is predicated on relief as a temporary proposition, but he takes five years as the basis instead of the shorter period. Is that not correct, Mr. Sinclair.

Mr. Sinclair. Yes, sir. The reason the five years is put in there is because of the general statement of Secretary Wallace that he was satisfied that agriculture would not recover in less than five years from the serious condition that it was put in; that it would take about five years to return it to a

But I want to answer Mr. Ten Eyck a little further. I do not want to get into the witness's time, but the arguments that have been put in here have been based on the theory that a surplus of wheat, we will say, or any other product, is something that you chop off at the end of a year, that you suddenly discover that you have a surplus. That is not the way surpluses are marketed in the ordinary course of business. I want you to remember this, that the British Grain Commission, which has been buying wheat in this country for the past five or six years—they bought all of our surplus that went over there. But they did not buy it at the end of the crop season, or the crop year, and they bought it at the time they could buy it most advantageously, as they believed, with the facts before them as to the world's production. So this surplus which was going abroad was being absorbed in the beginning, long before we knew whether there would be a surplus or not for a certainty.

Mr. TEN EYCK. That is, the absorption has to run over the entire period?

Mr. SINCLAIR. Yes. That is the reason they have bought for a lower price than the price that will be set for the surplus.

Mr. Burness. And doubtless if this plan is adopted, some surplus will be exported by our local buyers before the Government has to step in.

Mr. Sinclair. Yes; the surplus must be absorbed before the crop is grown.

Mr. BURTNESS. And if the price is fixed upon this theory the price will be fixed a little higher than what the individual farmer will get, because the person who buys from the farmer has to pay a little less, to cover the carrying charges, interest charges, and so forth.

Mr. Voiet. I want to ask a few questions here, if I may. I think that agriculturists and economists are generally agreed that the exportable surplus of a farm product regulates the price of the whole product. Do you understand that to be so?

Mr. Buerness. Practically speaking, I agree with that propo-tion; yes, sir. I say this, that there are, of course, a great sition; yes, sir. many local conditions that enter in temporarily, just for possibly a few days or a few weeks at a time, that may affect it one way or the other. And if the local demand is large, the local price here will often be higher than the world's market price less the cost of transportation. But that is the main

Mr. Voigt. That being so, do you not think that the farmer could be helped out by the Government to a large extent by creating a Government agency to buy the estimated exportable surplus of wheat, for instance, so that the American farmer is not brought into competition on his whole wheat product by having his little surplus determine the price for all of it?

Mr. Burtness. That is the very thing I am urging; exactly. Mr. Voigt. If we do that, will it be necessary to fix any price? Will not the law of competition and the law of supply and demand operate when you get this surplus out of the way? When you get that European competition out of the way of the home product, will not the law of supply and demand give you a fair price for that product within the boundaries of this country's

Mr. Burtness. I think your suggestion is worthy of a great deal of consideration and that it has a great deal of merit in it.

I think it is quite possible that that would be the result—if. of course, you protect the country by a sufficiently high tariff so as to practically keep out wheat from abroad.

Mr. Voigt. The tariff would have to be arranged. I have been thinking a good deal along these lines personally, and I am very much opposed to price-fixing. I think it will hurt the farmer, possibly, as much as it will help him, and I think the only thing we can do, if we are going to do anything at all, is to create some sort of commission, and have that commission go into the open market of the country at various times and buy up the exportable surplus, and then let that commission dispose of the exportable surplus to Europe. Probably Uncle Sam will have to pocket a loss.

Mr. Burtness. Frankly, I am inclined to think, Mr. Voigt, that that might accomplish practically the same thing as we are expecting to accomplish if some such legislation as this is passed, with this exception. If the individual farmer sees that there is going to be a definite price as a minimum, you put heart into the fellow who is in desperate straits at the present time, and you also put confidence into the banker and the money lender and the business man who must finance that farmer for the coming season if he is going to be able to do anything upon his farm. That would help a great deal. What we need in our country is a better feeling of optimism and of confidence for the future. With the enormous losses that the farmers have suffered this year, they are afraid to finance the farmer further. But as an economic proposition, I am not at all certain but that the plan you suggest will serve eventually the same purpose. In asking for this price I am asking for it as a minimum price, and rather hope that the actual price that the farmer will get may eventually be greater, possibly, than the Government price that is established, due to the fact that the local demand for the product might increase the price; that it will eliminate the surplus fixing the price here locally.

Mr. Voigt. Let me interrupt you there. I think the scheme that I have just proposed will put a good deal of heart into the grain farmer for this reason. If we announced to-morrow that the United States Government would purchase the exportable surplus of wheat in this country during the year 1922. I think you would see an immediate advance in the price of wheat, and when your farmer in North Dakota sees the price of wheat advancing will not that put just as much heart into him as if you gave him a minimum price guaranty?

Mr. BURTNESS. Yes; if that were actually the result. I do not know how that would be done immediately. It certainly would have a good effect upon the market price of next year's crop; it should raise the price of futures.

Mr. Voigr. Don't you think the minute the Government announced it would buy the exportable surplus of wheat the price of wheat would go up?

Mr. Burtness. It certainly would have a bullish effect upon The extent I can not say where we are still in direct competition with the world's market.

Mr. Voior. My idea is that it is a great deal better for the country to lose a small amount of money, comparatively, on the surplus than it is to have all the farmers of the country lose that same amount of money per bushel on the whole wheat product of the country.

Mr. Burness, Your fundamental theory of the proposition is identical with my own. The only difference is just how best to reach it, and I am not at all certain but what your plan would be just as satisfactory as mine. I have not given consideration to that particular aspect of it.

Mr. Voigt. I think perhaps my plan would appeal more to a great many men who are constitutionally opposed to price

Mr. BURTNESS. That is doubtless true. Mr. Christopherson. Let me suggest that it is lacking in this particular, that there would be no way of determining the surplus until the farmers had disposed of their crops. They buying the balance would help the farmer.

Mr. Voigt. Oh, no; we can get a very close figure as to the surplus of the wheat crop from the statisticians.

Mr. Christopherson. Yes; but whom would you buy from?

Mr. Voigt. This Government agency would go right out into the open market and buy wheat just as you or I would buy it. They would simply remove from the market so much of this estimated surplus—that is, they would revise their figures from time to time, and remove from the local market what is assumed to be the exportable surplus.

Mr. Christopherson. You would buy wheat. Would you throw that on the market again?

Mr. Voigt. No; the commission that buys this up would be compelled to dispose of it in other parts of the world, just as our surplus is disposed of now. Suppose we had what was considered to be an exportable surplus of 300,000,000 bushels. This Government agency would then go into the open market and buy just as any speculator would buy it, possibly on futures. Then the Government agency would dispose of that 300,000,000 bushels in foreign countries and get the best price for it that they could get. Then, you see, the farmers' price would be regulated purely by local conditions, by the law of supply and demand, and that surplus being removed, the price to the farmer would advance very substantially.

Mr. Christopherson. It may work out all right, but I doubt it. I think the only merit in the thing is this: That the Government says to the farmer before he embarks on his production of grain that at a certain time of the year it will take his wheat or oats or barley at so much. The farmer knows then that next August or November, it may be, he can get that amount and he will not sell for less than that, barring the difference of carrying charges. The result is that that becomes the minimum price, and whether it goes for export or home consumption the farmer will hold it.

Mr. Voice. Let me ask you this question: Suppose that in 1922 we had just enough wheat in the country for home consumption and none for export. Do you think there would be a very substantial rise in the price of wheat?

Mr. Christopherson. That is a question. The price of wheat is, I think, fixed by European markets more than it is by our

Mr. Voicy. You see, by the plan I have suggested you do not fix the price of wheat in this country by the European markets, but fix it by the American market.

Mr. Christopherson. But by your plan you take the exportable surplus from the American market and put it into the European market.

Mr. Voigt. But that would not affect the American farmer, hecause this governmental agency handles that surplus.

Mr. BURTNESS. The maximum price, however, under that plan would be locally here the European price plus the duty

Mr. Voict. If such a scheme as I have outlined were adopted, of course we would have to put our tariff up high enough so as to bar any wheat from coming into the country. That is just a matter of detail, as I view it.

Mr. Burtness. That is the maximum price. The price-locally could never exceed the European price plus the tariff and probably plus transportation cost.

Mr. Voigt. Well, we would put the tariff up; we would simply put a prohibitive wall around the country.

Mr. Buerness, I should be entirely satisfied if we could get for our wheat in this country to-day the European price plus the cost of transporting it from here to Europe plus a tariff of 30 or 35 cents. Our farmer would be very well satisfied, and if we got that we would be getting for our products only the same protection and compensation for our labor and our investment as the American laborer and the American manufacturer are getting for theirs through the instrumentality of tariff

Mr. Voict. Under my plan you would get for your wheat, in my opinion, just exactly what you ought to have, because there would be just enough to go around, and you would get a fair return for your labor, your investment, and so forth, and the people of the United States would probably stand a loss on a comparatively small amount of wheat.

Mr. BURTNESS. In other words, our local supply and demand would control the price in spite of the impoverished condition of Europe and the difference in exchange rates and all the other elements that enter into the proposition at the present

Mr. Voict. Yes; and the competition of labor in other parts of the world that can produce wheat cheaper than we can.

Mr. Burnness. Mr. Chairman, before you adjourn I desire to say just a few words more. I want to establish before this committee conclusively the fact that there is a great deal of demand for this sort of legislation, particularly in the springwheat country. As indicating that demand I desire to file the following papers, resolutions, and petitions with you, so that the same may be a part of your permanent files. I do not ask that they be set out in full in the printed record. Let me first quote from a letter from Hon. R. A. Nestos, governor of North Dakota, to Mr. Hans Georgesen, president North Dakota Farm Bureau Federation, relating particularly to the proposed work of the Agricultural conference, as follows:

You will, of course, also consider at the conference and recommend to Congress some measure, designed to secure for our farmers a reasonable price for the 1922 crop of wheat, either by fixing a fair minimum, by arranging for markets for the wheat in foreign lands, through proper credit facilities and by such other methods as in the best judgment of the agricultural conference would meet the desperate needs of the day.

The agricultural conference recognized the crying need of some immediate action in a resolution, as follows:

It is the sense of this committee that the Congress and the President of the United States should take such steps as will immediately reestablish a fair exchange value of all farm products with that of all farm commodities.

The resolutions to be filed with you are briefly as follows: Resolution of the North Dakota Commission on Rural Prob-and for the courteous and patient attention given me.

EXTENSION OF REMARKS

HON. W. W. LARSEN. OF GEORGIA,

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES,

Wednesday, February 15, 1922. Mr. LARSEN of Georgia. Mr. Speaker, the past eight years have meant much to the American citizen. During this period he has been subjected to almost every emotion, passion, prejudice, and temptation which comes to civilization in times of war or peace.

While the war increased fortunes of a few, it so greatly multiplied the poverty and hardships of many that, notwith-standing our natural resources and wealth as a Nation, the demand for both national and individual economy was never greater.

We naturally wonder to what extent bad legislation is responsible for our financial depression and what remedial legislation would remove it.

While no section of our country or class of our citizens have escaped depression, agriculture, the largest individual interest, has perhaps been most vitally affected. The farmer petitioned for relief and has in a measure received Federal aid, but not to the extent which his necessities demand nor to a full measure of his desires. Nevertheless, he has shown his appreciation of every effort made in his behalf. The following resolution sent.

DEPARTMENT OF AGRICULTURE, Washington, February 4, 1922.

Hon. W. W. LARSEN,
House of Representatives.

Dear Mr. Larses: In compliance with your letter of January 12, addressed to the Secretary of the Treasury, which was referred to this department for attention, in so far as the appropriations for agricultural purposes are concerned, it is suggested that you inform * * * inquirers * * * that for the fiscal year 1922 Congress appropriated $36.122,759 for the regular work of the department. Of this sum, approximately $13,300,000 is for research and extension work of direct benefit to agriculture, $19,400,000 is for the enforcement of regulatory acts of Congress devolving on this department and for pest and disease control work, and $3,300,000 is for general service rendered by the department.

control work, and $3,300,000 is for general service rendered by the department.

In this connection it should be pointed out that over one-half of the funds for service and regulatory work are expended in the performance of the primary functions of Government rather than for the direct development of agriculture. Such functions as the administration and protection of the national forests, the weather service, enforcement of the food and drugs act and the meat inspection law, as well as other similar service and law enforcement work, are not conducted in the interest of the producer, but administered for the benefit of all.

In addition to the $36,122,759 appropriated for its regular work, appropriations amounting to over $94,500,000 were made for the fiscal year 1922 to be administered by the department, though no part of them was for the prosecution of its regular work. Thus $81,000,000 was appropriated for cooperative State highway construction and forest road building under the supervision of the department, $2,000,000 for seed, rain loans to farmers in the drought-stricken areas of the Northwest, $5,580,000 for extension work in agriculture and home economics through the State agricultural experiment stations under the Hatch and Adams Acts, and $1,000,000 for the acquisition of additional forest lands under the Weeks law, while approximately $3,570,000 will be available from Forest Service receipts and cooperative funds for cooperative work, road and trail construction, and for payments to the States for the benefit of roads and schools. The total appropriations for the current fiscal year administered by the department are therefore slightly over $130,700,000.

HENRY WALLACE, Secretary,

Restriction of Immigration.

EXTENSION OF REMARKS

HON. NATHAN D. PERLMAN. OF NEW YORK,

> IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES. Monday, February 20, 1922.

Mr. PERLMAN. Mr. Speaker, I am opposed to this resolution just as I was opposed to the 3 per cent restrictive immigration act which went into effect on June 2, 1921. This law is un-American and is in violation of our policy of selective immigration. It should be repealed and not extended to June 30, 1923. On July 18, 1921, a bill to repeal this act was introduced by me and is now before the Committee on Immigration and

When the 3 per cent restrictive immigration bill was under consideration in the House of Representatives in April, 1921, the proponents of the bill represented that the House Committee on Immigration and Naturalization had not had sufficient opportunity to complete its investigation and study of the immigration problem then existing. They urged the enactment of an emergency restrictive immigration law, and advanced as reasons for restricting immigration that—first, there was considerable unemployment in the United States; second, that there was a housing crisis; and, third, that the prospective immigrants were undesirable.

These arguments are wholly fallacious. There is at present a scarcity of unskilled labor in the United States. During the World War our unskilled laborers became skilled workmen. There is a scarcity of farm labor. A large number of our farm laborers left the farms and went to the big cities where they obtained employment in factories and in mercantile establishments. Many unskilled laborers and the farm laborers of pre-war days are not returning to their unskilled or farm work. In order that the skilled workmen be employed, it is necessary to have plenty of unskilled laborers. Most of the immigrants are the unskilled laborers. They go into our mines and on our farms. I contend that restriction of immigration will make for more unemployment. A large number of farm hands who served in our Army and Navy during the World War have not returned and will not return to the farms, but have obtained and are seeking employment in our big cities. Restriction of immigration will not solve the unemployment problem, but a scientific distribution of immigrants would help solve this problem

Immigration had nothing to do with the housing crisis. It was due in the main to the fact that the building of new dwellings was at a standstill during the World War and for some time thereafter. The exorbitant prices of building materials made it almost impossible to build. These prices were fixed in violation of law by trusts and unscrupulous combinations. The cost of building was also prohibitively high because of criminal conspiracies between some material men, builders, and crooked labor leaders. These crooked labor leaders abused the trust imposed in them by the rank and file of their labor unions. These conditions were exposed in New York City by the Lockwood committee, Mr. Samuel Untermyer, and United States Attorney William Haywood. A large number of these conspirators have been sent to jail. Others have plead guilty and paid large fines. been sent to jail. Others have plead guilty and paid large lines. Since these exposures a large number of dwelling houses have been erected in the city of New York and a large number are now in course of construction. The emergency rent laws now in force in the State of New York have prevented the exaction of exorbitant rents by bloodthirsty landlords and lessees in New York City. As more dwelling houses are being erected rents are being reduced.

A great deal of unskilled labor is necessary in the building of dwelling houses, and the scarcity of unskilled labor also contributed to the high cost of erecting dwelling houses. It can not be fairly urged that immigration was one of the causes of the be fairly urged that immigration was one of the causes of the housing crisis, because that crisis was most acute during the World War, when there was no immigration. There is enough vacant land in New York City and in all other big cities throughout the country on which can be built sufficient dwelling houses the country of the countr to house every immigrant. Immigrants who come here have to have homes to live in. The building of homes for them not only gives the immigrant employment but secures to a great many of our American citizens profitable employment.

It is unfair to say that the present-day immigrant is undesirable and that he does not assimilate. Now, more than ever before, does the immigrant who comes to our shores desire to become a desirable citizen. All of them know from their past experiences that our form of government is the most desirable. Particularly those coming from Russia realize that a republican form of government is preferable to a bolshevik or soviet form of government.

All present-day immigrants realize that there is greater opportunity in the United States than anywhere in the world. say this advisedly, because since I have been in Congress I have assisted hundreds of immigrants to gain their admission into the United States and I have talked with them and learned their viewpoint. The immigrants come to our shores to work, and they get employment because they are willing to do any kind of honest work. They not only earn enough to support themselves and their families, but they produce a surplus which adds to the wealth of our country.

It is needless for me to point out the many accomplishments of the immigrants in the United States. The success of our country is due, in the main, to the work of immigrants or the sons of immigrants. The immigrants have always been patriotic. They did their share for their adopted country during the World War. Are we now going to deny to the heroes of our World War the right and opportunity to have their parents and the members of their family join them in their chosen

Before the enactment of the 3 per cent restrictive immigration law there were enough immigration laws on our statute books which, if properly enforced, would keep from our shores undesirable immigrants. The percentage law does not prevent undesirables from gaining admission into the United States, but it does and it has prevented a great many desirables, such as parents, wives, and children of American citizens, from gaining admission into the United States. Since last December the Secretary of Labor has ordered the temporary admission of over seventeen hundred immigrants who were not admissible because the quota for their respective countries of nativity had been exhausted. Most of these immigrants were the parents, wives, and children of citizens or declarants. It would have been inhuman to have deported them. The Secretary of Labor deserves great credit for his action in having ordered their temperary admission. He must have realized, as all of us must realize, that the 3 per cent restrictive immigration law is harsh and inhuman. To continue this law for another year will mean more hardships and more inhumanities.

The St. Lawrence Ship Canal Scheme.

EXTENSION OF REMARKS

HON. CLARENCE MACGREGOR,

OF NEW YORK,

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES,

Tuesday, February 21, 1922. .

Mr. MacGREGOR. Mr. Speaker, I should like to lay before the House some facts that have been developed in extensive investigation of the St. Lawrence Ship Canal project which show conclusively how impossible of fulfillment this scheme is and that the agitation for it centers in a small group of Middle Western States, where the people through misleading propaganda have been led to believe that canalization of the St. Lawrence will provide them with a cheaper mode of transportation to the seaboard.

I can well understand that the Middle West under the spell of this propaganda, which seems to regard neither the truth nor reason, believes that the St. Lawrence scheme will accom-plish for the farmers what its promoters claim. We in New York, however, having studied this question for many years, know that as a navigation scheme it can never succeed; as a power proposition it no doubt has a tremendous value, but if there is to be a development for power, those seeking the power should go about getting permits in the manner provided by the Federal power act.

In New York State the "power ring" for 15 years has been trying to lay hold on the tremendous possibilities of the St. Lawrence. Back in 1907 a charter was granted, which subsequently was revoked because it considered only the profits quently was revoked because it considered only the profits of the company which received it and would have read the people of the State of New York out of any interest in the greatest potential power site in America. We had to carry the case all the way to the Supreme Court of the United States to protect the right of the public in this development, and in 1916 the Supreme Court held that the charter was void.

Since that time the "power ring" has been laying plans to get control of the power on the St. Lawrence, which at its maximum development would be probably 5,400,000 horsepower. To indicate what this means in terms of dollars and cents, it is only necessary to say that if sold at $25 per horsepower it would bring an annual income of $135,000,000, and I assure you that any power developed on the St. Lawrence never will be sold at so low a price as $25 per horsepower. I know perfectly well that New England has been told that if the St. Lawrence development goes through it will get abundant supplies of hydroelectric power from the St. Lawrence at $5 per horsepower. I do not believe there is anybody in this Chamber so gullible as to believe a statement which is so void of the truth as that.

Since the Supreme Court decided that New York State had acted properly in electing the "power ring" from the St. Lawrence, the movement for canalization of the St. Lawrence gained headway. I am not going to say that it was started as a power project. I am willing to give its promoters credit for being honest and sincere in the belief that the purposed development would help the farmers of the West, but I do say that much of the impetus which has been given this scheme has come from the power interests which have been working unceasingly night and day, not in the open but covertly, secretly, and in all those other hidden ways that the agents of those great interests know so well how to utilize. I also would like right here to say that the glib falsehood which has been so assiduously circulated to the effect that New York State has a selfish interest to serve in attempting to defeat the St. Lawrence project is typical of many of the statements contained in propaganda for this scheme. New York State for many years has provided the Nation with a canal from Buffalo to New York, tolls free, and I challenge anyone to deny that existence of this waterway, built exclusively at the expense of New York, has not been a factor in bringing about lower transportation rates, principally on the products of the West.

In recent years New York has spent in all over $167,000,000 enlarging and improving the barge canal which now has a depth of 12 feet throughout the length of its channel and can accommodate barges carrying upward of 1,500 tons. But before the enlargement of this canal was undertaken, New York made thorough surveys to determine whether a ship canal, so called, or a barge canal should be built, and the judgment of experts, engineers, and other eminent authorities was that, all things considered, a barge canal, such as now exists, would furnish the best possible means of linking the Great Lakes for navigu-tion purposes with the Atlantic Ocean.

The St. Lawrence offers tremendous power possibilities; that we all concede. But why the people of the United States should be called upon to develop this power for the benefit of the Aluminum Trust, the du Pont, and General Electric interests, which for years have turned covetous eyes toward it, is a question that I can not answer, but perhaps some of my friends who are favoring the scheme can give a satisfactory explana-tion. Perhaps they also will explain to their constitutents—the farmers of the West—how this "power ring" and the gigantic Wall Street interests backing them are going to help the farmer, These men know just as clearly as they know that night follows day that the St. Lawrence scheme as a navigation project will be a fiasco. They also know that the water-power resources are almost unlimited and in cash, at the minimum rate, will be worth far in excess of $100,000,000 a year.

That is the stake they are playing for and they are using the farmers of the West, whether the farmers know it or not, as a cat's-paw to help pull this out of the fire for them. I have such great confidence in the calm judgment, in the good sense, and the clear-headedness of the American farmer that I do not be-lieve he, for one, long will remain deceived by these facts.

The American farmer, whether he live in the Dakotas or in New York, has largely the same interests and problems. Essentially, he views them in the same way, regardless of his place of residence. The farmers of New York State have nothing to lose or nothing to gain by the construction of a St. Lawrence Ship Canal that would not be shared by their fellows in other parts of the country. It therefore is very significant that the New York State Grange, at its recent meeting in Bing-hamton, went on record in opposition to the St. Lawrence Ship Canal.

There can be no question about the ability, the disinterestedness, and the patriotism of Gen. George W. Goethals, the greatest canal builder in the world, who, on January 31, 1922, in a St. Paul newspaper, gave an interview declaring that New York State's opposition to the St. Lawrence Ship Canal is not narrow or selfish. He said that as a power scheme the project would be very good, but that it can not work out in the interests of navigation.

I have heard it said on reliable authority that in addition to the money which already has been spent to promote the St. Lawrence Ship Canal more than $2,000,000 still is available carry on propaganda, and that, if necessary, an additional like sum can be raised. I know that 16 or 18 of the Western States have indorsed this and some of them have contributed toward the expenses of promotion, but where this vast sum comes from and why it is made available for a scheme that can not help navigation, and in the minds of all who view it sanely and from the standpoint of knowledge and reason as nothing more than a power scheme, is beyond me. This money has been used to work up a state of mind that borders on fanaticism among the farmers of a section of the country. I can well understand why they should turn to almost anything that gives promise of relief from high freight rates, which at the present prices of their products are eating up the major portion of what is received for them, but I do believe that the propaganda which has brought this about and which is going to result sooner or later in the complete disillusionment of those who now believe in it should have our severest condemnation, Indicating the results of this agitation, I want to offer an article from the Buffalo Evening News of January 23, 1922, which says better than I could what the results of this propaganda are:

MIDDLE WEST WILD FOR CANAL PROJECT—THINKS IT PANACEA—COM-PANY BREIND ENTERPRISE TALKS TO PUBLIC LIKE OLD SALT TO GUL-LIBLE MARINES.

(The Buffalo Evening News begins to-day a series of articles telling the whole story of the agitation in favor of the billion-dollar St. Lawrence waterway scheme, an agitation which has been more dangerous than anyone in the East could have dreamed.)

[By W. R. Meldrum.]

than anyone in the East could have dreamed.)

The Middle West is in downright earnest about the St. Lawrence ship canal project as a means to establish contact with tidewater. There can be no doubt of that. It is readily apparent to the most casual of observers. Sentiment in that section for the Canadian route to give passage from the Atlantic to the Great Lakes for ocean-going ships is strong and daily is growing stronger under organized propaganda.

A survey undertaken by the Buffalo Evening News in Michigan, Illinois, and Ohio offered convincing proof that New York, New England, and South Atlantic States have a real fight on their hands to prevent congressiona approval of the proposal for this country to cooperate with Canada in the development of the St. Lawrence route. They will find the proponents of the Canadian plan strongly organized, with the Federal administration perhaps lending them support.

The project is a burning issue in Michigan, Illinois, Wisconsin, Indiana, and Minnesota. The sirce of its appeal is felt also in Ohio, lowa, Nebraska, Kansas, Missouri, Colorado, Idaho, Wyoming, the Dakotas, Utah, Montana, and Oregon. There are Great Lakes St. Lawrence or ganizations in all these 18 States. The people in the Middle West have been led to believe that the completion of the proposed deep waterway will mean an end of all their economic difficulties. They have developed for the project the zeal of crusaders. For these inland people "the sea is the only firmament," and the only route to it is the St. Lawrence.

This is no exaggeration; it is matter of fact. There has not been a movement like this in the United States—nothing so intense in sectional appeal—since the Civil War. Under Influence of a well-directed and generously financed propaganda the people of the Middle West have come to believe that they have a real grievance against the East-against New York in particular. They have been told that their transportation difficulties of whatever kind are owing chiefly to the selfishness and the greed Street interests. They have come to feel that they are greatly wronged, and they are going to make matters right by turning their business over to Canadian ports.

The instrument of this propaganda of hate is the Great Lakes-St. Lawrence Tidewater Association, whose organization and activities in themselves make an interesting story. No statement is too extravagant for the directing gehius of this munificently financed association or his agents to advance to win support for the Canadian project. To the preachment of "the great wrong" all manner of sen yarns are added. These association men have let their imagination run riot. They tak like veterans of the forecastle to an audience of raw marines. For instance, they have persuaded the farmers of Michigan, Wisconsin, Munesota, the Dakotas, and other States represented in the organization that there will be no limit to the size of ships that will come up to the ports of the Great Lakes through the St. Lawrence to carry their products to market. The farmers are thoroughly convinced that Cunarders will dock at Chicago and Duluth. They accept this as beyond question. They are land sallors mad for the sea. They have about reached the conclusion that New York has cheated them out of their birthright. Hence their great resentment.

All this may sound far-fetched, but it is true. It is street talk. And it would not be fair to say that it is confined to the farming districts, it is the faith of many persons in Chicago and Detroit that the canalization of the St. Lawrence will make these cities ports of call for the largest ships that sall the seas. This explains the intensity of feeling these people have for the project. Reason about it? They haven't time for reason. They have hold of a big diea, and it will take a mighty effort to shake them loose from it. They simply know that all these things are feasible. There are the Lakes and there's the river, isn't it? It is merely a matter of deepening the St. Lawrence here and there and canalizing the rapid reaches. Nothing sim

"Yes; for 2,000,000 horsepower; $250,000,000, and we pay only half. Cheap enough, I say."

Another was asked about the length of the navigation season on the St. Lawrence.

"They are going to make it 10 months long by using ice breakers," he replied. "We're going to make New York look sick when things get going. Within 10 years Chicago will have a population of 10,000,000.

He hadn't time to talk about how to keep the Lakes open in winter.

"Do you know what proportion of the cost of the work New York State will be called upon to pay?" a Columbus man, a member of the Tidewater Association's corps of instructors, was asked.

"Nothing at all," he said. "You folks have a wrong idea about the cost. That is coming out of tolls from vessels using the St. Lawrence route."

"Nothing at all," he said. "You folks have a wrong idea about the cost. That is coming out of toils from vessels using the St. Lawrence route." That is coming out of toils from vessels using the St. Lawrence route. That question brought only a tirade against the greed of the port of New York, with this to halt argument:

"But how are you going to have low freight rates with high toils?" That question brought only a tirade against the greed of the port of New York, with this to halt argument:

"Our commerce has been poured out of the neck of the bottle long enough. We want sea room, and we're going to have it."

These are typical and illustrative expressions. Those who are committed to the Canadian route are impatient of questioning. Their imagination is so filled with the marvelous possibilities of the St. Lawrence project that they have lost sight of other plans for reaching tidewater. In their view the New York Harge Canal is a weedy ditch. They have no time to consider the possibilities of the extension of the Chicago Drainage Canal to the Illinois River—work for which appropriation already has been made. The plan to connect the Sciota and the Sandysky Rivers to form a link between Lake Erfe and the Ohio River and so afford passage for barges to Pittsburgh and New Orleans is forgotten in the obsession to see lines come into the ports of the Great Lakes. Ves; it will take a mighty effort to shake them loose from their peculiar beliefs. Only a counterpropaganda of force equal to that exercised by the Great Lakes-St. Lawrence Tidewater Association will avail. That means a vigorous campaign of education. Until recently this movement in the Middle West was not taken seriously. It has reached proportions that call for the marshaling of the full strength of the East to halt it in Congress. If that effort fails, this country will stand committed to a project that will cost a billion dollars and more—one that, when it is completed, will be valueless to the United States so far as transportation is concerned. That the

Mr. William R. Meldrum, the writer of the foregoing state-ment, has made a thorough investigation of this entire subject, What he learned about the machinations of the Great Lakes-St. Lawrence Tidewater Association and the campaign fund that it has and is using for the promotion of the St. Lawrence scheme, which I again remind you is in the interests of the "power ring" and will not help the farmers, should be very illuminating to my friends from the West. I quote from the Buffalo Evening News of January 24, 1922:

England, and the South Atlantic States—is Indicated by this statement made in Chicago to the Buffalo Evening News representative by an official of the Mississippi Valley Association, a waterways organization:

"They've got $2,000,000, and they can get as much more, if necessary, for the St. Lawrence Project."

He was referring to the men who are directing the affairs of the Great Lakes-St. Lawrence Tidewater Association, the propaganda agency that has lined up the Middle West and a section of the Northwest behind the Canadian plan.

"Yes, sir; $2,000,000." the Mississippi Valley official went on, "and you can't stop them. Not now. They've got the organization. They've got the votes to put it across. Just watch and see."

It may be explained that the Mississippi Valley Association is working with the society of the propaganda—that it is one with the Tidewater Association. And the Mississippi Valley official was himself on a fund-finding errand in preparation for the battle in Washington.

The whole development of the movement on this side of the border for the St. Lawrence route is the accomplishment of the Tidewater Association, an organization which has no exact parallel, along economic lines at least, in this country. It has a quasi-public appearance, yet it is personal and altogether private in character and operation. It is supported by public units to a considerable extent, but it does not hold tself as in any way to contable to the public. In the final analysis he Great Lakes-St. Lawrence Tidewater Association is the child of Charles P. Craig, so Duluth and the public and the public and the self as the accompliance well trained for the battle that is to be fought out in Washington over the proposal to have the United States issue a cheek in blank to pay this country's share for the canalization of the St. Lawrence, for the completion of the Welland Canal. and for a power development.

United States Senator Townsend, of Michigan, is said to have advanced the idea about 10 years ago to have the United States participate in the construction of the Canadian route to seaboard, but it was not until 1918 that the Tidewater Association got going. Mr. Craig is credited with being the father of the organization, in Detroit at least. In any event, he has made it his own. H. C. Gardner, of Chicago, holds title as president and Mr. Craig as vice president at large and executive director. The Duluth man has made the organization a coppertiveted personal agency of propagands.

It seems that Mr. Craig came from Canada. And there the St. Lawrence plan has long been under consideration. Presumably he brought the idea along with him from the Dominion. He probably had been holding it in reserve for a propitions since. That time came in 1915; conditions then were ripe for its advancement.

Prior to the war the Middle West and the Northwest had had their transportation difficulties. When the Government took over the railroads and William G. The childlike belief of Detroit, Chicago, and other cities that construction of the St. Lawrence Ship Canal will make it possible for ocean liners to land at their docks is so simple that it is almost pitiable. The people of Detroit, if anyone, should know that an ocean liner can not reach it until the river channels near there are deepened to the 30-foot mark. I quote again:

CUNARDERS IN PORT AT BELLE ISLE IS VISION OF DETROIT—LAKES-TO-SEA FETISH ENTHRALLS THE VISIONARY OF MICHIGAN'S AMBITIOUS METROPOLIS—POWER RING MAY BE PROSPECTING.

DETROIT, January 25.

This city has high hopes of the St. Lawrence ship canal project. Nowhere are more extravagant ideas entertained with regard to it. Detroit considers that the success of the venture is beyond doubt, and it is organized to support to the limit the proposal for this country to engage with Canada in the construction of the waterway for oceangoing ships. Mannfacturers, wholesaiers, and retailers, with not a dissenting voice, are committed to the project. They profess to see in the promise of large savings in time and money on shipments and entrance to new markets.

The Buffalo Evening News representative heard here the first suggestion of an interest that seemed keener for power rights on the St. Lawrence than for navigation, and presumably in the ranks of the Great Lakes-St, Lawrence Tidewater Association.

There has been a suspicion for some time—Gov. Miller has volced it—that the propaganda for the Canadian route was to a considerable extent of power-ring inspiration. Thus far the power men have been able to keep in the background. They have been context to hold aloof and let the mavigation enthusiasts do the talking.

"I have heard it said that the project has enough merit in its power aspects to warrant private investment," said John A. Russell, vice president of the Detroit board of commerce. "I don't remember where I heard the question discussed along those lines. I did not consider it seriously,"

I heard the question discussed along those lines. I did not consider it seriously."

But there are those who do take the matter seriously. If the project goes through they undoubtedly will be prepared to bid for the power rights. In the event Congress refuses to approve the report of the international joint commission, recommending that the two Governments undertake the development of the St. Lawrence for navigation and power, it is likely that the power ring will come into the open with a plan to put through the work as a private enterprise. They are ready to capitalize the sentiment that has developed for the Canadian route to the seaboard,

HOW POWER RING WOULD WORK.

The power interests would organize internationally along the lines of the companies that have bridged the Niagara and other border streams. As a matter of fact, they have already organized in Montreal as the "Great Lakes & Atlantic Canal & Power Co. (Ltd.)," and may be organized on this side of the border. They would, of course, promise navigation to gain public support, but it would be a promise made with tongue in cheek. They know that feature of the enterprise is not feasible.

tongue in cheek. They know that feature of the enterprise is not feasible.

Incidentally, the international joint commission has been more generous in its treatment of Detroit than of cities in the East that claim interest in the St. Lawrence proposal. Two extended hearings were held here for the benefit of the proponents of the plan, and another was held at Grand Rapids. Why there, nobody knows, except that the furniture men there asked it. The tidewater-association had full onportunity to put in its case, and it had a most sympathetic hearing.

In the forefront of the fight here for the Canadian route is the board of commerce, and all the newspapers of the city are lending it vigorous support. The board has a well-organized department that is given over entirely to propagand in behalf of the project. The work is not confined to Detroits but is carried on throughout the State by field workers. There are frequent public meetings here and elsewhere under the auspices of the board. Plans are now making for a raily on February 6 in Detroit, when representatives of every considerable community in the State will gather to prepare for the fight in Congress to win approval for the undertaking. The people "back home" are going to keep in close touch with their Congressmen and Scuators while the question is in issue.

SCHEME WELL BOOSTED.

The board began work in earnest for the Canadian waterway two years ago. Last year it appropriated $17,000 to carry it forward. This was spent for meetings, literature, and field workers. None of this money went to the Great Lakes-St. Lawrence Tidewater Association, for, while the board of commerce is in full sympathy with Mr. Craig's organization, it prefers to work along independent lines with its own funds. There was also an appropriation of $10,000 from the Michigan Legislature to advance the St. Lawrence project. A share of that went to the Tidewater Association.

"We are not in this because we are opposed to the New York Rarge Canal," said Mr. John A. Russell. "Even when the St. Lawrence project is completed there will be plenty of business for the canal—yes, and for all other waterways and for the railroads."

"When did this agitation for the Canadian route start?" he was asked.

"When did this agitation for the Canadian route start?" he was asked.

"I should say about nine years ago," he replied, "but the board of commerce has been in contact with it only four years. We have long felt the need of increased transportation facilities, but there is no doubt that the question was intensified during the war, when the railroad terminals were cluttered up. I saw ocean ships in the Welland Canadianany years ago. I have seen raw sugar from Germany delivered at Bay City. There has been some shipping of that kind through the St. Lawrence for a long time. It is not a new idea by any means."

Mr. Russell's statement that the agitation began in earnest when the railroads were taken over by the Government and traffic was diverted from the New York Barge Canad offers a full explanation of the development of sentiment for the St. Lawrence route. The movement for the Canadian route amounted to nothing up to that time.

As to whether the engineers' figure of $252,000,000 represented the

As to whether the engineers' figure of $252.000,000 represented the final estimate on the work—as to whether it carried the matter along to the point where contractors could be called in—Mr. Russell did not know. He objected to the suggestion that the cost of despening lake channels, harbors on the Great Lakes, and reconstructing the locks at the Soo should be included as part of the cost of the St. Lawrence project.

CLAIMS 25 FEET DEPTH.

"Not at all," said Mr. Russell. "These things are not properly chargeable to the St. Lawrence project. They would come anyway. There is a depth of 25 feet now in the larger harbors, and Lock No. 4 at the Soo will be of that depth."

But if the St. Lawrence project fails there will be no need to deepen further the principal harbors on the Great Lakes or to deepen channels or to reconstruct the locks at the Soo. They serve the largest type of lake freighter, a vessel designed to meet the conditions that obtain. So it is not quite reasonable to say that the work outlined as complementary to the St. Lawrence enterprise should not be included in the cost of the Canadian undertaking.

T. L. Munger, secretary to the inland waterways committee of the board of commerce, expressed the same views as Mr. Russell regarding the project. He was equally certain that the venture would prove a great success. He took occasion to refute charges which he said had been made in the East regarding Mr. Craig, of Duluth, head of the Titlewater Association.

been made in the East regarding Mr. Craig, of Duluth, head of the Tidewater Association.

Mr. Munger explained, "Mr. Craig had been living in Duluth year before the St. Lawrence project was advanced. He may be a visionary, but he is thoroughly sincere in what he is doing."

"A visionary" is the severest criticism that the News man heard of Mr. Craig in the Middle West. Ordinarily, he is held as sucrosanct, a Moses that is going to lead the people of that section of the country into the promised land.

"And let me tell you," Mr. Munger went on, "the construction of this waterway is not going to be a hardship to the port of New York. It is going to be a relief. You must not get the idea that all the traffic of the Great Lakes will go across the Atlantic. Perhaps as much will go to our eastern ports as overseas." Mr. Munger had heard of a plan to put through the project in the event that it was defeated in Congress. His understanding of the plan was an international nonprofit-sharing corporation, which would go out of business when the bonds for the work were retired. He had not paid much attention to the subject, because he is cocksure that everything will move along in the way that Mr. Craig, of Duluth, has arranged for it.

COMMERCE BOARD ISSUES BOOK.

The board of commerce has compiled a book on the St. Lawrence waterway, "Detroit and World Trade," a volume that visualizes Detroit as one of the great senports of the world—one to rival the busiest of the Atlantic coast. It is significant that this book, which is put forth as comprehensive and which is probably described as a textbook on the Canadian waterway, has not a word of approval in it from a deep-sea man, not a word from men who direct the affairs of the Atlantic transportation lines. In it there is no word of approval in it from a deep-sea man, not a word from men who direct the affairs of the Atlantic transportation lines. In it there is no word of authority carrying promise of performance in connection with the Canadian project. The book is written wholly to a venture of faith.

"The actual movement of freight between Detroit and the eastern seaboard," says the book, "is probably close to 5,000,000 tons annually at this time, and the average rail freight rate probably not less than 316 a ton, making the total rail freight charge approximately $50,000,000 annually. A study of existing freight rates in coastwise trade reveals that the lake and occan rate between Detroit and the seaboard would probably not exceed $8 or $10 a ton for miscellaneous freight on annually. Thus the annual saving might be $30,000,000."

That reads a good deal like a weather report—in its probabilities.

CHICAGO, ILL., January 26, 1923.

Everything is being made ready for the opening of navigation between this city and the ports of Europe. Everybody here is cocksure about the St. Lawrence project. Plans have even been made for a new harbor, one large enough and deep enough for the ready handling of the largest vessels affoat. Just as soon as Congress gives the word—and no delay is expected over the Canadian project—work will be started on the new barbor. Chicago will have the jump on all competing ports when the overseas fleets begin to move into the Great Lakes. In enthusiasm for the St. Lawrence enterprise this city is on a par with Detroit Lakes. In enthusiasm for the St. Lawrence enterprise this city is on a par with Detroit.

The absolute certainty felt here regarding the success of the proposed undertaking is strange in view of the fact that Chicago has had sad experience with ventures in deep-sea shipping. As early as 1891 Charles Counselman, a capitalist of this city, constructed, fitted, and equipped, "in a most competent and seaworthy manner," as is explained in a pamphlet by E. Piat Stratton, a naval architect of national reputation, "four modern, occan-going steel steamships, designed and built expressly for the route and trade between Chicago and Manchester, England." Every lake port had visions of the entire lake coast becoming a commercial adjunct of the seacoast, with a foreign trade of quick delivery and short haul.

STORY OF FAILURE.

Here is the rest of the story as told by Mr. Stratton:

"The first of Mr. Counselman's four ships took her departure for Manchester, but to the astonishment and chagrin of the owner and shippers alike, under rates of marine insurance—calculated upon the risks of ice, fog, and currents in the St. Lawrence and the Gulf—which were virtually prohibitive. To make matters worse several thousand dollars' worth of cargo was damaged on the first voyage out. Mr. Counselman, nevertheless, pluckily sent across the other three ships only to find himself forced to withdraw the line as impracticable owing to the high insurance on both ships and cargoes."

There was another venture here in the same direction about 10 years later. That, too, proved a dismal failure. But despite that which has gone before Chicago has faith. H. C. Gardner, president of the Great Lakes-St. Lawrence Tidewater Association, who is a power in the association of commerce of this City, says that it can be done, and that is enough.

association of commerce of this city, says that it can be done, and that is enough.

As one of the secretaries of the commerce bodies put it, "We are pretty well sold on anything Mr. Gardner recommends." Which means that he has the full confidence of the organization.

Here it may be explained that Mr. Gardner is a consulting engineer of high reputation and a pleasant and plausible man. There is no question as to his sincerity. He is an altogether different type from the propaganda and field work of the Tidewater Association.

Mr. Gardner does not hold ideas so extravagant with regard to the plan as the rank and file. But he is convinced that it will solve the ransportation troubles of the Middle West. He believes that a large percentage of the freighters on the Atlantic will be able to make Chicago through the deepened St. Lawrence. In his view the opposition in New York State comes of what he describes as "barge-caual politics." Just what he means by that he did not say. He does not consider that this opposition represents the true sentiment of the

" ILLIANA HARBOR."

"Illiana Harbor" is the name of the port that is to serve Chicage when ocean-going ships come through. It is on the Illinois-Indiana coast line, hence its name. It was created by the legislatures of the two States, and will be governed by two commissioners from each State and a fifth to be named by the Secretary of War. The pinns made by Col. W. B. Judson, United States Army, engineer in charge of this district, call for a harbor depth of 37 feet and a series of piers 700 feet wide.

It was suggested that with that depth of water there must be ex-cetation of the largest ocean-going craft making Chicago a port of

It was suggested that with that depth of water there must be expectation of the largest ocean-going craft making Chicago a port of call.

"Do you believe that the big liners will come up to Chicago when the St. Lawrence is deepened?" was a question put to L. A. Dumond, manager of the industrial department of the association of commerce.

"Why, certainly; no doubt of it," he replied.
That is the belief everywhere Mr. Craig has been given a hearing. The people generally are firmly convinced that there will be no limit to the size of ships that will sail the Great Lakes if the St. Lawrence project becomes a reality. If they had any idea that they would be restricted to the service of vessels of 6,000 and 8,000 tons, which would be the limit if the project were to prove feasible, they would have little enthusiasm for the plan. They are always thinking it terms of majestic liners making their ports. That is the lure of the Tidewater Association's preachment.

In connection with its deep-sea plans, Chicago is preparing to connect the new harbor with Lake Caliumet, a body of water of some sizelying wholly within the limits of the municipality. The idea is to develop there a new center of industry, a place for the establishment of steel mills—what not. This plan is likely to be carried out whether or not the Canadian enterprise is approved by Congress.

Then there is the project for the extension of the Chicago Drainago Canal, which follows the channel of the Des Plaines River, on to the Illinois River, a branch of the Mississippi. The canal now ends at Lockport, 58 miles distant from Chicago, It draws 10,000 cubic feet of water from Lake Michigan and has a depth of 22 feet. The plan is to carry it 58½ miles farther on, to Uitea, on the Illinois River. Legislation for this work was passed several years ago and a bond of $20,000,000 was approved for the undertaking.

Everything is ready for the completton of the project. It is simply a matter of putting the machinery in operation. This farther reach of the canal would b

SALMON'S VISION.

Here is the hope that Glenn H. Salmon, field secretary of the Mississippi Valley Association, has of the Canadian undertaking: Within 16 years after the river is opened to ocean-going ships Chicago will have a population of 10,000,000. New York will be nowhere. And don't have any doubt about it. The project is going through."

According to Mr. Salmon, the Mississippi Valley Association is the parent of Mr. Craig's organization. The older body has stood aside for a time, but it is ready again to claim its place in the forefront. The president of the association is Senator WILLIAM B. McKinley, of Illinois; the vice presidents, Gov. John D. Parker, of Louislann, and H. H. Merrick, of Chicago; secretary-treasurer, Walter Parker, the governor's son.

governor's son.

Mr. Salmon, who halls from St. Louis, is here on a fund-gathering trip. He is preparing to marshal a delegation of enthusiasts to move on Washington to impress upon upon Congress that the Mississipply Valley folk are for the Canadian route. And it appears that there is no trouble whatever in getting funds for such excursions. It seems to be simply a matter of asking.

"The large manufacturing and commercial interests contribute gone."

be simply a matter of asking.

"The large manufacturing and commercial interests contribute generously to the support of the Great Lakes-St. Lawrence Tidewater Association," the News man was told.

The Chicago Association of Commerce also contributes, and with appropriations from certain of the Middle West legislatures, to say nothing of individual subscriptions, Mr. Craig's organization does very well. It was suggested that the Tidewater Association was probably well supplied with funds for the battle in Washington.

"They've got $2,000,000, and they can get as much more, if necessary."

"Two millions,"the News man questioned.
"You said it—and then some more if they need it."

The relation of the "power ring" to the St. Lawrence Ship Canal is such that, I am sure, if the history of it could only be communicated to those who have come under the spell of the Great Lakes-St. Lawrence Tidewater Association's campaigning, they quickly would change their minds and see this scheme in its bare nakedness as the power steal it is. I would like to lay this article from the Buffalo Evening News of January 28, 1922, before you. I quote:

POWER RING'S HAND IS SEEN IN WORK FOR SHIP CANAL PROJECT— SENTIMENT AT CANADIAN CAPITAL STRONGLY AGAINST PLAN PROPOSED BY INTERNATIONAL JOINT COMMISSION.

(The Buffalo Evening News herewith gives the sixth of a series of articles telling the whole story of the agitation in favor of the billion dollar St. Lawrence waterway scheme, an agitation which has been more daugerous than anyone in the East could have dreamed.)

[By W. R. Meldrum, of the Buffalo Evening News staff.]

OTTAWA, ONTARIO, January 28.

Opinion is general in this the capital city of the Dominion that there not the ghost of a chance that Canada will commit herself to the L. Lawrence ship canal project recommended by the International bint Commission. Until the commission made its report and the Washington administration indorsed it, there was only casual interest in the subject. There was and is no strong sentiment for it. Now, that the project is taken seriously—now that it is considered likely to come before the Dominion Government for decision—opposition is organizing in force that seems to assure a quick and decisive defeat of any proposal for Canada to assume joint liability for the cost and maintenance of such a waterway as the commission recommends.

Here are the grounds on which opposition to the enterprise is based:

1. That the proposal is only a camoufage for the development of water power, with Americans the beneficiaries.

2. That it is not economically feasible for occan-going ships to traverse narrow channels.

3. That, as a matter of policy, it would be unwise for Canada to internationalize the St. Lawrence River and the Welland Canal.

4. That the damming of the St. Lawrence would have the effect of shortening the navigation season on the lower reaches of the stream by preventing the free run of ice.

5. That there are other waterway projects, wholly within Canadian ferritory, which are waiting and from which greater benefits would flow.

6. That Canada is now so heavily involved in other public enter-flow. That Canada is now so heavily involved in other public enter-prises that her financial condition does not warrant her entering upon this billion-dollar undertaking.

REGARDED AS POWER SCHEME.

Men of affairs here are convinced that in its inception the St. Lawrence project is an American hydroelectric venture and that it has had its principal encouragement from power interests that are planning a raid on the river. It should be remembered that the proposal which has led to the favorable report on the plan was first advanced at Washington, not at Ottawa. This Government acquiesced as a matter of courtesy. In the view of men who have followed closely the course of events—and that means for some 10 years—the really influential proponents of the project are talking in terms of knots when they mean watts.

This yiew is held without reflection on the latest that it has been described in the same of the project are talking in terms of knots when they mean or events—and that means for some 10 years—the really inhuental proponents of the project are talking in terms of knots when they mean watts.

This view is held without reflection on the International Joint Commission. This body was not called upon to report as to the most feasible route by which ocean-going ships might be offered passage from tidewater to the Great Lakes. It was under specific instructions to determine "what further improvement of the St. Lawrence River, between Montreal and Lake Ontario, is necessary to make the same navigable for ocean-going vessels, together with the cost thereof," and to make "its recommendation for cooperation by the United States in the improvements of said river." It was practically under orders to report favorably. The question of the feasibility of the project was not given to the commission to consider. Those who fathered the proposal had settled that question without advice or counsel of men who might be thought to know something about deep-sea shipping.

Perhaps the commission held that it had no authority to investigate the power ring which now and again made its presence felt. But though no investigation was undertaken, the identity of the parties in ulti-rior interest has been clearly established. As soon as the power plan of the commission's engineers was published, they came into the open. They are the Aluminum Co. of America, commonly known as the Aluminum Trust, the General Electric Co., and the Du Ponts—interests representing tremendous financial strength across the border. These three organizations of capital have plans for the development of 2,600,000 horsepower on the St. Lawrence River. This was brought out at hearings before the commission. Of course navigation is the first consideration with them. Their representatives have eloquently set forth before the commission that their purpose is to promote commerce—after that power.

CANADIANS NOT IN DOUBT.

The people of the Middle West have been grossly deceived. The people of Canada are alive to the situation. And on this side of the border they have other power plans of their own, and navigation plans as well. There are water powers without limit in Ontario and Quebec besides the St. Lawrence, and the people here do not propose to part with them. They are not going to sell their birthright for a mess of pottage. They consider that if developments of the magnitude contemplated by the International Joint Commission were now to be undertaken with the United States they would be at a serious disadvantage with regard to the future.

Canada could not readily develop a market for its share of the power that would be generated on the St. Lawrence, so her share would go to the American side. When Canada might need it, how could she ever get it back? That is a question asked here. It would amount to confiscation to take it from American plants that had been established to take advantage of the cheap and abundant power offered. A demand from Canada in these circumstances might well disturb friendly relations.

from Canada in these circumstances might well disturb friendly relations.

Then, as to the idea of ocean-going ships passing through the proposed waterway to Great Lake ports, whether of the American or the Canadian shore, men who know the problems of navigation say that it is out of the question—they say that it can not be done economically. That means that it never would be done.

"From an economical point of view it is improbable that ocean-going wessels will ever make a practice of trading to ports on the Great Lakes," Robert W. Reford, president of the Shipping Federation of Canada, told the International Joint Commission; "no matter to what extent the canal systems west of Montreal are enlarged and deepened, as the cost of upkeep of ocean steamers, the delays proceeding through the channels and danger of damage would be too great to make it a revenue-paying proposition.

"When we read in speeches of such men as the secretary of the Illinois Manufacturers' Association that they will see deep-draft ocean liners from Seattle, Vancouver, San Francisco, Vladivostok, Yokahama, and other oriental ports sailing up the St. Lawrence through the canals to Chicago, it almost makes one think they have lost their senses in the West. It is unsound economically; it is not possible."

AGAINST INTERNATIONALIZATION.

The people of Canada resent particularly that part of the commission's recommendation with regard to the Welland Canal—that it be internationalized along with the St. Lawrence. "This is a suggestion which public opinion in this country will be slow to sanction," says the Montreal Gazette. "The Welland Canal is purely Canadian, is being constructed wholly in Canadian territory, and in the interests of Canadian transportation. It is in no sense international, and no attempt to make it so can be regarded as other than objectionable and dangerous. It is remote from the proposed St. Lawrence waterway and is governed by none of the conditions which are being invoked in support of the internationalisation of the latter."

"Would the American people consent to the internationalizing of the Mississippi River?" a shipping federation member asked the News man. "And how about the Panama Canal? You have the free use of the existing Canadian canals. You are on perfect equality with Canadian vessel owners, yet you propose to give preference to American ships in the matter of Panama tolls. If such a proposal as this for the St. Lawrence were advanced with regard to an American waterway, a country-wide protest would sweep in on Washington. We are good friends, and we wish to be generous, but to internationalize the St. Lawrence—that is asking too much."

Here is more along the same line; this from the Rev. Canon Scott, of Quebec, former chaplain in the C. E. F.:

"The St. Lawrence, with the exception of about 100 miles, lies wholly in Canada. It is a gigantic asset of this country. But it is not merely a Canadian asset, it is an imperial one, and must be wholly under our control. At some future time the Empire might be at war with a foreign power with which the United States were at peace, and it might be necessary for us to close the river by mines or in other ways. It is the very spinal marrow of Canada. The internationalizing of the St. Lawrence would cut us off both really and sentimentally from the lower Provinces. The thing is unthinkable."

Col. William I. Gear, vice president of the Robert Reford Co., agents of the Cunard, the Anchor, the Donaldson, and the Donaldson-Thompson Lines, who has been interested in deep-sea shipping for 50 years, in conversation with the News man expressed the opinion that it would ing such dams, canals, and other works as the International Joint Commission recommends. "The action of the ice in the spring of the year is an unknown quantity," he said. "Nature has made the channels, and we believe that any interference with the

GEORGIAN BAY ROUTE PROPOSED.

More than that, Canada has had in mind for several years the construction of another waterway, one for which final plans have been made and one which lies wholly within Canadian territory—a project that is generally conceded to be feasible to establish proper and adquate connection with the Great Lakes. This is the Georgian Bay route—from Lake Huron to the St. Lawrence by way of the Ottawa River. Not only would that meet every requirement of transportation in the opinion of shipping men but along with it would go power developments, which, it is believed, would be sufficient to supply the "white coal" needs of eastern Canada for a century to come. This power is on the Ottawa River and its tributary streams. The cost of the work would be only a fraction of the cost of the St. Lawrence project, so engineers of recognized worth declare.

In summing up opposition to the proposal of the International Joint Commission, men who are in touch with affairs point out that Canada is in no condition financially to enter upon the St. Lawrence development, which they are certain will run to a billion dollars or more. Canada now is bearing a burden of $2,300,000,000—a debt largely of the war. On top of that there is a deficit this year of about $70,000,000 from the railroads taken over by the Government. The budget for the year ending March 31, 1922, is $411,845,842.22. And in considering these figures it should be remembered, as was pointed out to the News man, that the population of Canada is only $5,000,000. Business men consider that it would be foolhardy in the circumstances for Canada to enter upon the St. Lawrence development.

By and large, Canadians regard this proposed undertaking as ascheme, not a project. That is to say, a power scheme. They have looked upon it askance, with doubt and misgivings. Now that they know it fully for what it is they will have nothing of it. On this side of the border there is no such organization as the Great Lakes-St. Lawrence Tidewater Association—nothing like it in scope of activity o

POWER RING READY TO TAKE OVER BIG WATERWAY PROJECT—PLANS MADE FOR DEVELOPMENT OF 5,400,000 HORSEFOWER ON ST. LAWRENCE BY AMERICAN FINANCAL INTERESTS.

[By W. R. Meldrum, of the Buffalo Evening News staff.]

OTTAWA, ONTARIO, January 31.

From the very start of the agitation for the canalization of the St. Lawrence River to afford passage for ocean-going ships into the Great Lakes the suspicion was held here that the big idea—the real plan—was power development; that behind the agitation, and inciting it, was a group of powerful American financiers. That suspicion was confirmed at the hearing before the International Joint Commission in this city on November 14, 1921. The power-ring men then came into the open it was discovered that the stake for which they are playing is 5.400,000 horsepower, the equivalent of about 54,000,000 tons of coal a year. The interests behind this scheme are the same interests that tried to raid the St. Lawrence under a charter granted to them by the State of New York in 1907. They were then denied, but they bided their time. They waited for the Great Lakes-St. Lawrence Tidewater Association to pave the way for them. Wittingly or unwittingly, this American organisation, which has been directing the propagands in the States of the Middle West for the canalisation of the St. Lawrence, has played into the bands of the power ring. Indeed, there is more than a suspicion that the power ring has had active representation in the Tidewater Association through the affiliated morthern New York is the estamping ground of the power ring. Massena and Potsdam are represented in the league, and it happens that the headquarters of the power ring is in that nect of the woods. George T. Bishop, of Cleveland, appeared before the international Joint Commission here as spokenman for the power interests. He is onlered in the record as president of the Frontier Corporation. He said that the corporation had acquired 3,000 acres of land on the American side of the St. Lawrence River and several islands in the stream. Mr. Bishop told the commission that the corporation had filed applications for development rights through the Louisville Power Corporation and the St. Lawrence Transmission Co., both of New York State. If the commission has plans to promote navigation, so have they.

It is not hard to fix on the identity of these power interests. The record with regard to them is clear. They are the Aluminum Co. of America—that is the aluminum trust—the General Electric Co. and the Du Ponta, among the most powerful financial interests of the United States. Originally the Aluminum Trust—the Seneral Electric Co. and the Du Ponta, among the most powerful financial interests of the United States. On the American side of the St. Lawrence these organizations own more than 3,700 acres of land; on the Canadian side of the stream about 300 acres. These holdings are on the Long Sault, the greatest source of power on the river. It so happens that at this point the boundary line swings far toward the Canadian side. That would mean much to them. However, they are protected in any event as ripartan owners on the north shore. As Cel. Hugh L. Cooper, the engineer for these corporations, told the International Joint Commission, there is potential of 5,400,000 horsepower along the course. More than that, he has prepared plans for a development of that amount of electrical power.

these corporations, told the International Joint Commission, there is a potential of 5,400,000 horsepower along the course. More than that, he has prepared plans for a development of that amount of electrical power.

These interests have come to their present estate, which is one to be reckoned with internationally, through the good offices of the Tide-water Association. They hope to ride in on the wave of enthusiasm created for the St. Lawrence scheme in the Middle West. If there is objection that the cost of the undertaking is too great, the power ring is prepared to do the major part of the work at its own expense—if only it is given the power rights. According to Col. Cooper, the power plans of the engineers of the joint commission are absolutely worthless. The dams and other works called for in these plans would not withestand the first run of ice in the St. Lawrence, so the colonel told the commission. If the commission would adopt his plans there would be a large increase in the volume of power, and the development would cost $35 a horsepower less. He would save the two Governments $189,000,000 on the item of power alone.

But, of course, the prime consideration is the promotion of commerce; the first thing to provide for is navigation for ocean-going ships on the St. Lawrence. Yes, indeed; Col. Cooper has always had that in mind. His plans are drawn to that idea.

If the commission will leave it to the frontier corporation, it will provide a waterway in every respect superior to that proposed by the commission's engineers. These plans call for 31 miles of canals, with b locks along the way. Col. Cooper's plans call for only 6 miles of canal, with 6 locks, and 111 miles of pool navigation. As to the cost of the undertaking, if the plans of the commission's engineers are followed, it will not be $252,000,000 but $500,000,000. That Is what the colonel told the commission.

What has the Middle West to say to this? It is determined to have a waterway for ocean-going ships. Here is the ideal plan. Col. Cooper as the power end of the venture is concerned it is a steal. And this is the reflection upon the International Joint Commission. It has no power to review these power interests.

But it clearly is a steal. The history of the Long Sault Development Co., which is the parent of the scheme, goes to prove that. Here is a story apart, one which the News will tell to-morrow.

The record of New York State in fighting this "power ring" to hold inviolate the rights to this important development on the St. Lawrence for the benefit of all the people is a thrilling and interesting story in itself. It reveals the definite relation of the "power ring" to the St. Lawrence ship canal project, a relationship that is as sinister as it is audacious, a relationship that Congress ought to break up promptly and effectively. If these people want to develop power, if they want to reap the enormous benefits that will come from the use of one of nature's greatest resources in which all the people have a share of in-terest, let them apply to the Federal power board for permission. They will reap the major benefit; let them bear the main expense. I can understand how New England has been deceived the claim that $5 power would run the mills and factories and light the homes if the St. Lawrence development is made, but it is beyond me to know or understand why the farmers of the West, who can not possibly share in the benefits of this power, should be deceived by the false lure of it, except, as I said, that the pernicious propaganda in favor of the canal has been so intensive, so alluring, so misleading, and so far from fact, that a perusal of it reminds one of the adventures of Alice in Wonderland.

I want to offer this comprehensive summary from the Buffalo Evening News of February 1, 1922, exposing the relationship of the "power ring" to the St. Lawrence ship canal scheme:

MIDDLE WEST FOXED BY POWER RING IN BIG CANAL PROJECT—BUFFALO MAN BLOCKED St. LAWRENCE "STEAL" IN 1912—WILL IT GO THROUGH NOW AS VENTURE IN NAVIGATION?

[By W. R. Meldrum, of the Buffalo Evening News staff.]

The connection of the power ring with the St. Lawrence ship canal project is the most interesting feature of the undertaking propused by the Great Lakes-St. Lawrence Tidewater Association and recommended by the International Joint Commission. Plans were made 15 years ago for a raid on this river, which, with the Niagara, constitutes New York State's principal source of "white coal" supply. The interests represented in the power ring were balked through legislative discovery of their design, but they were not defeated. They camoufaged their project as a venture for the promotion of commerce and persuaded the Middle West to adopt it. They have brought it along to the point where all that is necessary for their success is the mere switching of plans—the changing of engineers.

The power ring came into the field in 1907, when the State legislature granted a charter to the Long Sault Development Co. and authorized it "to construct and maintain dams, canals, power houses, and creeks at or near Long Sault Island, for the purpose of improving the navigation of the St. Lawrence River and developing power from the waters thereof, and to construct and maintain a bridge and carry on the manufacture of commodities." in the St. Lawrence was defeated.

The Long Sault Development Co. was the Pittsburgh Reduction Co., now known as the Aluminum Co. of America. This fact was brought out at hearings held in Washington, for Congress a year previously (1906) had declared itself in interest with regard to power developments on boundary streams. It was shown at these hearings that this Aluminum Co., as we know it now, practically had a monopoly in the production of aluminum in the United States, a monopoly which it has maintained to this day. It was shown that the charter granted to the corporation for a development on the St. Lawrence was without limit or restriction. The State gave all that it had to give.

THE FIGHT FOR REPEAL.

In looking for ideas with regard to Nlagara legislation Senator Burd, who served in 1911 and 1912, came across the Long Sault charter. The more he studied it, the more he came to believe that it was a "steal." Finally he became convinced that the legislation of 1907 was unconstitutional. His first effort was to legislate to remove the obnoxious features of the measure—to prevent delivery of the valuable rights of the State to the corporation, practically to nullify the charter. His bill went to the judiciary committee, and it was not long before the interests behind the Long Sault Development Co. got busy. They worked on the Democratic leaders to use their efforts to keep the bill in committee. But Senator Bayne, of Staten Island, committee chairman, stood loyally by Senator Burd and the measure was finally reported out. But it went into "general orders"—the graveyard.

During the time it was in committee Senator Burd was waited on by into "general orders"—the graveyard.

During the time it was in committee Senator Burd was waited on by a man who described himself as "the district attorney of St. Lawrence County." He wanted to know how keen the interest of the Buffalo legislator was in the measure. His remarks were so pointed that Senator Burd resented them. But "the district attorney" persisted. What business had the Buffalo man to delve into power affairs of the north country? If he was interested in power, let him give his whole attention to the Niagara. Senator Burd said that he considered the project as "a steal," and he thought that justification enough for his interest in the Long Sault development charter.

But try as he would the Buffalo legislator could not bring his bill to Interest in the Long Sault development charter.

But try as he would, the Buffalo legislator could not bring his bill to clip the wings of the corporation to a vote. In "general orders" it was, and there it remained despite all his efforts. So at the next session of the legislature he introduced a resolution calling upon Attorney General Carmody for an opinion as to the constitutionality of the Long Sault charter. Strengous efforts were made to block its passage, but on an offday he managed to get it before the senate for a vote, and it was passed. The friends of the corporation were caught napping. The attorney general reported at the opening of the 1913 legislature that in his opinion the 1907 bill was unconstitutional. That was after Senator Burd's term had expired.

GOVERNMENT TAKES ACTION.

Gov. Sulzer, in a special message January 13, 1913, called for the repeal of the Long Sault Co.'s charter, setting forth that "the act in question is invalid as being in excess of the powers of the legislature, in that it provides for the allenation by the State to title to the land in the bed of the St. Lawrence River. The title of the State to those lands is a sovereign right, rather than a proprietary title. It is inconsistent with that right, which must be exercised for the benefit of the whole people, that the title to the bed of a navigable stream should be granted in fee to a private corporation."

The legislature did not act on the governor's recommendation, and on May 2, 1913, he sent another message, in which he said: "Any legislator, unless he favors the control and use of the State's natural resources by the few, rather than their conservation, development, and utilization by all the citizens with equal opportunity, should heartily favor and support the measure" for repeal of the Long Sault Co.'s charter. The legislature finally yielded on May 8. The bill was passed and signed by the governor. A fight in the courts of llowed, with the attorney general winning all along the line. The issue was not decided until December 11, 1916, when the United States Supreme Court handed down a decision sustaining the ruling of the court of appeals of the State, that the Long Sault charter was unconstitutional. The Long Sault charter was unconstitutional. The Long Sault charter was unconstitutional in the rule of the Long Sault charter for the court of appeals of the State, that the Long Sault charter was unconstitutional. Did the interests behind the Long Sault Development Co. cease their efforts to get control of the St. Lawrence—to get a minimum of 1,000,000 electrical horsepower? They did not. They are on the job to-day. The stake is worth a little patient effort. Then they have increased the size of it; they have worked the stake up to 5,400,000.

increased the size of it; they have worked the stake up to 5,400,000 horsepower.

Soon after the United States Supreme Court decided against this Soon after the reganization the propagands for the St. Lawrence ship could project was started. But the trust did not appear in the open No, indeed; it kept well in the background. It waited until the movement was well under way—until the Middle West had forced the question on the International Joint Commission. And let it not be forgotten that the instructions to the commission were specific as to the St. Lawrence. It was not told to fix upon the best possible route, but merely to say what works would be necessary to make the St. Lawrence navigable for ocean-going vessels. There may be other routes, but they could not be considered. Wittingly or unwittingly, the instructions were drawn to the perfect measure of the Aluminum Trust's design. And the commission's plans call for the principal power development at the Long Sault, where the trust has its land holdings.

When the propaganda was well advanced the Aluminum Trust, which had taken the General Electric Co. and the Du Ponts into partnership, came into the field. It made its appearance as the Frontier Foundation. Two applications for preliminary permits on the St. Lawrence were filed by the trust, one in the name of the Louisville Power Corporation, asking 1,200,000 horsepower. The permits sought were granted by the State water power commission on December 31, 1921,

The incorporators of the Louisville company, which is named after a St. Lawrence County village, are Walter F. Willson, one of the incorporators of the old Long Sault Co., Victor A. Warren, George P. Matthews, and John C. Crapser, formerly district attorney of St. Lawrence County and one of the directors of the old Long Sault Co. Mr. Crapser is now supreme court justice in the fourth judicial district. Willson is president, Matthews is cashier, and Judge Crapser is vice president of the First National Bank of Messens, where the Aluminum Co. of America has a large plant and power works.

The president of the St. Lawrence Transmission Co. is Frederick A. Stoughton, who has for many years been connected with the Aluminum Co. of America; he was with it 20 years ago in Niagara Falis. He is also president of the St. Lawrence Power Co. of Canada, which controls enormous power rights on the Canadian side near Cornwall. The other incorporators mentioned, George R. B. Gibbons, Faul B. Murphy, Carl P. Scheller, and Roy E. Thompson, are all connected with the Aluminum Co. of America.

"I presume it is common knowledge," says the News correspondent at Messens, "that these gentlemen are dummites for the Aluminum Co. of America."

Of the men mentioned in connection with the Louisville company, he says: "These gentlemen are all dummy directors. The corporation was organized by the General Electric and du Pont Interests. High L. The plan of this combination of interests is to get control of all the large water powers of the State—first of the Niagara and the St. Lawrence powers. Their biggest play at present is on the St. Lawrence River. They have preliminary permits for 2,600,000 horsepower therepermits granted by the State water supply commission. That is a more generous allowance than they would have had under the old Long Sault charter. And their engineer, when he appeared before the International Joint Commission in Ottawa last November, talked in terms of 5,400,000 horsepower. That is an amount of power beyond the ability of the average citizen to comprehend. Some idea of what it means may be had when one considers that the city of Buffalo uses in normal times about 90,000 horsepower of hydroelectric development. In terms of coal, it means about 54,000,000 tons a year.

Two preliminary permits have been granted by State water-power commission for 2,600,000 horsepower development on north-boundary stream. Engineer for interests gives 5,400,000 horsepower as final stake on St. Lawrence. That is equivalent to 54,000,000 tons of coal vear.

I do not believe that the statement made by Henry I. Harriman, president of the New England Power Co., of Boston, before the Water Power League of America that St. Lawrence River power can be developed for as low as $5 per horsepower should go unchallenged. The best answer to that is contained in the testimony of Chief Engineer Wilson, of the Montreal Light, Heat & Power Co., that on St. Lawrence developments the cost of power at the generating station would run to $40 per horse-power and would probably have to be marketed at $60 to $70 per horsepower.

This country for years has been carrying on systematic and intelligent development of its inland waterways. We have not yet attained the ideal, but until the St. Lawrence scheme came along we rapidly were moving toward a practical and sensible solution of this great problem which would utilize the internal lakes and streams of the country for the promotion of commerce and create lower freight rates for the benefit of everybody. soon say that New York is selfish in opposing the St. Lawrence project as that Ohio and other States are selfish in demanding it. Ohio has a safe and sane plan to connect the Ohio River with the Great Lakes and give passage to barges from the Lakes to New Orleans. This has been neglected, overshadowed, and all but forgotten since the fanciful St. Lawrence scheme running through Canada came along. I quote:

CRAIG VISION HURTS OHIO'S SANE PLAN FOR A WATERWAY—STATE HAS BEEN WORKING ON PRACTICAL SCHEME WHICH IS NOW BEING OVERSHADOWED BY ST. LAWRENCE CRAZE.

(The Buffalo Evening News herewith gives the fifth of a series of articles telling the whole story of the agitation in favor of the $1,000,000,000 St. Lawrence waterway scheme, an agitation which has been more dangerous than anyone in the East could have dreamed.)

[By W. R. Meldrum, of the Buffalo Evening News staff.] COLUMBUS, OHIO, January 27.

In the midst of all the movement and clamor in the Middle West for an outlet to the sea by way of the St. Lawrence River, a movement the Influence of which is felt even in this city, far inland though it is, work has been going steadily forward here on plans to connect the Great Lakes with the Ohlo River to give passage to barges to Pittsburgh and New Orleans.

This is a project of such size as to offer a solution in large measure of the transportation difficulties of the Middle West. It would connect the two great sections in which are found the basic raw materials, from ore and coking coal—Michigan and West Virginia. More than that, such a waterway would afford an outlet to the seaboard by way of the Mississippi River, an all-American route. If such a waterway were provided, the principal needs of Detroit, Chicago, Cieveland, and other industrial centers would be supplied.

Until recently this idea filled the minds of the people of Columbus and the country about it. It was the beginning and the end of their interest in water shipment. Then along came the propagandists of the Great Lakes-St. Lawrence Tidewater Association with their sectional appeal and their wonderful promises of benefits to accrue to all the Middle West, however remote from the Lakes, once the Canadian route was opened for ocean-going ships.

PROPAGANDA BEGINS.

Were the producers of this section forever to be held in leach by New York? Were they forever to pay tribute to the Wall Street interests in control of the railroads? Of course, they weren't. If it was a sectional matter, count Columbus in. If there is a division of sentiment here on the question of the advisability of having this country engage itself to pay the greater share of the cost of this Canadian enterprise, those in opposition or in doubt are at a disadvantage. They can't be heard for the clamor of the proponents of the scheme, Prof. C. E. Sherman, of the civil engineering department of the Ohio State University, which is situated here, has been at work since 1920 on plans to connect the Great Lakes and the Ohio River, in conformity with a provision of the rivers and harbors act of 1919, a provision urged by former Representative B. F. Welty, of Lima. There had been an insistent demand in Ohio for a waterway across the State and four proposals were advanced to accomplish the connection sought. These routes have been studied by Prof. Sherman, who filed his report with the Army Board of Engineers for Rivers and Harbors on January 23: Ashtabula to Pittsburgh; Cleveland to Marietti; Toledo to Cincinnati; and Sandusky to Portsmouth. He has recommended the last-named route as the most feasible and decidedly the most economical This would connect the Sandusky River, which flows north into Lake Erie, and the Scioto River, which flows south into the Ohio River.

lake Erie, and the Scioto River, which flows south into the Ohio River.

"Coal and iron make up a large part of the freight movement on the Great Lakes," said Prof. Sherman to the Buffalo Evening News man. "Detroit, for example, uses about 10,000,000 tons of steam coal a year. The Semet-Solvay plant there used 1,000,000 tons, and the Detroit Edison probably a like amount. Altogether, there are more than 20 water-front plants at Detroit which are large users of coal. "A barge canal such as is proposed from Sandusky to Portsmouth would give the steel plants at Chicago, Cleveland, Detroit, and in Indiana close connections with the coking fields at West Virginia. That would be a great thing for them. There is coal in Illinois, but it is not the kind used for coking—not the kind used in the steel industry. At the present time Toledo is the largest coal port on the Great Lakes. The volume handled there doubled between 1903 and 1913. The tying up of the two basic material sections would be of immeasurable benefit to all the cities on the Lakes."

WOULD FOLLOW STRAIGHT LINE.

WOULD FOLLOW STRAIGHT LINE.

The proposed waterway for barges would follow an almost straight line. The principal part of the work would be the construction of a canal 10 miles long to connect the Sandusky and the Scioto Rivers, between whose headwaters lies a watershed. There would be a few locks in the course and a series of reservoirs and flood-control dams. The waterway would have a depth of 10 to 12 feet and would be 250 feet wide, a considerable stream. The cost of it would be about $100,000,000, but $20,000,000 of that would be paid by conservance districts of the State, sections which are almost yearly visited with floods.

districts of the State, sections which are almost yearly visited with floods.

Sandusky, at the northern end of the waterway, has the largest natural harbor on the Great Lakes. The Ohio River, which it would join at Portsmouth, is now being improved to Cincinnati. Such a canal as this—and it would be a canal, though as wide as a good-sized riverwould be one of the busiest Inland waterways on the continent. There is no reason that barges of special type, such as were put in service last season at Duluth to ply the New York Canal, should not operate in this water course. Buffalo to New Orleans would be a possibility. But mostly, of course, it would be made to serve the lake cities of the Middle West. Then a large volume of hydroelectric power could be utilized on heads of 40 and 50 feet.

There are wide limits on the transportation possibilities of such a waterway as this. It would simply be a matter of supplying barges enough for the business that waits. As indicating what might be accomplished, Prof. Sherman pointed out that from one tow a steamer had taken a carge of 60,000 tons down the Ohlo. The largest lake freighters carry no more than 15,000 tons and the largest type of cean-going ships that might be operated profitably through the St. Lawrence would be limited to 8,000 tons.

PRACTICAL, NOT VISIONARY.

On this waterway could be transported most of the raw materials

On this waterway could be transported most of the raw materials required by Cleveland, Detroit, and Chicago. A great part of their manufactured products could also be moved over this route, whether for home or foreign markets. Everything considered, the Sandusky-Portsmouth waterway would have an immense advantage for American industrial centers over the Canadian route in the respect, particularly, that the navigation season on it would be many weeks longer. Only it would never afford passage for Cunarders, an idea on which the unschooled proponents of the St. Lawrence project let their fancy play.

it would never afford passage for Cunarders, an idea on which the unschooled proponents of the St. Lawrence project let their fancy play.

The construction of this waterway would mean an end of floods in this part of the State, which have taken heavy toll of life and property. In the spring of 1913 about 100 persons were drowned or died of exposure incident to the flood that inundated a large section of the city. Great damage was also done south of the city. Every spring there is the fear that the Scloto, swollen by freshets, will go on a rampage in the valley. So the work proposed by Prof. Sherman would serve a triple purpose—relieve transportation pressure, supply a large store of "white coal," and prevent floods.

But for all that the project is largely overlooked in the enthusiasm that has been aroused for the St. Lawrence scheme by the field agents sent out by Charles P. Craig, of Duluth. After studying the lines of a Leviathan, the lines of a canal barge prove uninteresting. Even the Columbus newspapers pass it by in favor of the Canadian enterprise. With them the Sandusky-Portsmouth project has become of hardly incidental interest. Indeed, it was in one of the new spaper offices here that the News man came in contact with the most fervent of all the proponents of the St. Lawrence scheme that he met in his travels. To this convert New York State and all who came from it were anathema. The News man attempted an Interview, and he got an harangue for his pains.

"But do you know what proportion of the cost of the St. Lawrence project New York State would be called to pay?" was the only question the News man was able to get through.

"Not a cent," was the reply; "not a damn cent. The project will be paid for out of tolls.

"That will mean high tolls? That isn't a reasonable..."

That was too much for Mr. Craig's friend. He became incoherent. The attempted interview closed right there.

But taking the cost of the construction of the Canadian deep waterway out in tolls, that was something new.

ST. LAWRENCE PLAN HAS TWO GREAT RIVALS—PITTSBURGHERS FOR CANAL TO LAKE ERIE AND THEM USE OF BARGE WATERWAY.—STATE ENGINEER SHOWS NEW YORK NOW OWNS GIFT OFFERED.

[By W. R. Meldrum, of Buffalo Evening News staff.]

NEW YORK, February 9.

Discussion of the St. Lawrence power and ship canal project before the convention here of the Waterpower League of America has served to bring to attention plans for the construction of two other waterways. One of them would serve the Pittsburgh district, to give it connection with the Great Lakes, and the other would serve the prairie Provinces of Canada, to give them connection with Hudson Bay.

Plans for these waterways will be urged at Washington and at Ottawa as against the proposal advanced by the Great Lakes-St. Lawrence Tidewater Association. Advancement of these projects, in addition to the Sandusky-Portsmouth plan, which would connect Lake Erie with the Ohio River and the Georgian Bay canal plan, advocated by the Province of Quebec and a large part of Ontario, makes the St. Lawrence proposal more than ever doubtful.

The Pittsburgh plan was brought to the convention's attention by W. H. Stevenson, of Pittsburgh, president of the Lake Erie & Ohio Canal board, a body created by the Legislature of Pennsylvania. The route for it, which has been surveyed by Prof. J. F. Holdsworth, of the University of Pittsburgh, contemplates a canal from Ashtabula on Lake Erie to a point near Niles, in Ohio, a stretch of 51 miles. There it would join the Mahoning River and follow that stretch to its junction with the Beaver River, a tributary of the Ohio.

WOULD USE BARGE CANAL.

WOULD USE BARGE CANAL.

It would be possible then, Mr. Stevenson explained, to tie up with the New York Barge Canal. He estimates that it would take seven days to get shipments through to the port of New York by the use of the two waterways. The Pittsburgh waterway would be 12 feet deep and 185 feet wide, with locks 425 feet long and 56 feet in width. The present estimated cost of this project is $100,000 000. When costs become normal it may be built for $65,000,000. The Pennsylvania delegation in Congress is expected to line up solidly for this project as against the Canadian waterways.

Congress is expected to line up solidly for this project as against the Canadian waterway.

The Hudson Bay plan was explained by Maj. Honore J. Jaxon, of Fourches de la Saskatchewan. The idea is to canaliae the Nelson Rayerom Lake Winnipeg north to Hudson Bay, which is open for navigation for about three and one-half months in the year—at the very time when the products of the prairle Provinces are ready for market.

This plan was presented to the International Joint Commission by former Mayor Gray, of Winnipeg, an engineer of recognized ability. He told the commission that there was no sentiment either in Manitoba or in Saskatchewan for the St. Lawrence route, but that they were committed to the northern route. The estimate on this proposed waterway government to hasten completion of the Hudson Bay Railroad, which now is within 90 miles of tidewater. With this road completed and a waterway provided north from Lake Winnipeg, every transportation requirement of the Canadian west would be met.

WILLIAMS ANSWERS HARRIMAN.

WILLIAMS ANSWERS HARRIMAN.

Henry I. Harriman, of Boston, president of the New England Power Co., who championed the St. Lawrence project before the convention, has been answered by State Engineer Williams, who had this to say in part:

has been answered by State Engineer Williams, who had this to say in part:

"The question of power and power rights is of paramount importance to all the people of the United States as well as the people of New York and the New England States. The St. Lawrence enthusiasts declare that the power that will be developed incidental to the construction of the proposed ship canal will more than compensate the United States for its initial cash outlay.

"The plan as presented to Congress calls for the construction of a power dam in the Long Sault Rapids between New York and Canada, it is estimated that approximately 2,000,000 horsepower can be developed at this site, one half of which will go to the Canadian Government and the other half to the United States.

"Strange as it may appear, this plan fails to take into account the fact that all the power that is to compensate the United States for its investment in bearing one-half the cost of building this canal now belongs to the State of New York and its people. In other words, one half of all the potential energy found within the limits of the international boundary line now belongs to the State of New York while the other half belongs to Canada.

NEW YORK STATE NOW OWNS POWER.

NEW YORK STATE NOW OWNS POWER.

NEW YORK STATE NOW OWNS POWER.

"This condition certainly raises a somewhat complex problem for the people of New York to consider. It also involves a question of ownership and damages. This is due to the fact that once the United States Government enters into an agreement to canalise the St. Lawrence River it is placed in a position whereby it can take over the power that belongs to New York on the ground that it is required for the purpose of navigation. If this is done the State of New York stands to lose its vested right to the power which it now owns, and this power goes into a general fund out of which it is asserted that the ship canal project is to be financed.

"Assuming that this claim as to the value of this water power is well founded, we find that New York is placed in a most unenviable position. Because of this State's population and weaith its people would be taxed so that New York would pay approximately 28 per cent of the initial cash outlay for constructing the canal and at the same time stands to lose valuable power rights from which it can derive a very considerable annual income. Such a plan would practically place the State of New York in the position of paying the entire United States cost of the project. While such an arrangement would no doubt please the Western States it would be somewhat severe upon the State of New York. Mr. Harriman has told us that the harbors and channels in the Lakes can easily be deepened from 21 to 25 feet at relatively small expenditure. As early as 1900 Mr. George Y. Wisner, of the board of engineers on deep waterways, estimated that the cost of deepening connecting channels and harbors in the Great Lakes would he $7,000,000 for each additional foot in depth, while the annual maintenance charge for each additional foot of depth would be $245,000. In view of Increased wages and material costs it is very fair to assume that the cost would now be considerably in excess of the estimate made by Mr. Wisner some 21 years ago."

Mr. Speaker, I have attempted in the foregoing to show some of the controlling reasons why Congress, from the standpoint of the public interest, should not embark upon this visionary scheme of canalizing the St. Lawrence River. I have gone over the report of the International Joint Commission and was somewhat surprised to find the peculiar manner in which it handled the statements that were made by practical men against this scheme. The commission apparently set out with the predetermination to justify the ship canal at any cost, and it certainly did so. Statements of witnesses in opposition to the canal on account of one or more of the many reasons which make construction of it the height of folly either were belittled or ignored, while, on the other hand, the statements in favor of the canal were illuminated and enlarged. The commission went out of its way to apologize for the lack of interest that existed in Canada; but I want to say that, regardless of its declarations, the facts as they exist can not be ignored or concealed. Investigators who have gone into Canada find that instead of mere apathy there is a very lively and deep-seated opposition to the St. Lawrence ship canal.

The publication which I have quoted shows, as a result of an investigation, that there is "manifest a sentimental concern, particularly on the part of French Canadians, who constitute by far the greater part of the population" in the Province of Quebec. They consider that the protection of the river against exploitation is a duty peculiarly their own. They regard the plan that has been advanced as a threatened encroachment on their heritage.

Why the International Joint Commission gave so little consideration to the expert opinion of the navigators who testified before it and stated clearly and with emphasis that the ship canal can not be operated successfully is a question that the commission alone can answer. But the fact remains that those who have given this phase of the subject consideration are absolutely satisfied that the hope of having ocean-going vessels navigate such a ship canal as is proposed is a dream that never can be realized. The economic factors operating to make this so are unchangeable and immutable; they are the same to-day as they were yesterday and will be to-morrow. R. W. Reford, president of the Shipping Federation of Canada, states in the Buffalo News the reasons why the St. Lawrence can not be used successfully or economically by ocean-going vessels. Mr. Reford declares:

ford declares:

1. It would not be commercially practical for ocean-going vessels to trade between Montreal and the Great Lakes ports in competition with the Lake freighters. The fixed charges and operating expenses on the Lake boats are so much smaller than on the transatiantic steamers, that even counting the transshipping charges, the Lake boats could handle the traffic above Montreal at a cheaper rate than the oceangeing boats. The Lake boats, on the other hand, on account of their light construction, are entirely unsuited for ocean trade.

ESTIMATE TOO LOW.

2. The estimate of $252,728,200 for a 25-foot navigation between Montreal and Lake Ontario does not give any idea of the sums which would have to be spent in deepening the harbors of the Great Lakes and the connecting channels between the various lakes. The depth of Great Lake harbors and channels does not average over 20 feet, and H. H. Outerbidge, chairman of Port of New York Authority, claims that this work would cost from $500,000,000 to cover the expenditure for deepening the Weiland Canal. The important item of interest during construction has also been apparently neglected.

3. To the estimate of maintenance costs, $2,502,000, should be added the maintenance cost on the Welland Canal and the fixed charges on the whole capital expenditure. No mention of these fixed charges is made in the report, and on the Lake Ontario-Montreal division alone they should amount to over $20,000,000 a year.

4. No evidence has been submitted to the Shipping Federation of canada demonstrating that the probable traffic requirements were such as to justify the enormous expenditure required to provide 25-foot navigation from Fort William to Montreal. Besides, if a deeper waterway were required, preference should be given to the Ottawa route which has the advantage of being shorter and of being entirely in Canadian territory.

5. The report states that the water power developed should be con-the advantage of being shorter and of being entirely in Canadian territory;

5. The report states that the water power developed should be considered as a by-product of the navigation project, but there is nothing to show how the sale of this power or of the power rights would help to carry the navigation project.

6. The navigation interests on the St. Lawrence require all the depth of water available between Montreal and the sea, and each inch of available depth in Montreal Harbor means an additional cargo of 52 tons, Nearly every year the depth of water in the 30-foot channel is appreciably less than 30 feet. It has been as low as 26 feet.

WHAT OF FLUCTUATIONS?

7. The report of the Canadian and the American engineers states that a daily fluctuation in the pool above the proposed Long Sault Dam of 1.5 feet is anticipated, and further that "it is not probable that variations will occur greater than can be compensated for by the use of Lake St. Francis as a flattening agency." The shipping interests claim that it is impossible to predict these fluctuations without knowing exactly the nature of the load of the proposed plant and that the storing up of water during off-peak hours would probably occasion dangerous daily fluctuations in the level of the river at and below Montreal.

"In conclusion," said Mr. Redford, "the following the said that the said of the said of Montreal.

"In conclusion," said Mr. Redford, "the federation can only reiterate that in its opinion our finances want careful study before fresh obligations are entered into which would involve the country in the expenditure of millions of money, and this unremunerative money—as canals along the border are free—so that the expenditure must be borne by the people already heavily taxed. Therefore the federation is of the opinion that any project for canalization extensions should be subject to extremely close scrutiny, and all alternative routes should be carefully considered before any action is taken."

Adam E. Cornelius, of Buffalo, one of the largest vessel operators on the Great Lakes, is particularly qualified to express an opinion on the navigation features of the proposed I will not take the time to go into all the ramifications of the statements that Mr. Cornelius has made, but I do want to

up the gist of the whole situation. I quote from a statement by Mr. Cornellus:

Waiving all previous arguments, I contend that the supply of ocean steamers available for cargoes on the Great Lakes would be limited by the few import cargoes that such ocean steamers could locate in foreign ports or on the seaboard for delivery to the Great Lakes. In-asmuch as the greatest density of the population of the country is along the Atlantic scaboard, such ports, as New York, Philadelphia, Baltimore, and Boston will always be the logical ports for imports, and, such being the case, there is where the steamers would discharge their cargoes, and it would be seldom indeed that a steamer of the ocean type could find a full cargo in foreign ports or elsewhere that would enable her to make direct delivery to the Lakes; and if the eastern seaports like New York, Philadelphia, or Boston are the destinations for ocean steamers, they could not economically be expected to proceed light from such ocean ports up the Atlantic coast via the St. Lawrence to the Great Lakes for a return cargo, no matter what rates might prevail. In fact, we refer to the fact that the firm of Boland & Cornellus recently purchased a former lake steamer, the William P. Palmer, which we brought back to the Lakes with an ocean crew and under ocean conditions. We book on a cargo of coal at New York at $3 per cord, and in spite of these two apparently high-paying freights the said steamer, under ocean operation and an ocean crew, was $15,000 in debt on arrival at Buffalo. If such were the result operating with cargo, what chance would an ocean boat, coming up here light, have to compete with Lake boats in reducing the lake-to-ocean rate? If ocean steamers can not be relied upon to secure import cargoes for the Great Lakes to make them available for cargoes here, and if they can not compete with Lake boats in reducing the lake-to-ocean rate? If ocean steamers can not be relied upon to secure import cargoes for the Great Lakes to make them available for cargoes h

In this connection I also want to call your attention to a statement of Lewis Nixon, a shipbuilder of New York. Mr. Nixon, being a practical man, thoroughly familiar with navigation conditions on the ocean and Lakes, has the same views about navigation that Mr. Cornelius and Mr. Reford have. He says that a ship canal from the Great Lakes to Montreal would not be a success commercially, and that money spent upon it would be wasted, so far as the United States is concerned. Mr. Nixon knows that great ships built for the open sea or the Lakes must proceed cautiously and with a very great reduction of speed in shallow or canalized waters. Cargo vessels on the Great Lakes run about 10 miles an hour, he stated. So in the canalized river between the Lakes and Montreal a vessel would take twice the time that she would require to cover a like distance in the free deep waters of the open sea or lake.

Then, turning to the economic side of lake vessel navigation, Mr. Nixon said that consideration should be given to the fact that the ships that would use the St. Lawrence route would have to make their earnings in seven months, for the Canadian stream is clogged with ice for five months of the year. We may safely place the cost of navigating the ordinary lake vessels at $500 a day, said Mr. Nixon, and we need only look into the use of the proposed Montreal route to be convinced that when using it vessels must charge such high rates that cargoes will be driven to a cheaper route, if such cheaper route exists, and such cheaper route does exist by way of the Lakes and the barge canal.

We can bring about 250,000 bushels of grain from Duluth to Buffalo, with return cargo of coal, in about eight days, he says. Assuming the lake freight at the high-level figure of 4 cents a bushel, said Mr. Nixon, the down trip would pay $19,000, and $4,000 for coal would pay the expenses back. But if the same vessel went to Montreal the trip would cost about $4,500 for the nine days required. There would be no coal to bring back, so that in coming back, saving a day in the run, she would spend another $4,000. And please note, continued Mr. Nixon, that instead of making 20 trips she would make only 10. So, unless she could receive twice the rate per bushel, she could not engage in the service. While if she charged twice as much the owner would forfeit the business.

The Congress of the United States should not put its stamp of approval upon this proposition without understanding.

I am convinced that when the subject has been thoroughly investigated and Members vote according to their intelligence and not upon the basis of created false sentiment there will not be one vote in favor of it.

It is lacking in economic feasibility. It is not a navigation proposition, but purely a power proposition, to be financed out of the Treasury of the United States. It is a mirage created by honeved words poured into the willing ears of those who seek relief from the railroad rates that leave but little for those who have toiled to produce. It is a "painted ship upon a painted sea." If the truth were brought keenly home to those who have the hope, they would rise in their might to protect themselves against the exploitation of their pocketbooks to aid those who ask for bread and to whom they seek to hand a stone.

Let the facts stand forth. Let pitiless publicity be given to the whole project and it will fall of its own weight.

Soldiers' Compensation Bill—Why Jeopardize Its Enactment by an Unjust Tax Provision that is a Political and Economic Liability.

EXTENSION OF REMARKS

HON. JAMES A. FREAR,

OF WISCONSIN,

. IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES,

Monday, February 20, 1922.

Mr. FREAR. Mr. Speaker, on February 16 last week I sent a letter to every Member of the House relating to the soldiers' compensation bill and protesting therein against the imposition of a consumption tax upon the country to finance the bill. The soldiers' bill will pass the House and ought to pass, in my judgment, but no obnoxious tax ought to be coupled with a meritorious proposition. No obnoxious tax or any other kind of tax ever before was attached to any appropriation by Congress.

The letter of February 16 was written to advise Members of objections to a sales tax advocated by other Members of the House, one of whom had written on that day asking commitments of Members on the sales tax proposal. That was within his rights beyond criticism, but I desire to suggest reasons for careful consideration before signing commitments on the tax.

February 17, the following day, the Washington Times contained a single two-line extract from that letter, quoting me as follows:

A bonus bill will pass the House, but if an open discussion is had it will contain a consumption tax,

The letter squarely states if open discussion is had the bill will "not" contain a consumption tax, and with that exception the brief paragraph taken from a fairly long letter is correct, but I could have wished more of the letter had been quoted and that the two lines extracted had been rightly stated. Without other means of placing sales-tax facts before those interested, this is the only avenue of information available. Herewith I append the letter in full. It was written before the letter from the President had been received or made public and I quote it because it discusses the merits of the proposed sales tax:

HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES, Washington, D. C., February 16, 1922,

House of Representatives,

Washington, D. C., February 16, 1922.

Dear Colleague: The proposal to finance the soldiers' bill with a consumption tax means to tax the living wage of labor when the average man is receiving less than $500 prewar purchasing power, on all that his faully consumes. In Canada it is estimated it increases cost of living from $30 to $50 per family, due to pyramiding of prices.

Clothing, shoes, food, gasoline, machinery, everything not specifically exempted, is increased in price from two to ten times the amount of tax according to Canadian experience. Sugar, 10 cents per pound there last month, was 6 cents here, according to official reports, and articles exempted this year are included next year. Every man, woman, and child, whether working or out of employment, pays the increased price through this "painless sales tax." Rockefeller and thousands of multi-millionaires pay the same tax, while a half billion dollar tax means $2,000,000,000 or $3,000,000,000 added prices to those who consume. The Washington Times says: "Wall Street welcomes it," and as $500,000,000 was recently exempted from excess profits, luxuries, and high surfaxes over the consumption, there is a reason.

All American farming and labor organizations are unanimous against the tax, and they represent $5 per cent of the consumption tax that will be paid, according to witnesses. A leading Republican Member from New York said to me not 10 Republican Members from New York said to me not 10 Republican Members from New York said to me not 10 Republican Members from New York said to me not 10 Republican Members from New York said to me not 10 Republican Members from New York said to me not 10 Republican depublican Members from New York said to me not 10 Republican depublican many appeared against it. A sales tax is opposed by practically every disinterested tax expert and by labor and agriculture here and in Canada, where it has been tried and repudlated at the polls. In the Record of December 22, 1921, page 710, will be found

Immediately following the letter a colleague, who had been to Canada on the sales-tax trip, challenged the statement that the subject of a sales tax had been an issue in the Canadian elections. In the RECORD of December 22 I stated that a complete turnover of the Canadian Parliament occurred at the election December 6, 1921, as follows: Prior to the election the Parliament stood Conservatives, 120; Liberals, 84; Progressives, 14. The election gave Conservatives, 51; Liberals, 117; Progressives, 65; or an opposition vote of 177 to 51, compared with a prior Conservative majority in a vote of Conservatives 120 to 98.

This tremendous overturning of the Canadian Parliament, according to my advices, was occasioned by a high protective tariff and a burdensome manufacturers' sales tax like that which is now being urged upon us by committee members.

CANADIAN POLITICS.

From many letters of denunciation of the Canadian sales tax I quote the following as to the political issue with labor organizations.

In a letter dated Toronto, Canada, December 13, from Toronto District Labor Council, it is stated:

While organized wage earners have not given any official expression regarding the sales tax, the general discussions on the political cituation during the last few weeks leave no doubt as to their opinion. This system of taxation was soundly condemned by every speaker in any way connected with the labor movement officially.

Toonwoo District Labor Council,
James Watt, Secretary.

The foregoing is a square expression of labor in Canada on the subject of a sales tax and of its political significance when it was "condemned by every speaker in any way connected with the labor movement.

FARMERS MAKE POLITICAL ISSUE IN CANADA.

From the United Farmers of Alberta the following statement is significant of the political issue last election, when practically all of western Canada was wrested from the Conserva-

CALGARY, CANADA, December 31, 1921.

President Wood has referred to me your letter of December 6 re sales tax. I may say that there is a very strong feeling against the sales tax, and that it was vigorously attacked by many of the speakers of the organized farmers during the recent Federal general election. The inclosed pamphlet entitled "Sales Tax Hits the Poor Man" (issued by the Canadian Council of Agriculture) is, I think, a summary of the arguments used against this tax during the campaign, while the "Try Outs in Taxation" also contains references to this matter. * *

In Taxalion and colors in the United States is I was interested to note that the sales tax in the United States is advocated by big business and financial interests, which fear the heavy income, excess-profits, and estate taxes. Exactly the same groups of interests advocated the tax in Canada, and you will note from the namphlet "Sales Tax Hits the Poor Man" the representatives of the agricultural interests in this country were not consulted in any way in connection with the matter.

Yours, very truly,

UNITED FARMERS OF ALBERTA,

UNITED FARMERS OF ALBERTA, W. N. SMITH.

Educational Department.

The sales tax was "vigorously attacked" by many of the speakers of the organized farmers during the recent Canadian election. Results speak for themselves.

WHAT CANADA DID.

Before the Ways and Means Committee Edward F. Grady, speaking for the American Federation of Labor, said on February 3:

The members of our organization over in Canada joined with the farmers in protest against the sales tax, and at the last election on December 6 we were enabled to defeat all of those men who voted for a sales tax (p. 140).

You took off $450,000,000 from the corporations which made excess rolls.

You reduced the surtaxes on incomes by the amount in the last bill you repealed $60,000,000 in the corporations which made excess the corporations which made excess rolls.

It is an extremely dangerous proposition, and I predict if you impose a sales tax the people of this country will do what the people of Canada did when they had an opportunity—defeat everyone who voted for it (p. 141).

I am making no comment on this testimony taken before the committee excepting to disclose the political action taken by the people of Canada with reference to the Canadian manufacturers or sales tax.

Another witness before the Ways and Means Committee. H. C. McKenzie, tax expert for the American Farm Bureau Federation, was asked:

Mr. OLDPIRLD. Do you know personally that that (the Canadian sales tax), was an issue in the recent campaign in Canada?

Mr. MCKENZIE. Yes: it was an issue in the campaign, and the same interests that are opposed to the sales taxes and consumption taxes in this country opposed them in Canada also. Labor and the farmers are opposed to it there and were fighting it there.

As stated by Mr. McKenzie, the sales tax was vigorously attacked in Canada by many of the speakers of the organized farmers during the recent general election. In order that it may not seem the orlinon of labor in the letter on a sales tax was isolated I again quote briefly from Canadian sources.

From a number of letters the following indicates what the consumer thinks of the Canadian tax:

ST. JOHNS TRADE AND LABOR COUNCIL, St. Johns, New Brunswick, December 12, 1991.

* * Yours of the 3d received inquiring about the sales tax in force in Canada. * * Briefly, the way the tax works is that each time an article is turned over or sold this tax is collected, and in these days of manufacturers, jobbers, wholesalers, retailers, and other middle men it is easily seen where the tax lands us by the time the article reaches the consumer, for each time the article is sold the tax is collected and, of course, added to the next selling price, and a small tax of 1 or 13 per cent easily amounts up to possibly 10 per cent or more in some cases.

Fraternally, yours,

GEO. R. MELVIN, Secretary.

A SEVERE TAX ON THE WAGE EARNER.

Hamilton District Trades and Labor Council, Hamilton, Ontario, December 26, 1931.

Hamilton, Ontario, December 28, 1931.

* * Re sales tax in Canada and its effects upon the wage earners; can only say that this tax falls with peculiar severity upon the wage earner. It is very much like a tariff, minus the protective benefits. It is passed on to the consumer in every instance. And as the working classes on a whole are the greatest consumers, they of necessity pay the greater share of the tax.

This, however, is in strict accord with true capitalistic economics and administration. They are sternly opposed to all forms of direct taxation, which would mean that those who own approximately 85 per cent of the wealth of the country would pay their just share of the taxes. This, of course, would never do. Hence the sales tax. Trusting that this information is answering your query,

I am.

Yours, fraternally,

[SEAL.]

H. G. FORTER, General Secretary.

[SEAL.]

H. G. FOSTER, General Secretary.

Again I quote from another letter:

TORONTO DISTRICT LABOR COUNCIL, Toronto, December 13, 1921.

Toronto District Labor Council,

Toronto, December 13, 1921.

This tax was imposed to supersede the surplus profits tax which was in operation during the later stages of the war.

While organized wage carners have not given any official expression regarding the sales tax, the general discussions on the political situation during the last few weeks leave no doubt as to their opinion. This system of taxation was soundly condemned by every speaker in any way connected with the labor movement, officially or otherwise.

My information leads me to believe that the tax is imposed on the manufacturers output, the increased cost being passed on to the dealers and eventually the consumers pay the tax in increased prices. Unlike the income tax and business tax, which recognize more or less the principle of "ability to pay," the sales tax applies to consumers in the purchase of commodities, and if the consumer can not pay the increased price by reason of the tax, he goes without the goods. This sales tax largely applies to the necessaries of life, hence you will readily understand why organized workers oppose such methods of taxation when surplus profits are untouched. I am further of the opinion that the great majority of our people are unaware of what this sales are amount. no mention being made concerning the tax, to put the whole matter shortly—legally filmfiammed.

Yours, truly,

Torondo District Labor Council,

TORONTO DISTRICT LABOR COUNCIL, JAMES WATT, Secretary.

"Legal flimflamming" is a name with which to entitle the proposed sales tax here. If its passage results in a political turnover like that experienced by Canada a few weeks ago, it will evidence a well-grounded, universal prejudice against filmflam games.

LEGAL FLIMFLAMMING.

One other brief statement I quote from a communication dated Ottawa, December 2, that is more of a résumé of the tax than is covered by other correspondence. It says:

OTTAWA, ONTABIO, December 2.

Ottawa this week received, entertained, and introduced to the intricacles of its sales tax act a party comprising 47 Members of Congress, representing 30 different States, railway men, newspaper men, and others. They came as the guest of Mr. William Randoiph Hearst, with Hon. LESTER D. Volk, of New York, as head. * * But while the members of the party studied the sales tax act from a variety of angles, your correspondent ventures the assertion that they did not receive nor consider facts with reference to its application to the consumer. I do not believe that in their examination of Government statistics they found that a msn with a wife and one child in Canada pays $18.66 every year as a result of this form of taxation; that a man with a wife and two children pays $24.88; that families of varying sizes pay on the following basis:

Man, Man, Man, Man,	wife, and wife, and wife, and wife, and	tbree children four children sive children six children seven children eight children	$31, 10 37, 82 43, 54 49, 76 55, 98 62, 20

In other words, the sales tax in Canada adds to the living expenses of a family of 10 $5 a month. Families of this size may be "unfashionable," but those who are not particularly stylish feel it to the extent as it applies, as illustrated above. Bachelors are lucky!

These figures are based upon official statements. Sales-tax collections for the 12 months ended October last amounted to $52,870,000, while our population is approximately $,500,000. This means a percapita tax of $6.22 for every man, woman, and child in Canada yearly. The following table strikingly illustrates what income and sales tax combined mean to a Canadian, as compared with a citizen of the United States:

Canada, Income—man, wife, and two children	$2,	500.	00
Income tax Sales tax		24.	00
TotalUnited States.		28.	88
Income-man, wife, and two children	$2,	500.	00

The sales tax in Canada is, above all else, a tax on consumers. The more you buy the more you pay. It is paid, in the majority of cases, not on one able to pay but in proportion as one must buy things. With a person of means it is entirely optional whether he buy expensive furniture, limousine, etc., but in buying articles of ordinary consumption the average person has no choice. We must buy to live, to exist, and as we buy we pay.

The sales tax increases the cost of living. There can be no doubt about it. In Canada it is not a tax on luxuries, it is a tax on everything; and we must have necessities before we have luxuries.

CANADIAN TAX AND THE FARMER.

In this country it can be safely said that organized labor and organized agricultural societies are overwhelmingly opposed to a sales tax, as I have shown by reputable witnesses. In Canada the organizations are not so closely formed, but from the for-going it may well be deduced that labor in Canada is against a sales tax. It could not be otherwise. Agricultural interests in Canada are not for a sales tax.

The Winnipeg Grain Growers' Guide put it that a sales tax is immensely pleasing to those who had to pay the excess-profits and income tax and who care little where the burden of taxation falls as long as it doesn't fail on them.

It savs:

The people want justice in taxation before convenience, and there is precious little justice in this proposed tax on sales.

Admitting that the sales tax is finding great favor with financial interests across the border, it adds:

cial interests across the border, it adds:

To those who are not unacquainted with the ways of financial interests, the mere fact that the proposition emanates from their councils is enough to provoke suspicion, and when it is affirmed that the tax is "passed along in small fractions and is finally paid by the coissumer, practically without his knowledge, and the additions are so trifling as not materially to affect prices," that such a tax would raise more revenue than the country actually needs, and that its adoption would lead to repeal of the excess-profits tax and the income tax, one begins to detect the "nigger in the woodpile." It takes a wizard of finance to detect the "nigger in the woodpile." It takes a wizard of finance to from the people of Canada.

In the Excess of December 22, 1021, and Jenney 27, 1022. In

In the Records of December 22, 1921, and January 27, 1922, I To the Recease of December 22, 1321, and January 21, furnished many statements from agricultural organizations of Canada. These will not be repeated, but I add a statement issued by the Canadian Council of Agriculture that every Representative in Congress may well read, because it gives the farmer's viewpoint of the manufacturers' sales tax, which he declares collects 53 per cent of all the tax from farmers of Canada, because of their large purchases of things consumed and of things used, from shoes, sugar, and shirts, to gasoline and machinery.

The statement follows:

CANADIAN SALES TAX.

CANADIAN SALES TO SALES

treats them all alike, whether they be rich or poor, able to pay or not able to pay.

Therefore the sales tax, which was first introduced in Canada during May, 1920, is one that merits close study. This is especially true because it is intended to fail upon the great mass of the people, being levied, in so far as Canada is concerned; on a large number of the necessaries of alife. It is thus primarily a consumption tax, which is another good reason why it should be thoroughly studied, for it is levied not in proportion to one's sbillty to pay but in proportion as one consumes. As first introduced, it was a tax of 1 per cent on sales by the manufacturer or producer to the wholesaler or jobber, who in turn collected from the retailer. On sales made direct by the manufacturers or producer to the retailer the rate was 2 per cent. In 1921 the rate was increased to 1½ per cent on sales by the manufacturer or producer to the retailer the rate was 2 per cent. In 1921 the rate was increased to 1½ per cent on sales by the manufacturer or producer to the wholesaler or jobber; when the sale is made direct to the retailer the rate is 3 per cent. Another tax of 1 per cent is also collected on imports, the rate on such sales to the consumer being not less than 4 per cent.

Tower approximating to the sales tax were collected in Europe as far ports, the rate on such sales to the consumer being not less than a percent.

Thires approximating to the sales tax were collected in Europe as far back as the Middle Ages, but coming down to the history of the last balf century the sales tax made its appearance in Mexico nearly 40 years ago, during the regime of dictator Porfirio Diaz. The finances of Mexico were then in a chaotic state; taxation, being very little understood, was only slightly discussed, and, as the Mexicans had to buy and sell, Diaz came to the conclusion that by taxing these absolutely necessary operations he could raise revenue, and he did.

The sales tax was next copied by the United States administration in the Philippine Islands. After the Spanish-American War, through which these islands passed to the United States, their business life was in a state of collapse; the Spanish market, on which they had depended largely, having been closed to them. Being desirous of bringing about free trade with the United States, the sales tax was introduced as a means of securing a substitute for the revenue that had chiefly come through customs levied on American imports. France in 1920 adopted the turnover tax, which in principle is similar to the sales tax, though more equitable in that in France it included services and transactions of all kinds, as well as commodities. Germany also has such a tax, which is very far-reaching in its effect.

WHO ASKED FOR IT?

WHO ASKED FOR IT?

Whatever may be said in favor of the sales tax, there is no doubt about it being an attempt to secure new revenue from the great mass of the people who work for a living. There is no pretension that it lightens the load of taxation resting on the masses; on the contrary, it is usually accompanied by measures designed to relieve the well-tod of taxes borne by them. Canada's experience has demonstrated this in the most striking nanner.

By whom has this tax been advocated? By the farmers, by labor, or by the great mass of those of small means? Influential financial, industrial, and commercial interests started the agitation. In March there was held at Toronto a conference on taxation attended by representatives of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association, the Canadian Credit Men's Association, the Retail Merchants' Association, and the Canadian Wholesale Grocers' Association. Notither the organized farmers nor labor were invited, though both would have sent representatives had their presence been desired. Note the recommendations made to the minister of finance by this gathering: "That the business profits tax shall not be reenacted; that the income tax as regards corporations shall be repealed; that the present existing tax on confectionery shall be abolished; that the present sales tax shall be adjusted so as to provide the additional revenue needed by the Dominion Government."

It is true that in 1920, when the sales tax was first introduced, no taxes were shollshed or reduced. But in 1921, when the tax was increased, it was made to do the bidding of the interests represented at the Toronto gathering, and no others. Everything asked, save the repeal of the liceone tax affecting corporations, was granted, and the nature of the sales tax was thus revealed in its true light. No attempt was made to secure from the best-off portions of the community any part of the revenue thus lost. The masses were expected to make up what the big business interests were

SOME ABSURD CLAIMS.

Who are the advocates of the sales tax in the United States? For the most part they are representatives of the big interests the agents of great capitalists and war profiteers, who, though they did not dare to complain of taxation while the war waged, have maintained a lond clamor against it since peace was pro-claimed. These interests have conducted a vigorous propaganda in favor of the sales tax, many of the arguments thus advanced having been reproduced in Canada. Never before had as many absurd claims and extravagant statements been made on behalf of any system of taxation as have been made by the American advocates of the sales tax. They have told the public that a 1 per cent tax would produce so much revenue that no income taxes below $5,000 and possibly $10,000 would be required; that all surtaxes on incomes might be abolished; and that practically all the special war taxes might be allowed to go. So absurd are their statements that they call in question the whole case for the sales tax, so that the general public may well regard it with suspicion. They have been prepared to promise anything in order to get the opportunity to shift the load from their own shoulders. If the Canadian Council of Agriculture had lived on this side of the border no better, clearer, or more significant statement could have been written regarding the absurd and misleading promises of United States sales tax proponents. They desire to substitute a sales tax for the present income tax in this country, as set forth by witnesses in my remarks contained in the RECORD of December 22. Canada spoke her judgment at the recent elections.

REVENUE RECEIPTS DISAPPOINTING.

Again, I quote from the Canadian agricultural report:

Again, I quote from the Canadian agricultural report:

The sales tax can never be regarded as one of the main sources of revenue in Canada, since to make it so could only be done through a violent disregard of the best recognized principles of taxnition, namely, that taxes should be levied in proportion to the individual's ability to pay them. As a source of revenue the 1 per cent tax in Canada was far from being a great success. During the 11 months up to the end of April, 1921, that it was in operation it brought in only $40,898.383. As a producer of revenue it failed most when money was most needed. In October, 1920, when business was good and retail prices still high, the collections were $5.020,476, but in April they fell to $2.273,219, and were still failing when the tax was increased. As Parliment voted $620,000,000 this year, one can easily see how far a 1 per cent tax would go to produce that amount. During the 6 months that the luxury taxes were in operation they brought in $2,000,000 more than the sales tax did during the whole 11.

Advocates of the sales tax make much of the fact that it is easily collected, and they confidently assert that nobody feels it. A tax collected on the necessaries of life that all must have can not fall to bring in a certain amount of money. But the question of the equitable in through compulsion, sometimes succeed in raising large sums of money from comparatively poor countries; but to say that it can be collected is not sufficient justification for a tax. The sales tax is inequilable if for no other reason than that the poor man, who must spend practically all he earns, pays the tax out of what should go for necessaries, whereas the rich man pays it out of his surplus. The rich man, who spends several months in the year out of the country, escapes the tax; but the man who can not afford to go away, pays.

LET THE CONSUMER BEWARE.

The claim that the consumer did not feel the payment of the 1 per cent tax is open to question. It is absurd to say that an already heavy taxed public does not feel the taking of another $40,000,000 from it, especially when the greater part of it is taken from the poorest pnid. Surely, no one will contend that the new tax, which on domestic sales is at least 8 per cent by the time it reaches the consumer * * * and the tax on imported commodities, which is 4 per cent in such ease * * * is not felt. It is difficult to determine definitely how much the cost to the consumer is increased by the sales tax, but the probability is that the 1921 rate will increase costs generally about 5 per cent. On certain imported goods, on which the tax will never be less than 4 per cent, the cost may be increased as much as 8 per cent. This is especially true of commodities such as rubber tires, into the manufacture of which many imported materials enter. The effect of the tax in increasing the cost of lumber became so apparent that a reduction was made to the effect that the tax on sale of domestic material should not exceed 2 per cent; on sales of imported lumber the rate was fixed at 3 per cent. Even at these rates the tax is considerable to the settler who must build a house and outbuildings. It is, moreover, to be observed that the additional 1 per cent on imports will have the effect of raising the home price on all such articles as are taxable. Experience with the tariff leads one to expect this.

The consumer is bound to feel the effects of the 1921 tax more than that of the preceding year for the further reason that the list of tax free commodities has been much reduced. The following, which were exempt in 1920, are now taxed: Sulted, smoked, and canned meats, soups, tea, coffee, condensed milk, milk foods, and similar milk products, sage, taploca, macaroni, vermicelli, split pees, pea meal, rice, rice flour, cornstarch, potato starch and flour, canned and desiccated fruits and vegetables, maple, corn, and cane strup, and

And the examples to this effect could be multiplied.

One of the most dangerous features of the sales tax is its insidious character. So-called "painless" extraction methods of taxation are always to be feared, for, in a quiet way, they touch the average person most effectually. Definite knowledge of what taxes the individual pays is one of the surest safeguards against inequitable taxation. By the "painless" sales tax it is proposed to take this year $23,000.000 more from the consumers of Canada than was taken last year. What is the use of making a fight over the tariff if the money which it is hoped may thereby be sayed is to be taken away by another method?

Additional danger lurks in the possibility that having brought about its introduction, certain interests that have been benefited may further use it to shift other burdens from their shoulders. It is well known that they are restive under the tax on higher incomes, and also under the surtaxes, and it may be taken for granted that an attempt will be made to shift these onto the backs of the masses. The signs are not wanting that some of the most important political battles of the not distant future will be fought over the question of taxation.

There should be an insistence that taxes conform to the well-known canons of taxation laid down by Adam Smith in the following: "There should be an early as possible in proportion to their respectively enjoy under the protection of the State. The expense of government to the individuals of a great nation is like the expense of managoment to the individuals of a great nation is like the expense of managoment to the individuals of a great nation is like the expense of managoment to the individuals of a great mation is like the expense of managoment to the joint tenants of a great state, who are all obliged to contribute in proportion to their respectively interests in the estate. In the observance or neglect of this maxim consists what is called the equality, or inequality, of the foregoing statement founded on actua

In view of the foregoing statement founded on actual Canadian experience, will any man say the tax does not unjustly hit the poor man, and will anyone say it is not and was not a political issue that helped overthrow the conservative Canadian Parliament and reduce it to a hopeless minority?

Another statement in my letter quoted sugar at 10 cents per pound in Canada while it is only 6 cents here. That statement has been challenged. I am glad to give my authority:

Remember that the purchasing power of the farmers' products in Canada, as in this country, makes a difference of more than double the prices here quoted to the farmers' disadvantage, Acting undoubtedly with the aid of advice, the President wrote Chairman Fordney regarding the soldiers' bonus bill.

Suggestions from that high source are welcomed by every member of the party who has a legislative responsibility, however humble. In fact, I yield to no man in my appreciation of and high respect for the Executive; for the many difficulties he has met and surmounted as the party leader following an unpre-cedented industrial and economic war chaos and his world position rising far above rulers of all nations through the recent peace accomplishments of the Washington Conference. not need to say more, and I speak from the standpoint of a lifelong Republican

The House has its constitutional duty to perform of providing revenues, and in its legislative work the added responsibility of securing agreement with the Senate. Following suggestions from the Secretary of the Treasury, the House Members sought to provide special taxes with which to finance the bonus bill, although in so doing a precedent would have been inaugurated that necessarily brings criticisms and protests against any tax and against any measure that requires a direct tax. It is not only an unprecedented method of legislation but manifestly unjust to the measure to be financed.

The proposal invited committee disagreements and the President's letter containing suggestions followed. It suggested temporary delay if desirable in order to meet Treasury conditions, and to permit full cash payments to all service men and a general sales tax as a method of securing quick funds. Representatives of national ex-soldiers' organizations called before our committee referred to repeated promises for early action, objected to delay in the passage of the bill, and urged its speedy enactment as prepared with the five options. Asked specifically about full cash payments they said that would prevent the acceptance of certificates or of insurance or home building options in the bill that had been carefully prepared and long and seriously considered with a view to granting permanent aid in the majority of cases. If offered all cash in amounts of $500 or $600 as is construed from the letter in stead of continuing payments, the temptation would be offered all men to take cash and ignore other provisions.

NO LARGE CASH PROPOSAL.

An immediate drain on the Treasury of $1,600,000,000 for all cash would undoubtedly bring serious results and small comparative benefits. On the other hand the fivefold option plan, according to estimates by the Senate Finance Committee, would only call for $200,000,000 annually for three years. Other estimates if one-half took the cash option raise it to $300,000,000 annually for three years, an amount that may be largely met by the naval holiday and other economies. The probable early receipt of $11,000,000,000 in foreign debt securities could be anticipated by Treasury certificates for the comparatively small amount during the interim.

The President's letter was immediately followed by wide-spread protests against a general or Canadian sales tax from the heads of farm and labor organizations of this country that would largely pay the tax and an emphatic protest from prominent Senators was published to the effect that no sales tax could pass the Senate, and if any bonus bill was accepted the sales tax must be dropped. When bills pass Congress and are approved for $500,000,000, for railway security holders and many other bills for large amounts and of far less merit than the soldier aid bill, without revenue pro-visions attached, the conclusion seems unescapable that in view of the Senate's position on the sales tax and the political and economic situation invited by its enactment, the reasonable and practical solution for passage of any bonus legislation is to invite no general opposition by attaching a sales tax.

SECREATRY OF THE TREASURY MELLON AGAINST A GENERAL SALES TAX BECAUSE IMPOSSIBLE TO ADMINISTER.

Let me quote high governmental authority against a sales Secretary Mellon stated to the Ways and Means Committee on February 2, page 82:

mittee on February 2, page 82:

A general sales tax would mean, for instance, in the whole country there would be difficulty in the way of getting the returns. There would be, I should say, at least one million returns. * * Then the administration of it would be a problem of very great magnitude, and with the limited facilities that are in existence now as to space and all of that, it would be a very difficult situation to met.

It would take an entirely new unit, its size would depend, I should say, on the kind of tax. But a general sales tax, supposing that there is a law passed and we have to meet it, would take at least—It is hard to tell—but I should say around two thousand additional employees.

Now, where are we going to put them? We are crowded now. It is really shameful the way our people are packed in some of the very gonitary. I think we are absolutely at the limit. * *

Now, if on top of that there is an additional unit to take care of a comprehensive general new scheme of taxation to provide the space and to provide the organization and equipment for that, it is a serious proposition. It is not a plain thing to contemplate.

In this connection Secretary Mellon, pages 84 to 92, gave many ways of raising new revenues several times the amount many ways of raising new revenues several times the amount required for the soldiers' compensation bill.

STATEMENT OF SAMUEL COMPERS, FEBRUARY 16, 1922.

Organized labor stands 100 per cent for the soldiers' bonus, but is opposed to a sales tax as a means of raising revenue for the bonus, just as it is opposed to a sales tax to pay any debt contracted by the Government.

just as it is opposed to a sales tax to pay any debt contracted by the Government.

The attempt to attach the worthy proposal for the bonus to a most victous measure inimical to the rights and interests of our citizenship is a flagrant manner of incurring the people's resentment to a just cause.

Labor recognizes in the proposal to attach the sales tax to the soldlers' adjusted compensation bill a subterfuge intended either to defeat the bonus or to create a feeling of resentment against the veterans of the World War by placing the burden upon those least able to bear it, and by permitting the escape of those who profitered so relentlessly during the period of the war and since the war. The bonus should have the approval of Congress, but to create a sales tax would be to turn a measure of justice into an imposition and an injustice upon the whole people.

The position of labor upon the sales tax is stated officially in the following resolution:

"Resolved, That the American Federation of Labor in convention assembled declares against the imposition of a retail or general sales tax or turnover tax, or any other tax on consumption, and opposes the repeal of the excess-profits tax, and demands that the highest rate of taxation levied during the war upon incomes and excess profits be retained until the full money cost of the war has been paid.

Congress refused to adopt the sales tax as a part of the general revenue provisions. That proposal should not now be used to becloud the merits of a measure intended to do justice to those who patriotically defended the country in its hour of need.

Many other recent statements from labor have been quoted in Many other recent statements from labor have been quoted in previous remarks, but I will only repeat extracts from one that is concise and indicates the way a sales tax is regarded by American consumers generally:

ductors, Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen in the United States.

Dean Sirs and Brothers: The attention of all members is called to the proposed sales tax bill introduced by Congressman Volk, of New York. It is the intention to raise $2,000,000,000 a year by a sales tax upon everything you consume. In order to have this bill put over and become a law, they have tied it up as a part of the bill for a bonus for soldiers. We think all workingmen agree that the soldiers who fought for their country are entitled to a bonus, and that such a bill should be passed, but, in our opinion, it is not necessary, in order to pcy this bonus, that the working people of the United States should be taxed through a direct sales tax bill to the amount of $2,000,000,000,000.

The sales tax bill can be killed most easily by the enactment of a rapidly progressive tax upon estates, by restoring the excess-profits tax, by retaining heavy taxation of large incomes, by levying a small tax on the value of land in excess of $10,000, with an exemption to all farmers who receive less than $3,000 income per year, as provided in the Keller bill. Senator LA FOLLETTE has introduced such an estate tax bill (S. 2901), and it has been referred to the Senate Committee on Finance.

Hoping you will give this your prompt consideration, we remain, Yours, fraternally.

The American Farm Bureau as late as February 17 of last week issued a letter to Members of Congress on a sales tax, which I am advised was passed upon by President Howard and other responsible officers. It is as follows:

AMERICAN FARM BUREAU FEDERATION, Washington, D. C., February 17, 1928.

To Members of Congress:

Washington, D. C., February 17, 1922.

To Members of Congress:

Dear Sirs: The American Farm Bureau Federation is against the sales or manufacturers' tax for raising the soldier bonus as suggested by the President. We feel it is just as uneconomic to place a sales tax upon the people for the purpose of giving a bonus to the soldiers as it is for raising revenue for General Government expenses. The sales tax is levied upon food, clothing, and the necessities of life of the average man and does not take the money from those who are most able to pay.

Taxes are already exceedingly high and a sales tax would only mean further burden upon the average individual, and when we stop to consider that the average income of each man, woman, and child in this country whose income is below the income-tax level is only $333 per year, the American Farm Bureau Federation believes it would be a rank injustice to raise further revenue for the soldier bonus by this method. It would take away from these people any prospect of accumulating a competence no matter how small, and would blight their hope of bettering conditions. Not only would it cut off their hope of bettering conditions. Not only would it cut off their poportunity for saving, but in countless instances it would mean less food, fewer shoes and stockings, less coal for the stoves, and more crowded living quartèrs. If must be remembered that the bulk of the revenue if secured by a sales tax will be derived from the taxes on food, fuel, clothing, and shelter.

We feel that the passage of the sales tax would cause many farmers so to shape their farming operations as to be more nearly self-systalning, and therefore still further reduce business operations of our country. The farmer now gets only 37 cents of the consumers' dollar and a sales tax will reduce that amount. We are glad, however, that Congress has seen fit to discard the proposed sales tax ouce, and the federation sincerely hopes that it will do so again.

Very truly, yours,

AMERICAN FARM BUREAU FEDERATION, GRAY SILVER, Washington Representative.

I can not make this any plainer than by quoting a short letter recently received from representatives of the American Farm Bureau Federation. In these letters they assume to speak for an agricultural organization numbering between 1,000,000 and 2,000,000 active members. They denounce all consumption taxes that in like manner are denounced by Canadian labor and agricultural interests, speaking from the standpoint of the consumer.

I quote:

AMERICAN FARM BURBAU FEDEBATION, Chicago, Ill., December 27, 1921.

Chicago, Ill., December 27, 1921.

House Office Building, Washington, D. C.:
Replying to your letter of December 23. The American Farm Bureau Federation is unalterably opposed to any general sales or turnover tax, a manufacturer's tax, or any means of shifting the bulk of the taxes from income to consumption taxes.

The more the matter is agitated and the better the people come to understand what is involved the more determined they become in their opposition, and this policy, if persisted in, will surely bring calamity to its advocates.

It takes from the farmer, the laborer, and all those below the incometax level a part of their living, and the bulk of the tax would necessarily come out of the necessaries of life—food, fuel, shelter, and clothing.

It is an effort to shift to the 90,000,000 people below the income-

It is an effort to shift to the 90,000,000 people below the incometax level the burden of the war taxes; it would absorb a considerable part of what buying power they now have, and thus sink us still deeper in the slough from which we are trying to extricate ourselves. It would stir up such a social ferment as we have newer had in this country, and is both socially unjust and economically unsound. It is opposed by all the agricultural interests of the country as well as by organized labor. Political madness lies that way.

Yours, truly,

H. C. McKenzie, Tun Representative.

AMERICAN FARM BUREAU FEDERATION, Ohicago, Ill., December 28, 1921.

Hon James A. Frear, Committee on Ways and Means, House of Representatives, Washington, D. C.

DEAR MR. FREAR: * * * We believe that taxes should be levied according to the measure or ability of the individual to meet them, and are particularly opposed to the so-called sales tax or turnover tax. Its enactment would place an undue burden upon the farmers of the country, due to the fact that their income both on labor and invested capital is, and slways has been, below that of any other class of our people, while at the same time we are of necessity very large consumers not only of food and clothing but of steel and iron products, building materials, etc. The sales tax would add to the costs of all these things, which burden would be strenuously opposed by all farmers. Not only that, such a tax would react on industry by further curtailing the farmers' purchases, and industry is already suffering from that very cause.

Very truly, yours,

AMERICAN FARM BURHAU FEDERATION, J. R. HOWARD, President.

On February 16, the National Grange, composed of over 1,000,000 members, gave out the following statement:

GRANGE PROTESTS SALES TAX.

GRANGE PROTESTS SALES TAX.

The National Grange, through its Washington representative, T. C. Atkeson, in letters sent to-day to Senator McCumber, chairman of the Senate Finance Committee, and Representative Fordney, chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee, declared it is "unaiterably opposed to the sales tax or any form of direct consumption tax for the soldier bonus or for any other purposes."

"The sales tax is a deliberate effort to shift tax burdens from those best able to pay to those least able to pay." the letters said. "Once a sales tax is inaugurated, backed with the power which is now urging it, it is doubtful if it could ever be set aside, and we can look forward to steadily diminishing taxes ou large incomes and inheritances and to steadily increasing sales taxes to pay the burden of government."

"The National Grange," Mr. Atkeson continued, "bas suggested an excess-profits tax to pay the soldler bonus. Should that be inexpedient, the tax decided on should be so levied that it will not be levied to the lirect cost of necessities of the great number of people of limited accome."

The national farm meeting called by President Harding recently in Washington passed the following resolution against any sales tax. I quote from editorial that shows the protest against a sales tax.

[From editorial page of Farm and Home for March; Chicago, Ill., and Springfield, Mass.] SALES TAX-UPON THE NECESSARIES OF LIFE-THE POOR SHALL PAY THE TAX-THE RICH MAY LARGELY ESCAPE THIS TAX, PAY THE TAX—THE RICH MAY LABORAL BREATH AND LAX.

"We positively and earnestly protest against any consumption or sales or manufacturers' tax, or any other tax which shifts the burden onto those least able to pay, onto the necessaries of life, and has proved disappointing financially and unjust socially wherever tried."

This tax is now urged on Congress—a tax on sales—within three weeks of the day that the farmers' conference at Washington unanimously protested against such a tax. The common people, the masses, unitedly oppose it.

If this tax is imposed, it means that you will have to pay an extra tax of probably 8 cents on every dollar you spend. Of course, the retail prices that you pay will be correspondingly increased. Worse yet, the wholesale price that you get for your produce when sold will be correspondingly decreased.

Thus you, the farmer, the producer, the worker—all persons of moderate means—may be forced to pay the equivalent of not 3 cents, but somewhere between 5 and 10 cents extra upon every dollar you spend, while having as much more deducted from every dollar's worth of stuff you produce and sell.

WEALTH ESCAPES TAX.

Did you notice how theaters, financiers, and other special interests protested in unison against the righteons plan of taxing amusements, speculation, excess profits, and great wealth? Those powerful interests are so highly organized that they made their protest effective within 24

The logical result is now the proposed sales tax. It will be but trifling upon those best able to pay, while a well-nigh insufferable burden upon everyone least able to stand additional taxes.

The National Board of Farm Organizations is equally opposed to the sales tax, and its secretary, Mr. Lyman, sends a letter which also contains cumulative testimony from the secre-tary of the Canadian Council of Agriculture against a sales tax.

NATIONAL BOARD OF FARM ORGANIZATIONS Washington, D. C., January 24,

Congressman James A. Frear, House Office Building, Washington, D. C.

House Office Building, Washington, D. C.

Dear Mr Frear: I have gotten in touch with Canadian people in regard to the sales tax, and I hope to have a definite reply soon.

In the January 14 issue of the Prairie Farmer, published in Chicago, a copy of a letter from N. P. Lambert, secretary of the Canadian Council of Agriculture, appears as follows:

"Our organization throughout the whole country is strongly opposed to the sales tax. The principle of this tax is wrong in our opinion, being based on the consuming capacity of the great masses rather than their ability to pay. The sales tax was in vogue in the Middle Ages, in such countries as Spain, but to-day I believe the only countries that have used it to any extent are Mexico, Germany, Philippine Islands, and, I think, France. It is generally regarded as a confession on the part of any country that adopts it that all other sources of revenues have been exhausted."

This appears to throw an entirely different light on the matter as far as the Canadian farmers are concerned, and is also in line with my previous understanding of the real position taken by the farmers in that country.

Sincerely, yours,

Chas. A. Lyman, Secretary.

CHAS. A. LYMAN, Secretary.

Council.]

Mr. Marsh. Gentlemen, I wish some of you had taken the trips which I have and talked with these farmers and workers—some workers who have been out of a job for six or eight months and every last dollar gone, and the farmers, who are broke, absolutely—and when you talk about a sales tax—I want to tell you that the sales tax is the dead line politically for any party, and deservedly so.

Mr. Faman. Mr. Leffingwell agreed in his opposition to a sales tax and so did Dr. Seligman when they were before our committee.

Mr. Marsh. And so do something like 20,000,000 voters. They would be interested vitally.

And from scores of witnesses named in Records of December 22 and January 27 I quote two men of acknowledged standing and fairness who recently appeared before our committee:

Mr. Sulidana. It is true, I assume, that the general principles governing democratic taxation in this country would continue and that no democratic country would intend to pass or for a moment consider a tax on consumption, because it is only in time of war that there is any need for the restriction of consumption, whereas in time of peace you want to increase consumption that you can increase production and industry and prosperity.

[Hearing, Jan. 10, 1922, p. 22. R. C. Leffingweil.]

Mr. Leffingweil. The economic and social objection to a sales tax or to any indirect tax is that it hits the man who has to consume the things that his income will buy, because his income is so small and his family so big—out of all proportion to his income—so that the tax is much heavier on him than it is on the man who has a great big income and has to spend a very negligible proportion to meet his tax.

I believe that the sound principles of taxation are going to come to be recognized by all parties, because they go to the root of social content, and whether we are Republicans or Democrats, and whatever our school of economics and whatever our historical thought about questions like the tariff, whatever our instincts about a sales tax, it is coming down to this, that you can not afford to put the inordinate burdens of the modern State upon the shoulders of the consumer, who has to spend all of his income to keep alive.

Not one witness favoring a sales tax appeared before the

Not one witness favoring a sales tax appeared before the Ways and Means Committee. In fact, this tax seemed friendless until it was suddenly proposed as a means of financing the bonus bill. No chance to examine witnesses has been afforded the committee to expose the character of the tax.

SALES TAX U. EXCESS-PROFITS TAX.

A comparison of those opposed to a sales tax and advocating A comparison of those opposed to a sales tax and advocating the reenactment of an excess-profits tax is not complete without presenting another picture that comes from the lips of a man whose wonderful power of analysis is rarely equaled in or out of Congress. I quote from a soldiers' journal, March, 1922, called Treat 'Em Square. It gives the ex-soldiers' viewpoint, and on page 29 contains the following from a public speech of a distinguished United States Senator:

Why should not the very wealthy seek to escape? Mr. President, they have been seeking to escape and have been making a great battle along that line.

WEALTH ESCAPES BURDEN.

Along last winter I happened to be in the city of New York. A friend of mine extended me an invitation to go with him down to the Economic Club. As I always have been obliged to practice economy, I thought I would learn something that would enable me to continue the habit of my life; but when I reached this assemblage, a very costly banquet—I make no point of that, because my friend paid for the ticket—I think I can say that there were several billions of dollars represented around those tables, and a speech was made in favor of a sales tax, and the leading speech was made by a broker who is said to be the largest broker in the world, and to have transactions in a single day which frequently equal $50,000,000. He is not at all a bad citizen. He is a good broker. That is the best and the worst you can say of him.

But, viewing the question from his standpoint, it was but natural that he should think in the terms of his clients' interests, and his clients were the great institutions engaged in floating vast blocks of stocks and boys these securities. When he told that multitude of a pian that would distribute the taxes everywhere so that everybody would have to pay, so that there would not be paid by the great institutions of the country but would be borne by the entire mass of the people, the champagne glasses were put upon the table and highballs sat unconsumed while the assembled enthusiasts cheered the sentiment to the echo.

SHIFT BURDEN TO POOR.

SHIFT BURDEN TO POOR.

Of course he said the tax was passed on, like all taxes, therefore it might as well be paid by the common people at the beginning as at the end, in one way as in another; and then he told us in the next breath, as we have been told on this floor, that the burden upon business is so great that business can not prosper; that is to say, they tell you in one breath that business does not have to pay the tax at all, and in the next breath that business does not have to pay the tax at all, and in the next breath that business does not have to pay the tax at all, and in the next breath they tell you that it is so oppressive that business can not live if you exact it. Now, you can not have both ends of that argument. If the tax is passed on, it hurts nobody; particularly it does not hurt the man who first pays it and passes to on. If the tax is not passed on, then the other argument falls and it becomes apparent that the common people of the land who have but little pay only a little, while those who have much must pay in proportion to their wealth.

That was the initial movement; it was, if you please, the kick-off in the great game that was proposed to be played which had for its purpose the removal of excess-profits taxes, surtaxes, and corporate taxes. Senators may vote to table this amendment [on excess profits] when it comes up but I repeat, every man who votes to table it will vote against it "" will cast a vote in a way to save himself from a direct vote; but if he does it he will vote to kill the soldiers' bonus, and that would be worse than to vote directly on the proposition.

I have quoted from a soldiers' magazine that in turn quotes

I have quoted from a soldiers' magazine that in turn quotes from the official Congressional Record containing the debate in the Senate. Whatever we may think of the general sales tax or the excess-profits tax, is it not time to pause and reflect on the Canadian record and the political situation we are inviting in this country by adding a sales tax to the soldiers' bonus bill? PARTY PLATFORM.

In 1920 the Republican platform declared as follows on taxation:

The whole fiscal policy of the Government must be deeply influenced by the necessity of meeting obligations in excess of $5,000,000,000 which matures in 1923, but sound policy equally demands the early accomplishment of the real reduction of the tax burden * * tax laws which do not excessively mulct the consumer or needlessly repress enterprise and thrift. * * *

The platform was written in generalities, like all platforms, to obtain the confidence of the 26,000,000 people who voted at the election and to assure them that their taxes would be re-The platform did not refer to excess profits, luxury taxes, or surfaxes, nor to Pullman nor parlor car taxes. It just talked to the multitude. Every man and every woman who read that platform promise, every "consumer" who read it believed it was addressed to him and to her.

What did that platform mean by its terms "reduction of tax laws which do not excessively mulct the consumer"? We have repealed the excess-profits tax of $450,000,000 annually and the luxury taxes, and higher surtaxes have been reduced from 65 per cent to 50 per cent. We have said officially we will not shift taxes which have just been repealed and that we will not "mulct the consumer." The estimate of Canadian farm and labor or ganizations quoted says specifically that their sales tax does "mulct the consumer." The estimate of the American tax experts quoted in the Record of December 22 and of farm and labor organizations of this country is that a sales tax does "mulct the consumer." No sales tax law was ever passed in this country in time of peace or for over 60 years past. In view of the platform utterance, what is the answer?

THE ANTISALES-TAX VOTE.

This sales tax was rejected by Congress when the revenue bill was passed a few months ago and received slight consideration then because it has always been a disappointment in estimates and in equity. In France revenues per month fell to 43 per cent of estimates within less than a year, and fell in Canada to 57 per cent of estimates according to report. The tax is a tax on the living wage and the poorest man who walks the streets out of work and the rich man find a common level for the first time financially in this consumption tax. Politically they also stand on the level. I have quoted from farm organizations representing in membership between three and four million adults, which membership is against a sales tax, if the representatives speak for the membership. I have quoted from the highest officials of organized labor and of the railways representing a combined membership of several million adults, all of whom have reason to oppose a sales tax on the living wage. From seven to ten million adults and their families reaching one-half of the total vote conservatively may be estimated to be the combined farm and labor vote opposed to a sales tax or a tax on consumption; if that vote is cast as it was in Canada.

When wealth is anxious to shift its income tax over to the consumer, even as it has shifted $500,000,000 taxes this year, it is well to ascertain what interest organizations now urging a sales tax have in the matter. These questions were discussed in the Record of December 22. If it be a fact that farming and labor interests have a combined adult population of 10,000,000 people or more at a modest estimate, their influence may be measured if they feel the consumption tax is now being aimed at them to relieve wealth from its fair share of taxation.

INDIVIDUAL RESPONSIBILITY.

The soldiers' bonus bill will go through the House overwhelmingly. If a sales tax was submitted as a separate measure, it would be defeated overwhelmingly. Coupling the two measures in a hope of having the sales tax fastened onto the country is neither just to Members nor to the people whom we represent.

Let the bonus bill be passed as every other bill is passed, with a direct charge on the Treasury. Then any revenue measure needed to help the Treasury can be passed on its own merits.

What answer can be made to the charge contained in the statement that the Dent bill passed by Congress appropriated $3,000,000,000 to reimburse war contractors without providing any separate revenue feature? Or the railroad bill carrying $500,000,000 to help railway security holders? Did the Secretary of the Treasury or any other responsible individual object to its passage because that bill did not contain a tax? Again, the war mineral relief bill of $40,000,000, the recent $50,000,000 ship contractor bill, the Russian $20,000,000 relief bill, all passed Congress without trouble, but the American soldier who gave his services for $1 a day and paid three-fourths of that for insurance, allotments, and other purposes, he would be singled out and compelled to pay a consumption tax to which he must liberally contribute—4,000,000 ex-soldiers and their families—all for

At a late moment I insert a letter written to every Member of the House by a number of Members that gives further reasons for opposing any sales tax provision to the bonus bill.

THE SALES TAX IS FUNDAMENTALLY WRONG.

The letter is as follows:

The letter is as follows:

DEAR COLLEAGUE: We, the undersigned, who favor the soldiers' bonus bill, urge you not to consent to any manufacturers' or other sales tax as a means of raising revenues for meeting this obligation. We believe the economies effected by this Congress in the ordinary governmental expenses, together with the very substantial reductions to be made in the appropriations for the Army and Navy as a result of the Disarmament Conference, will very nearly provide the money with which to meet the cash payments as contemplated under the provisions of H. R. 1. It is estimated that something more than $100,000,000 in addition to the above savings will be needed annually for the next two years to meet the bonus, after which the revenues will be ample to meet all demands.

the above savings will be needed annually for the next two years to meet the bonus, after which the revenues will be ample to meet all demands.

This $100,000,000 annually, or $200,000,000 if need be, can easily and readily be raised by the issuance of short-term certificates. You will recall that the Treasury Department a short time ago placed upon the market short-term certificates in the amount of $400,000,000, and the records disclose the subscriptions for this issue were approximately $1,200,000,000, or three times the amount of the issue. Neither during the time these certificates were being sold nor since has there been the slightest indication of an adverse effect upon the money market, but instead it is since then the country has witnessed the greatest strides toward the return of normalcy. The report of the Comptroller of the Currency indicates a constantly increasing improvement in our financial affairs. Consequently we believe there is undue alarm as to the possible effects of an issue of short-term certificates in order to meet the demands of the bonus.

The President believes the ex-soldier should be paid the cash bonus all at once and that it should not be spread over a number of payments. This would require an expenditure of $1,500,000,000 within the next two years. He suggests a general sales tax as a means of raising this sum. Clearly if this amount of money is to be raised by this means in one year or two, the tax must be applied to everything, including the actual necessities of life.

Just how this tax works out in fact is best exemplified by the Canadian sales tax as applied to sugar. In Canada sugar is produced under almost exactly the same conditions as in the United States. They produce be the same that it is also an actual and a cents per pound in Canada and 6 cents in the United States. They prove the sugar is a supplied to sugar. In Canada sugar is imported from the theorem of a sugar subset of life.

Just how this tax works out in fact is best exemplified by the Canadian would be pa saler, or more than twenty-one times the amount of the tax. And yet certain people proclaim this a "painless" tax.

Ninety millions of our people, whose income is below the income-tax level, have an average annual income of less than $350. These ninety millions will pay 85 per cent of the revenue derived from a sales tax in addition to the billions which will go to the manufacturers, jobbers, and retailers as a result of such tax. Millions are out of employment, and the farmers of the country are in dire straits. To add to their burdens would be a calamity.

Wall Street is openly in favor of a sales tax, according to an afternoon paper. It is known that back of the propaganda with which the country has been fooded during the past two years are the strong manufacturers' organizations. If this tax was to be absorbed by the members of these organizations, would they be advocating it? We think not. We believe they recognize fully that a sales tax is an ideal method of further increasing profits.

We wish also to call your attention to the fact that if a sales tax is placed upon the statute books for the purpose of raising funds for the bonus, it is going to be but two years until the revenues raised in this manner can be no longer used for this purpose. The bonus will then have been paid. We believe that when this time comes it will be most difficult to repeal such a law, for the reason that every special and favored interest in the country will demand its retention, and also insist that the tax on wealth be further reduced. When this is accomplished the process of the shifting of the burden of taxation will be complete.

We believe the sales tax to be fundamentally wrong and that it will never be countenanced by the American people.

If the Ways and Means Committee should report out a bill carrying this tax feature, and a special rule which in any way abrogates the right of any Member to offer amendments to the tax provision should be presented to the House, we earnestly ask that you vote against such a rule. If t

We are responsible to the country for our action, and when the ex-soldiers in Congress point out the way which in their judgment will remove needless objections to a bill in which they are concerned as representatives of the 4,000,000 ex-soldiers, it is well for us to consider their judgment. I quote from their letter of February 16:

House of Representatives, February 16, 1922. Hon. Joseph W. Fordner, Chairman Committee on Ways and Means,
House of Representatives.

Mx Dear Mr. Forder: We, the undersigned Republican Members of Congress who served in the World War, are in favor of the passage of the adjusted compensation measure, but see no necessity for including a tax provision. The cost of the adjusted compensation bill, depending on its final form, will be between $200,000,000 and $400,000,000 for the first two years, and not more than $100,000,000 thereafter. The Dent bill, appropriating $3,000,000,000 to relmburse war contractors; the war mineral relief bill, carrying $40,000,000; a $50,000,000 appropriation for the relief of Shipping Board contractors; the railroad bill, carrying $500,000,000; and other measures calling for many millions have passed the House of Representatives without special provision to raise revenue. Why should the adjusted compensation bill for the soldiers be treated differently from other bills and from the custom and practice of Congress?

the itouse of Representatives without special provision to raise revenue, why should the adjusted compensation bill for the soldiers be treated differently from other bills and from the custom and practice of Congress?

The Treasury Department has issued annually since 1918 over a billion in short-time certificates, which the banks have absorbed promptly and eagerly. The Treasury Department can issue $300,000,000 in short-time certificates and the banks will absorb them without affecting the economic stability of the country.

The reduction in the Navy on account of the naval holiday and the proposed reduction in the Army will be more than enough to provide revenue without further taxation to take care of all the provisions in the adjusted compensation bill. It is our hope, however, that further economies will be practiced in the pending appropriation bills which will take care of any deficit. We wish to point out that over $2,500,000,000 of Liberty and Victory loans have been redeemed, and we believe that the overburdened taxpayers of this generation, who have already paid more than their share, should not be called upon for further revenue to liquidate our national debt until there is a pronounced improvement in business conditions. We are also agreed that there should be no cancellation of the allied loans.

Great Britain paid adjusted compensation averaging from $140 to $7,290 to her ex-service men and 12 weeks' standard unemployment wages, whereas the United States plead poverty to escape a like obligation. Are not our ex-service men entitled to the same consideration? The obligation to reduce the economic handicap incurred by all exservice men has been recognized and fulfilled by all the allied nations and partially by the American taxpayers.

We loaned $4,000,000,000 or $4,000,000,000 to be believe that the payment of the interest on these loans should be requested. Moreover, we believe that the adjusted compensation bill should be enacted into law at this session of Congress without any tax provisions.

SAMUEL S. ARENTS. HAMILTON FISH, Jr. ROY G. FITZGERALD, ROYAL C. JOHNSON, B. CARROLL RESCE. LON A. SCOTT. ROY O. WOODRUFF,

The above letter from Members of Congress, ex-soldiers, who served their country with high honors, contains a recommenda-tion that must appeal to every man who desires the passage of a soldiers' compensation bill.

To meet the proposal of these colleagues there was written to every Member of the House the following letter:

to every Member of the House the following letter:

HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES,
Washington, D. C., February 18, 1922.

Dear Colleague: My letter written in reply to Representative Volk's requested commitment for a sales tax was sent out before the President's statement on the bonus bill.

The President suggests a general sales tax or postponement of the bonus bill. It is doubtful if the President appreciates the widespread opposition to a general sales tax or the burden it would place upon those least able to pay. The soldiers have looked long for promised relief and many in sore need can not decide what to do, so that is our legislative responsibility.

Opposition of farm and labor organizations and tax experts generally to a sales tax is supported by a statement by Secretary Mellon to our committee of his strong opposition, because it would require 2,000 extra clerks and no housing conveniences. Leading Senators say a sales tax can-not pass the Senate, so a practical, economic, and political question confronts Congress. Among suggestions for meeting the estimated $200,000,000 annual charge during five years are the following:

First. No specific tax, but let the measure pass like all other Government expenses. This plan is recommended by ex-service men in Congress. Second. Reenact the tax provisions contained in the last soldiers' bonus bill passed by the House.

Third. Reenact the excess-profits tax, as urged by farm and labor organizations. No vote was ever had on this tax in the House.

Fourth. Issue temporary certificates to anticipate receipt of $11,000,-000,000 in foreign bonds which our soldiers secured through their war certificates.

Cong-time bonds could be issued and other means are open, but these suggestions are offered for your consideration prior to the Republican conference on the soldiers' bonus bill.

Very truly, yours,

James A. Frear.

I have placed these hurriedly prepared notes in the RECORD, because I believe we should make no mistake in our action on the soldiers' bill. I believe the bill should pass at this time and in its present form, because it has been long considered and long waited for. To hold it up at the last moment would be hope long deferred and cruel in its effect.

We did not hold up the railway $500,000,000 bill, but it was put through on greased skids, and the same was true of the suffering war contractors.

Not one bill in all history, so far as I can learn, ever carried its own tax. Not in the history of this Government has a general sales tax been enacted in time of peace. Not one witness appeared before our committee urging a sales tax for this bill. What, then, is the necessity for this unprecedented course that would place a heavy burden on the people and shift $500,000,000 in taxes from excess-profits, luxury, and high income taxes, which we recently repealed, over to the shoulders of the people who are struggling to make a livelihood, over to the 5,000,000 jobless and the 4,000,000 ex-soldiers, extracting the tax through higher prices to be paid by every man, woman, and child in the country, no matter what their ability to pay?

That is a situation unparalleled in all history, and I would be derelict in a duty if I failed to present the facts for your consideration as I believe them to be.

WILL WE VOTE A GAG RULE?

If we would amend the bill so as to meet the suggestions of ex-service colleagues, then no rule should be supported that will prevent offering of substitute amendments if necessary.

A reenactment of the excess-profits tax ought not to injure any legitimate business, and it could well carry the bonus bill if need be.

That tax exempts 8 per cent profits, and then takes only 20 per cent of the second bracket and 40 per cent of the third. It is based on the personal graduated income-tax plan, and is far more just than to place an adhesive-tax blister on the American public at this time. Not one wheel of industry was started by the repeal of the excess-profits tax, so far as I have ever heard, notwithstanding extravagant promises to that effect.

No more just tax can be offered in the opinion of many people and it ought to be preferred to a sales tax.

A conference may consider the bill after its report by the Of caucuses in general a distinguished gentleman said in the Senate on January 30, this year, page 1900, Record, as follows:

as follows:

Mr. Lodge. Mr. President, there has never been a binding "caucus" of any kind held by the Republicans of the Senate at any time since I have been here, so far as I am aware. I think it was tried by the Democratic Party lately to bind their Members in the Senate by a two-thirds vote, but I believe they gave it up. There was a conference held in reference to this bill, the matter was discussed, as such matters always have been, but there was not a binding "caucus." I repeat that we have never had a binding "caucus."

Let us give equal force to a conference morally and legislatively. If we can act harmoniously on this hybrid proposal that hitches up a good generous act with an unjust burdensome tax well and good, but for fear oil and water will not mix and that we will be held accountable for results and a situation which we would well avoid, I have offered these hurried remarks and ask the generous indulgence of those who may read at leisure. Let us act with caution, because when called upon to do an unprecedented act it is well to pause before creating a bad precedent. The bonus bill will be passed on to the Senate, where it will be obliged to travel a tortuous course if a sales tax is hitched to it by us, because a large number of Republican Senators are opposed to the tax and to the bill itself. Let us not place any unnecessary obstacle in the way of the bill's passage and have it passed as every other bill is passed. It is worthy of generous treatment.

This gratuity varied from 92 days' pay and allowance, if the service had been less than a year, to 183 days' pay and allowance for service of three years or over. An additional bonus, consisting of $55 for clothing, three months pay and allowances, and a separation sum of $25, was given.

A dependent family allowance of 300 francs is given with an additional 100 francs for each dependent child. Invalided soldiers were divided into two classes, the totally disabled soldier receiving 3,600 francs per year with an additional 10 francs per month for each dependent child. BONUS PAID BY FRANCE.

A bonus of 250 francs was paid to all officers and enlisted men who served between Angust 2, 1914, and November 11, 1918, whether they served at the front or in the rear. A supplementary bonus of 15 francs per month for service in the rear between these dates was also given. This was increased to 20 francs per month for the months of service at the front with a combatant organization. When the pay, pensions, and bonuses have amounted to 5,000 francs per year, no additional bonus was allowed. This maximum was increased by 1,000 francs for each demented child under 16 years of age.

In this connection it is further noted that the estimated wealth of the United States of more than $250,000,000,000 is subject to a debt of $24,000,000,000, or less than 10 per cent. Of this debt a credit exists in favor of the United States from foreign Governments of $11,000,000,000, of which last amount the Secretary ernments of $11,000,000,000, or which hist amount the Secretary of the Treasury estimates 80 per cent, or approximately $8,000,000,000, will be paid, leaving a net national debt of about $16,000,000,000, or about 7 per cent of the national wealth.

The proportion of national debt to wealth of our allies runs from about 25 per cent to over 50 per cent, according to estimates, or from three to seven times our own proportionate in-debtedness. The United States, the richest country in the world, thus far has given about 10 per cent of the bonus granted by Canada and not as much as Italy.

NEAR BANKRUPTCY?

If we pay out $1,600,000,000—which nobody expects in cash bonus—it will increase our national indebtedness to nearly 7½ per cent of our national wealth. That is the proposition on which a sales tax is asked. If we are unable to effect economies in naval expenditures or elsewhere and are compelled to raise $300,000,000 in six months for the fivefold plan, we should not be pressed hard to raise one-tenth of 1 per cent of our wealth, as feared by the Secretary of the Treasury; but in view of the fact that all Liberties and Victories will be paid in full at maturity, and that speculators now own the greater part of these bonds, and any stock-market variation in values is only temporary, is it not a case of "straining at a gnat" in order to find excuse for enacting a consumption tax with which eventually to wipe out income taxes, according to witnesses?

TOTALS OF FUNDS REQUIRED FOR STATE AID.

Of the total $880.339,200 definitely provided for in bonus and related legislation by the States, laws involving bond issues aggregating $166,500,000 still await referenda and date of effectiveness to go into force. The sum of $45.080,200 of this total consists of appropriations from State funds or provided for by tax levy—including $20,000,000 appropriation for which Massachusetts has so far sold notes to the value of $30,500,000, and $20,000,000 in Wisconsin, part of which, about 25 counties, have sold bonds to repay. Definite authorisation for bonded indebtedness totals $162,000,000 in 12 States (not including Massachusetts).

Right of Reclamation Service to Condemn Lands for Purposes Incidental to Reclamation Construction Work.

EXTENSION OF REMARKS

HON. LOUIS C. CRAMTON, OF MICHIGAN,

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES. Monday, February 27, 1922.

Mr. CRAMTON. Mr. Speaker, while the Interior Department appropriation bill was under consideration in the House the question of the right of the United States, through its Reclamation Service, to condemn lands in connection with construction of reclamation engineering projects and for purposes incidental thereto, was raised in connection with the point of order against certain language in the bill in connection with the item for the Minidoka project. Since that time there has been brought to my attention the decision of the United States district court for the district of Idaho, eastern division, in the case of United States v. Dewitt Garrison Brown et al., which was rendered February 10, 1922, and sustains the right of the Government to condemn lands for the new town site as proposed to replace the portion of the town of American Falls, which is to be flooded by the new Minidoka Reservoir. This decision will be of interest to all students of reclamation problems, while it is of particular interest in connection with the pending appropriation for continuance of the Minidoka project. Therefore, under leave granted me to extend my remarks on this subject I include the decision, which reads as follows:

DIETRICH, District Judge: This is a suit in eminent domain, by which the Government seeks to acquire the title in fee simple to 120 acres of land, the property of the defendant, De. Witt. G. Brown, situate near American Falls, in Power County, Idaho. It is shown that, proceeding under the reclamation act interior intends to construct a dam across the Sunke River at American Falls, by means of which flood waters are to be impounded for use, in Falls, by means of which flood waters are to be impounded for use, in Falls, by means of which flood waters are to be impounded for use, in Falls, by means of which flood waters are to be impounded for use, in Falls, by means of which flood waters are to be impounded for use, in Falls, by means of which flood waters are to be impounded for use, in Falls, by means of which flood waters are to be impounded for use, in Falls, by means of which flood waters are to be impounded for the flowers, and the plan is to build a dam that will not only of the flowers and the plan is to build a dam that will not only of the flowers and the plan is to build a dam that will not only of the flowers and the plan is to build a dam that will not only of the flowers of the cases of the flowers of the cases of the flowers of the cases of the flowers of the flowe

Co., supra, the supreme court, commenting upon such legislative declarations, said:

"It is stated in the second volume of Judge Dillon's work on Municipal Corporations (4th ed., sec. 600) that when the legislature has declared the use or purpose to be a public one its judgment will be respected by the courts, unless the use be palpably without reasonable foundation. Many authorities are cited in the note, and, indeed, the rule commends itself as a rational and proper one.

"As just compensation, which is the full value of the property taken is to be paid, and the amount must be raised by taxation where the land is taken by the Government itself, there is not much ground to fear any abuse of the power. The responsibility of Congress to the people will generally, if not always, result in a most conservative exercise of the right. It is quite a different view of the question which courts will take when this power is delegated to a private corporation. In that case the presumption that the intended use for which the corperation proposed to take the land is public is not so strong as where the Government intends to use the land itself.

"In examining an act of Congress it has been frequently said that every intendment is in favor of its constitutionality. Such act is presumed to be valid unless its invalidity is plain and apparent; no presumption of invalidity can be indulged; it must be shown clearly and unmistakably."

In view of the unusual conditions here confronting Congress I do not think it can be said that its judgment, as expressed in the language quoted, is "palpably without reasonable foundation"; upon investigation it may have been fairly concluded that without such authority it would be impracticable for the Reclamation Service to execute the reservoir project. And hence under the principles cauncitated by the Supreme Court the validity of the act must be recognized and the right of the Government to condemn sustained.

Federal Taxes Compared With State, County, and Municipal Taxes.

EXTENSION OF REMARKS

HON. MELVIN O. McLAUGHLIN,

OF NEBRASKA.

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES,

Tuesday, February 21, 1922.

Mr. McLAUGHLIN of Nebraska, Mr. Speaker, under the leave granted to me to extend my remarks I will print the following letter from Capt. L. M. Overstreet, United States Navy, showing the amount of Federal taxes compared with State, county, and municipal taxes.

The letter is as follows:

WASHINGTON, D. C., February 11, 1922.

Washington, D. C., February 11, 1922.

My Dear Mr. McLaughlin: There seems to be a general feeling that a holiday in battleship building will greatly reduce taxes. A little study of budgets and taxes shows the fallacy of this idea. In our county of York, Nebr., the tax is nearly $40 per capita to meet township, county, and State budgets. The per capita tax for the whole United States for building battleships this year is 64 cents, but Nebraskans contribute about half this amount due to their small Federal income tax, as will be shown later.

According to the World Almanac, 1922, the city of New York has a population of 5,620,000 with a city budget of $345,530,000 (including county budgets and $22,041,000 which goes to the State); the State of New York, a population of 10,385,000, with a State budget of $145,798,000; and the United States, a population of 10,600,000,000, with a mational budget of practically $4,000,000,000. Of this national budget of practically $4,000,000,000. Of this national budget of or practically $4,000,000,000. Of this national budget of states.

If we prorate, according to population, the money to be raised in New York City to help support the government of New York State and of the United States, we find that the people of New York State and of the United States, we find that the people of New York State and of the United States, we find that the people of New York City must raise annually $313,460,000 to support their own city, $10,029,000 to support the five counties in New York City on city, $10,029,000 to support the State government, and $212,000,000 to help support the five counties in New York City and $212,000,000. This means that for every dollar the New York City taxpaper contributes to build battleships and battle cruisers (year ending June 30, 1922) he pays $78 to meet city expenses; $3 to meet county expenses; $22 to meet New York State expenses; and $58 to meet the expenses of the United States Government, or a total of $613,489,000. This means t

Total expenses
On whole Navy
On building battleships

In San Francisco the city must raise annually $24,467,000 to meet city and county expenses; $6,033,000 for the State expenses of California; and $19,170,000 for the United States Government, or a total of $49,670,000. Of this, $1,917,000 would go to the whole Navy and $326,000 to continue construction of battleships. The following table shows these figures:

$49, 670, 000 1, 917, 000 326, 000

From these tables it will be seen that the reduction in city expenses, due to a holiday in battleship building, will hardly be noticeable. This is a popular saying: "The taxpayer is groaning under a crushing load of taxes for battleship building." The above figures do not support such

Many papers have stated that we will save hundreds of millions annually by stopping battleship construction. How can this be when we are only spending $68,000,000 this year to build battleships? Now, when we break our contracts with the shipbuilders and scrap these ships it will take much of this sixty-eight millon to settle legitimate damage claims. The remainder will be needed for the five plane carriers which we are to build in accordance with the terms of the treaty.

WHAT ABOUT THE PARMERS?

riers which we are to build in accordance with the terms of the treaty.

What ABOUT THE FERNERS?

Some may say, "Why, these charts illustrate what the city taxpayers save by the holiday in building battleships, but what about the farmer?" it will be shown later that battleships are built from money obtained from the Federal "ordinary receipts." The farmer contributes to these federal "ordinary receipts." A slight amount through internal revenue, and, thirdly, directly through his personal Federal income tax. It is assumed that the farmer does not pay a corporation income tax. After taking out his exemptions for himself, wike, and children, few farmers pay much Federal income tax is a factor of the contribution of the personal income taxes for the whole United States come from four States—that is, 31 per cent from New York, 10 per cent from Fennsylvania, 8 per cent from lilhois, and 7 per cent; New Jersey, 3.7 per cent; California, 3.9 per cent; and Texas, 2.5 per cent, we can show that over 75 per cent of the personal Federal income taxes for the whole United States, including Hawaii, Alaska, and the District of Columbia, come from him States. Very little personal Federal income taxes for heavy of Nebraska, Iowa, Kansas, Minnesota, and the cotton and cobacco States of Nebraska, Iowa, Kansas, Minnesota, and the cotton and cobacco States of Nebraska, Iowa, Kansas, Minnesota, and the cotton and cobacco States of Nebraska, Iowa, Kansas, Minnesota, and the cotton and folacted of Massachusetts.

In our agricultural State of Nebraska there were but $7,344 personal Federal income taxes, or less than the one State of Massachusetts.

In our agricultural State of Nebraska there were but $7,344 personal Federal income tax returns in the whole United States pay a average tax on these returns of over $2.38, while those making returns in Nebraska where does the money come from which is used to meet the National Budget? The Treasury Department, Division of Bookkeeping, Form 778, shows that for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1921, the "ordinary receipts" amounted to nearly $5,573,000,000. This is the money which is used to meet congressional appropriations. Of this amount $308,000,000 came from the customs. $1,500,000 from the sale of public lands, $683,000,000 from miscellaneous items—coinage profits, Pacific railways, tax on national bank circulation, fees, fines, penalties, etc.—$1,352,000,000 from Internal revenue, and $3,228,000,000 from Income taxes—of which about two-fifths comes from personal Income taxes and the other three-fifths from corporation income taxes. The money from these personal Federal income taxes, therefore, meets about one-quarter of the National Budget as 1.7 per cent of the National Budget goes to build battlesbips, this means that one-quarter of 1.7 per cent of a fax-payer's personal Federal income tax, or 40 cents out of every $100, will go to build battlesbips during the year ending June 30, 1922, at a time when we have six battle cruisers and nine battleships under construction, a number considerably above the average. The cessation of battlesbip building will, therefore, reduce the taxpayer's personal Federal income tax one-fifth of 1 cent goes to continue the construction of battlesbips.

Where do taxes go?

WHERE DO TAXES GO?

WHERE DO TAXES GOT

Where does the taxpayer's money go? It goes largely to meet city, county, and State budgets, which are constantly increasing at an alarming rate. In New York City the city budget in 1901 was little over $99,000,000; in 1911 it was $174,000,000; while in 1921 it had grown to nearly $346,000,000. The budget of 1901 would not pay the interest on the city debt of 1921, as the debt is over a billion dollars.

In the agricultural States of the West it is surprising to find even higher rates of taxation to meet State and county budgets, with high rates to meet city budgets. The taxpayers of Lincoln, Nebr., a city of only 55,000 people, have to meet a city dudget of over $1,000,000; to do not state budget of $30,000,000. Their quota to a population basis) is but $34,000, but on a Federal income tax basis it would be a state budget of $30,000,000. Their quota to balld battleships on a population basis) is but $34,000, but on a Federal income tax basis it would be a state budget of the county seat your also ever $172,000 to meet the State budget, nearly $520,000 to meet township and county budgets. The people of the county seat, York—population 5,886—must raise annually nearly $190,000 to meet the tax he pays on his land, buildings, live stock, and crops go to meet the tax he pays on his land, buildings, live stock, and crops go to meet the tax he pays on his land, buildings, live stock, and crops go to meet the ever-growing expenses of his township, county, and State, and that not one penny of these taxes goes to build battleships or to the support of the Federal Government.

The writer believes that the money appropriated for the Navy is well invested, that the taxpayer contributes but a small part of his taxes to the Navy, and that this amount could not be materially reduced. Further, it seems certain that millions of dollars could easily be saved by cutting city, township, county, and State expenses. This is where the cuts should be made to relieve the taxpayers of this so-called "crushing load of taxation."

EXTENSION OF REMARKS

HON, FELIX CORDOVA DAVILA,

OF PORTO RICO,

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES,

Thursday, March 2, 1922.

Mr. DAVILA. Mr. Speaker, under the privilege granted me by the House on Thursday last of extending my remarks in the Record, I desire to make clear my position with regard to the appropriation of $5.000 which was provided by the Porto Rican egislature to which reference was made by the gentleman from Kansas [Mr. TINCHER].

It is proper to state that this appropriation was passed for the first time on March 18, 1918. On September 9, 1918, the auditor of Porto Rico, Judge Bonner, in his report to the governor held that this appropriation was invalid, and later the auditor in a written opinion ruled that the appropriation was unconstitutional, among other reasons, because it had the effect of in-creasing the salary of the Resident Commissioner. This action creasing the salary of the Resident Commissioner. This action of the auditor has never received judicial interpretation by the courts of the island. On March 3, 1919, Judge Bonner was reappointed by President Wilson, and I had the pleasure of indorsing him before the reappointment. In the subsequent sessions of the Legislature of Porto Rico this appropriation for the Resident Commissioner had been included in the budget.

Relly charges that I have personal animosity against him be-cause he stopped the payment of this money. I think I have not only made clear that when this incident occurred there was not any possibility of his having any hand in the matter, but I think I have shown conclusively that far from my having any ani-mosity against the man who ruled against the legality of this appropriation I did what I possibly could to retain him in office as an upright, fearless public official, after Gov. Reily sought his removal.

Regarding the action of the Porto Rican Legislature, it might be explained that the duties of Resident Commissioner are more of the nature of a diplomatic position than those of a Member of Congress. According to our organic law, I have to present my certificate of election to the Department of State. Upon presentation of my credentials the State Department issues a certificate of election which has the nature of an exequatur, and with this certificate I am entitled to receive official recognition by all the departments of the Government of the United States. I have a voice and a seat in this House through the courtesy of this body, after presentation of the certificate of election issued by the State Department,

Gov. Reily has said that I was his friend. I was, indeed, his friend, and would have preferred to continue so, but when his conduct became such that a continuance of that friendship involved betrayal of the Porto Rican people, those relations could continue no longer.

As further proof of the relations existing between Gov. Relly and myself, to which he referred, I desire to submit the following exchange of correspondence at the time the governor extended me his support for appointment to the Supreme Court of Porto Rico .

OPFICE OF THE GOVERNOR,

Hon. Felix Cordova Davila.

Resident Commissioner, San Juan, P. R.

My Dran Judge; You are perhaps aware that there will be a vacancy on the supreme bench of Porto Rico in the next few weeks. I have watched your course in Washington in the past year while you have been representing your people, and I have been greatly impressed with the spiendid work you have been trying to accomplish. My attention has been especially attracted to you since my arrival here through your great loyalty to the American fing and people and your glorious patriotism exhibited during the past 10 days. I believe as an American that your loyalty and patriotism should not go unheeded, but should be rewarded. Porto Rico needs more men of your type of unquestioned character, ability, and unselfish leadership, known for their sterling worth and patriotism. Since my inaugural your action has been brought so prominently before me I feel it would be better for Porto Rico if you could remain here and help solve the delicate problems before us, for we all need your help, good advice, and counsel.

Therefore I have decided, without consulting you, to recommend to our distinguished President your appointment to fill a vacancy that is to occur on our supreme bench. It would give me much personal pleasure if you would accept this appointment, for I believe your selection would meet with the hearty approval of 90 per cent of the loyal people of Porto Rico, whom you have served so faithfully and well.

Please give me an immediate reply.

The Most Reilly, Governor.

E. MONT RBILY, Governor.

To this letter I replied as follows:

Hon. E. Mont Reill, advise me that you have recommended my name to President Harding to fill the vacancy which is soon to occur in the Supreme Court of Porto Rico.

I know what a recommendation from you to the President of the United States means, and I am fully aware of your good will. The honor is a great one, the position a high one; but greater than the honor and the position is my desire to serve my country without ulterlor motives and in the discharge only of my duties as a Porto Rican without the hope of further recompense.

I served my country during a period of 12 years as a judge of the insular judiciary. My record of service, although perhaps neither brilliant nor illustrious, is to me nevertheless a source of real pride, because I can submit it to my countrymen, with the prestige of honor and the cleanliness of rectitude.

Ever since my entry late the judiciary there was awakened in my soul the noble aspiration of some day occupying a position in the highest tribunal of my country. It is highly lamentable to me that circumstances oblige me to irrevocably renounce this high honor. Venerating as I do all that it means to receive a presidential appointment, I have decided nevertheless that I can not accept any public office which would deprive me of continuing to help in the political development of my country.

I supreciate in the highest degree the high consideration which you decided nevertheless that I can not accept any public office which would deprive me of continuing to help in the political development of my country.

I appreciate in the highest degree the high consideration which you show me in your letter and your phrases of affection and good will. My loyalty to the American people is firmly placed on the base of my loyalty to the people of Porto Rico. I accepted national citizenship both out of love for Porto Rico and for the Nation which protects us with its justice and offers us the guaranty of its institutions and of its liberty. To be a good American it is necessary to begin by being a good Porto Rican. He who does not know how to be loyal to the land in which he was born is unable to inspire confidence and is unworthy of assuming the maintle of American citizenship. My admiration for the United States began as soon as I was able to judge the beneficent results of American administration in Porto Rico. This admiration grew into love when the people of the United States extended to us its justness, and to-day that we are enjoying an ample liberal grows stronger, my love increases, and my spirit feels encouraged through hope, and following the dictates of heart and at the same time of a profound conviction I frankly and openly expound what my ideas are, for I know that the more we approach the people of America the closer we will be to our happiness.

My work is of love and of harmony. More can be accomplished through persuasion than through severity, and if we evolve a course of affection and attraction by respecting the ideas of all, at the same time defending our own, we will not be long in gathering the fruit of our labor. My fellow countrymen are men, good and generous, and they also will know how to respond with loyalty and nobility to a sincere labor of frank and open cooperation.

Sincerely, yours,

FELIX CORDOVA DAVILA.

As proof of the manner in which I attempted to help this man, I also submit the following:

My Dear Mr. Davila: I have yours of September 2, inclosing copy of a letter you have written the President and copies of telegrams you have sent.

At our interview a few days ago I was very much impressed by your earnestness and desire to help the governor. I have no doubt that you have been of real assistance to him. I intend to say that to the President at the first opportunity.

Yours, very truly, institutions and protecting our great wealth. The conscience of the Nation is aroused. We have sent six hundred and eighty millions in money, food, and clothing to save the lives of wretched people in lands beyond the sea. We are now sending twenty millions more to Russians in their misery. With pride we stood unprotesting while foreign nations withheld even the interest money due this country to pay bonuses to their own soldiers. While the Federal Government paused, 15 States of the Union adopted laws to provide an adjusted compensation for the soldiers of those States. The people of Ohio changed their constitution so as to raise $25,000,000 for this purpose. Faith still lives in Ohio Every day since that vote by which on severe hallot a great majority of more than one-half million Ohio people indicated their appreciation of what their boys had done the wheels of industry have turned faster and faster in Ohio. Ohio is one of the five States of the Union which pay more than 80 per cent of all the Federal taxes. What son of Ohio would not be proud of this wonderful State, of her courage, her honesty. The Congress hesitates on the adjusted compensation measure, pausing to listen to the protests of those who do not want to this of the danger that is past, who can not visualize the enormous and humiliating indemnities which a triumphant German empire would have exacted had the boys who wors our uniform faltered in their duty across the seas. This is no question of charity or bounty; it is a matter of common honesty. The national honor is assalled by the very ones who have profited most. "Ingratitude, thou marble-hearted fend," clutch not at the heart of the Nation, thou shalt not degrade the soul of the American people.

EXTENSION OF REMARKS

HON. WILLIAM S. GREENE,

OF MASSACHUSETTS,

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES.

Thursday, February 23, 1922.

Mr. GREENE of Massachusetts. Mr. Speaker, under the leave granted to me to extend my remarks in the Record, I include two articles which I have in connection with the soldiers' bonus from two of the leading Boston newspapers, the Boston Transcript and the Boston Herald.

The articles are as follows:

"BUNCOMBE TRADSCRIPT, Saturday, Feb. 18, 1922.]

"BUNCOMBE" V. THE BONUS.

AN ANTIDOTE OF TRUTH FOR THE POISON OF PROPAGANDA AGAINST ANY PEDERAL ADJUSTMENT OF WAR-TIME COMPENSATION FOR SERVICE WITH THE COLORS.

FEDERAL ADJUSTMENT OF WAR-TIME COMPENSATION FOR SERVICE WITH THE COLORS.

Returning to Boston after an absence of three months in Washington, I find this historic city, which we delight to call "the cradle of American liberty," swept by a wave of propaganda against any form of Federal adjustment of war-time compensation for war-time service with the colors. Our forgetfulness of the great days and the great deeds that we swore we never could forget makes a fertile field for this propaganda. Our ignorance of its source only adds to our muddle-mindedness on the subject. On many sides I hear the American Legion assailed, and I am reminded that Mr. Eugene V. Debs denounced it in Indianapolis the other day as "an organization kept alive by perty officers, tools of Wall Street, who would Prussianize the United States." In many quarrer I hear the members of the Legion sneered at as pension mongers, and is an again reminded that Mr. Debs was quoted as saying in Indianapolis the other day: "The drafted men went away as heroes and came back as hoboes. Where are the old signs to welcome them?"

While I was in Washington I witnessed the triumphal visit to our Capital City as a released hero of the man who was sent to Atlanta prison during the war for disloyalty. While I was in Washington I also witnessed the arrival and the departure and the waiting of many men whom we waved onward to the colors in the great days of 1917 and 1918 as our defenders, or welcomed home as American heroes in 1918 and 1919—no longer halled as defenders or heroes—many of them disabled, many of them destitute, many of them out of work and unable to get work. And I find myself asking but unable to answer the question, "What does it all mean?"

An exception to the propaganda against any form of relief for the economically disabled is the argument put forward in dignified and fearless terms by a member of the Legion here and there who either does not need or does not desire Federal assistance, and resents as a slur upon his war-time service any and all proposals to that end. These veterans have a right to be heard and we must admire the courage and the sincerity with which they present their side of the case, undaunted by the evidence that they are in the minority. The fact that we may not be convinced by their argument should not in the least diminish our admiration for the sincerity with which they dare to voice them. He is added to their credit, however, they are not participating in the organized propaganda which is coming from sources not included within the area of war-time service with the colors. I refer to many financial agencies and business concerns that are flooding the country with protests against adjusted compensation in principle, but confining their arguments in large measure to this or that application suggested by this or that politician.

Adjusted compensation for war-time service with the colors has been EXCEPTIONS TO THE PROPAGANDA AGAINST RELIEF.

ments in large measure to this or that application suggested by this or that politician.

Adjusted compensation for war-time service with the colors has been nicknamed "the honus"—not by the men who would be its beneficiaries but by those who have already received a "bonus" in one form or another while their fellow citizens were serving with the colors. The argument of the propagandists against the so-called "bonus" is to the following effect: "Every able-bodied citizen who went to the colors in the Great War was only discharging a duty that he owed to his country, and his country in consequence owes him no adjustment in compensation for discharging that duty. The vast majority of our defenders were conscripted."

ALL WERE CALLED BUT ONLY SOME WERE DRAFTED So they did and so they were, but we did not apply the draft to all able-bodied citizens of military age. Having registered all, we sent some to the colors and permitted others to claim exemption for various reasons. As a result many able-bodied citizens of military age served throughout the war or after they were drafted until the armistice, not at a doilar a day but at wages ranging all the way from $5 to $15 a day. They were assigned to work which was either classified as war work or was war work. We told these men that they were doing just as much to win the war as were the men serving with the colors, but we paid them or permitted them to be paid many times the amount that we paid the men serving with the colors. In many cases men exempted for war work and receiving wages far in excess of what they ever receive defore, or will ever receive again, did not hesitate to go on strike during the war for higher wages. They maintained at Washington a highly paid lobby and their lobbylists did not hesitate to browbeat the Government into making such "adjustments" of their compensation as would bait them to end the strike and return to work. If the draft law had been generally applied as it ought to have been applied and as it doubtless will be applied in the next war, all able-bodied citizens of military age would be drafted and assigned by the Government, and their compensation would be fixed by the Government. They would not be permitted a choice and there would be no unjust discrimination in the compensation to which they would be assigned and the compensation to which they would be legible would be fixed by the Government to which their allegiance is due, and by the Government which in war is rightly given the power to conscript them for the common defense.

Had such a condition prevailed in the Great War there would be no inequalities in compensation to adjust and the argument of the propagandist against any adjustment of war-time compensation for war-time service with the colors would apply. But when we take time to recall the days of 1917 and 1918 we know that no such condition prevailed. In the absence of such a condition we fail to find a foundation for the argument that no adjustment of compensation is du argument that no adjustment of compensation is due the drafted men who declined or were refused exemption.

WAS THE $80 BONUS WRONG IN PRINCIPLE?

Furthermore, our Government has already adhered in principle to the justice of adjusted compensation. At the end of the war it gave to every citizen upon his discharge from service with the colors the comparatively small sum of $60 in partial adjustment of his compensation. That amount at that time was hardly sufficient to cover his purchase of a civilian suit of clothes. Had our Congress been endowed at that time with a leadership of vision it would promptly and ungrudingly have made adequate adjustment of compensation that would have enabled every man upon his honorable discharge from the service to purchase a civilian outfit, and to have time to turn around and look for a job without being compelled to borrow money from his family or his friends in order to get out of uniform and into "civies." If it is wrong in principle for the Government to make adjustment in compensation to these men, it was wrong in principle for the Government to have doled out to them the sum of $60 per man after the armistice.

It was wrong for the State of Massachusetts to have distributed a bonus of $100 to each of its citizens who saw service with the colors. It was wrong for any of the other States to distribute a bonus in greater or smaller measure to its citizens for the same service. This service was not performed for the State; it was performed for the Nation; it was the Nation and not the State that conscripted; it was the Nation and not the State that conscripted; it was the Nation and not the State that except our own that entered the war against Germany has already provided its homorably discharged defenders with the colors with a sum sufficient on their discharge to equip each one of them with a new civilian outfit and to care for them for a reasonable time during which they could look for lucrative employment. These Government one of their defenders. There one we have a salin

IS THE YANK LESS DESERVING THAN HIS COMRADES?

Did the British or the French, the Italian or the Belgian soldier fight better or train harder than the Yanks on land or sea or in the air? Is our Government less able than those Governments to deal liberally with the defenders? Do we rate service during war in a shippard or in a munition plant higher in value than service with the colors? If we do, then we can not say that America is a better place to live in as a result of what our defenders with the colors did during the war.

But the propaganda against adjusted compensation for our defenders, although almed in general at the principle, deals in detail with certain applications of the principle that have been proposed from time to time. In regard to these proposals I find ignorance hereabouts, feigned or real, very widespread. The initiative in favor of adjusted compensation came not from the American Legion but from the American Congress. At its first convention, November 10, 11, and 12, 1919, the Legion adopted a resolution which, while recognizing that the Government owed an obligation to all service men and women, declared that "the American Legion feels that it can not ask for legislation in its selfish interest and leaves with confidence to Congress the discharge of this obligation." At that same convention the commander of the Legion was instructed to appoint a committee on land and home aid.

CONGRESS CALLED ON THE LEGION FOR HELF.

CONGRESS CALLED ON THE LEGION FOR HELP.

Meantime many bills were introduced in Congress having for their purpose the adjustment of the compensation of our defenders with the colors. Presently the Republican Members of the House of Representatives called a caucus, at which this problem was discussed at great length. The caucus adopted a recommendation that the Rules Committee of the House bring in a rule authorizing the Speaker to refer all soldier beneficial legislation to the Committee on Ways and Means. This rule passed the House with only two dissenting votes. Thereafter all these bills were so referred.

Up to this time the Legion had never appeared formally before any committee of Congress, nor had it demanded any action upon this legislation. Following the caucus of the House and reference of all beneficial legislation to the Ways and Means Committee, its chairman, Representative FORDNEY, requested the Legion to appear before this committee. Thereupon the commander of the Legion, in accordance with the resolution passed at its national convention, declared its committee ready to submit recommendations for legislation covering four features as follows: Land settlement, covering farms in all States, and not confined a few States.

2. Home aid. To encourage purchase of homes in either country or

2. Howe aid. To encourage purchase of homes in either country or city.

3. Vocational training for all ex-service persons desiring it.

4. Adjustment of compensation or final adjustment of extra back pay based on length of service for those not desiring to avail themselves of any one of the previous three features.

Subsequently the Legion proposed the creation of a revolving fund, to which members of the Legion not needing or not desiring benefit under any one of these plans might contribute their share of adjusted compensation, to the end that the fund might be used to assist in caring for their physically disabled comrades.

I have yet to meet a man who has given careful study to the Legion's fivefold plan who is not favorably impressed with its provisions. Many members of the Federal Reserve Board in the Middle West have hearfily indorsed the plan as a thrift measure. Many business men in other parts of the country have indorsed adjusted compensation in principle and are throwing the weight of their influence in favor of encouraging the service men of their respective sections to avail themselves of this or that form of assistance best suited to the needs of the individual beneficiary. These supporters of the Legion plan believe that our honorably discharged defenders with the colors constitute the most valuable body of citizens in the country to-day, and deserve every encouragement in home building and in preparation to take up their peace-time tasks and contribute to the new leadership that the country so sorely needs.

THE RECORD OF THE G. O. P. ON THE BONUS.

The propaganda against the Legion plan is a bit belated and extremely inconsistent in so far as it is disseminated by members of the Republican Party. The party in power, by its leaders in the executive and legislative branches of the Government, is solemnly committed in principle to adjusted compensation for our national defenders. It is true that at its last national convention the G. O. P. dodged the whole question because the men in charge of that convention were afraid to have it discussed on the floor. But very soon after the Republican standard bearer was nominated he committed himself in favor of adjusted compensation. And his example was followed by hundreds of Republican candidates for national office in many States of the Union. Ever since the party entered power last March it has been delaying upon one excuse or another the keeping of its solemn promises to our honorably discharged service men and women. All sorts of conditions which were not touched upon in the hard-fought campaign have been raised at both ends of Pennsylvania Avenue. But

THE CONSISTENT RECORD OF THE DEMOCRATIC PARTY,

At San Francisco the Democrats in their national convention had the courage to discuss the question of adjusted compensation not only in committee but on the floor of the convention, and they voted it down. The Democratic administration then in power had already declared against the proposal, and the Secretary of the Treasury of that administration had made a strong, consistent, and able argument in opposition. The Democratic Party, therefore, can not be accused of inconsistency or of bad faith in opposing adjusted-compensation legislation. The new administration has been very active since it entered into power in adjusting compensation with the war contractors, many of whom grew rich out of their contracts, and very few of whom suffered any loss. The new administration has not hesitated to seek from Congress adjusted compensation for the raliroads, despite the fact that the raliroad situation itself provided many instances of profiteering and inefficiency during the war period. This is not to find fault with the Government for adjusting compensation with the contractors or with the raliroads. It is only to suggest that having made those adjustments it would seem that the time is at hand for the Government to make an adjustment of the compensation due its war-time defenders with the colors. Surely the men who served their country by fighting for its very existence, or by training so to fight, are entitled at least to the same consideration that has been paid so promptly and so generously to others who did not fight or train themselves to fight.

THE LEGION HAS NOT DICTATED TO CONGRESS.

Wisely, as I believe, and with characteristic dignity, the American Legion has consistently declined to suggest to Congress the ways or the means by which the money should be raised to finance the legislation which in principle the majority party now in power at both ends of Pennsylvania Avenue has repeatedly indorsed. This is a decision that under the Constitution properly rests with the Congress acting upon the recommendation of the President. It is an obligation that devolves jointly upon the President and the Congress, and it is to the President and the Congress that the country will look for the discharge of that obligation. Doubtless the sales tex is one way in which the American Legion's plan can be financed. Many experts believe it is the best way to finance it, but it is not the only way. At any rate, it is a fair subject of argument. But there were no conditions specified by the Republican candidates for office when they committed themselves in favor of adjusted compensation for our war-time defenders. They can not expect by trumping up conditions now to be excused in 1922 from fulfilling their campaign promise of 1920.

A CAMPAIGN PROMISE THAT SHOULD BE KEPT.

A CAMPAIGN PROMISE THAT SHOULD BE KEPT.

The antibonus propaganda will fall, as I believe, because there is more of poison than of truth in it. The party in power is clearly on record in favor of Federal adjustment of war-time compensation for service with the colors. The people will hold that party to strict accountability in the fulfillment of a promise which was made in good faith and ought in good faith to be kept.

An administration that released Debs, received him at the White House on Christmas Day, and allowed him to be welcomed at the Capital City of the country of Washington, Lincoln, and Roosevelt as a "hero" can not break faith with America's war-time defenders and expect to retain the respect or the support of the plain people of "the land of the free and the home of the brave."

[From the Boston Herald, Tuesday, Feb. 21, 1922.]

[From the Boston Herald, Tuesday, Feb. 21, 1922.]

In the Transcript on Saturday last Mr. James T. Williams, jr., its brilliant editor, in a contribution stoutly advocating a cash distribution among the veterans of the World War, declared the bonus only a nickname for "adjusted compensation." We had before noted that its advocates insisted on calling it one thing and the general public another. Let us see which it is.

The Herald confesses itself ready to accept President Harding's program of inaugurating a sales tax, the proceeds to pay for this disbursement. We believe it quite inevitable. We believe the people are ready to bear it. We question the business judgment of the veterans here-abouts in asking for it, since it will demonstrably cost them a great deal more than they will get out of it; but so long as they think it to their advantage, we ought not object. We further feel the great necessity of taking better care of the boys whom the war has left invalids, whether from shell shock, tuberculosis, or wounds. They still suffer very serious neglect. Their claims should come first; but, granting that the public purpose, as expressed through the Covernment toward them, is benevolent, we may consider the bonus, or adjusted compensation, as the next thing in line. But what shall we call it?

Adjusted compensation? Let us see: Mr. Williams recells the wages which civilians obtained in the shipyards and in similar occupation during the war, often as a result of a strike. These wages went to men who were usually ineligible for the draft, occasionally slackers, often aliens, etc. Mr. Williams argues that the pay of the men in the trenches accordingly should be adjusted to those of the army of operatives working for the Government at home.

If this is so, the proposed payment is a mere trifle, Would a dollar a day make up the difference? Ridiculous! We should want a bonus of ten billions instead of one or two billions if we were to adjust the compensation of the men in the trenches to that of the highest-paid union adjust?

In 1862 there were two young men in Worcester County. One went into the Union Army and stood with Warren at Gettysburg, finally reaching the grade of a major on retirement at the end of the war. He took some time in connecting with business. An associate of his who did not go into the Army began the manufacture of "mocassins" in the upper story of his father's barn in the latter part of 1864, and when the war ended, with the impoverished southern market clamoring for shoes, grew very rich. His old-time companion, following the military service, became an internal revenue collector and held positions of that sort for the rest of his life. When the estates were probated none had one hundred times as much money as the other. Would it have been feasible to undertake an adjustment of compensation for the poorer?

ore had one hundred times as much money as the other. Would it have been feasible to undertake an adjustment of compensation for the poorer?

We object to the theory of an adjusted compensation because there are so many things in this world that lack the monetary basis. The man who accepts a judgeship on his State's supreme court enjoys a certain honor as well as security, while his companion, who remains in the private practice of his profession, may become very rich. It is impossible to adjust the two careers or adjust one standard of return to the other. As for war service, the same seems vasily more true. Undermining to patriotism is the assumption that we can adjust compensation on a monetary basis. We ought not to expect to be able to do that. The men who cent to the Great War—as far as we can observe them—retain much of the spirit expressed in the letter of Abrahum Lincoln to Mrs. Bixby, in which he told her it must have given the restaifaction to reflect that she had laid "so costly a sacrifice upon the altur of freedom." Nobody could give to the manufacturer of moccasins what his companion, who had seen liberty and union triumph on Little Round Top, received unto himself in undying honor by that experience. No Government could be rich enough, measured in money, to adjust his finances to those of the other man.

If the appraisal of these services were to be undertaken on a cash and carry busis, the boys in the trenches deserve $10 for every one that his companions in the shipyards obtained. Few men would tolerate the hardships and privations of war were "compensation" the determining factor except at a rate manifold that of the civilian employees; and if we are to adjust compensation, why not make the payments one hundred billions instead of ten billions, or ten billions instead of two? The very suggestion of adjustment is an absurdity.

What we need in this country is a reassertion of a patriotism which refuses to translate into dollars and cents service to the Republic. It is this spirit which our nei

EXTENSION OF REMARKS

HON. ROYAL C. JOHNSON.

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES,

Monday, March 6, 1922.

Mr. JOHNSON of South Dakota. Mr. Speaker, in accordance with permission granted by unanimous consent of the House to extend my remarks in the Record and print the so-called "slacker lists," I desire to call attention to a letter from The Adjutant General's Office, dated February 28, 1922.

It is my intention to insert these lists on the 5th day of each month until all of the names are printed. No good soldier will be injured by the publication of his name in these lists, but, on the contrary, if his military record is one to be proud of, the publication will only serve to call attention to that record. by mistake the names of good soldiers have not been eliminated from the record, it will be my pleasure and duty to insert in the Record the facts in each individual case and to see that the facts are brought to the attention of the Secretary of War, who is as anxious as any soldier of the late war with Germany to have the records correct. Mistakes ought to be corrected while the men are living and while there is evidence to substantiate any valid claim as to service.

The letter is as follows:

WAR DEPARTMENT,
THE ADJUTANT GENERAL'S OFFICE,
Washington, February 28, 1922.

Hon. Royal C. Johnson,

Dear Sir: I have the honor to transmit herewith for publication in the Congressional Record of March 6, 1922, lists of alleged draft deserters, which lists were released by the War Department for publication between January 5 and February 4, 1922, both dates inclusive. A copy of the statement to be printed at the head of the lists is also inclosed herewith.

There is also transmitted herewith for insertion in the Congressional Record a list of the names of registrants which have been removed from the lists of alleged draft deserters heretofore published in the Record, the reasons for such removals being set forth in the second paragraph of the statement, which is to precede the lists in the Record.

Very respectfully,

P. C. Harris,

EXTENSION OF REMARKS

LOCAL BOARD FOR COUNTY OF WASHAKIE, STATE OF WYOMING, Thomas W. Ross, Worland, Wyo. Edward F. Tipton, Madrid, Nebr., care of H. O. Ranch.

HON. JOHN N. GARNER, OF TEXAS,

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES,

Saturday, February 25, 1922.

Mr. GARNER. Mr. Speaker, under the leave granted me I will print in the Recond an address delivered by Hon. Finis J. GARRETT, of Tennessee, to an assemblage of Democrats of Kansas at Topeka on the evening of February 22, 1922. The address is as follows:

ADDRESS OF HON. FINIS J. GARRETT.

Mr. GARRETT of Tennessee. I appreciate in fullest measure the honor done me by the invitation to attend upon and address this annual assemblage of the Democrats of Kansas. The history of Kansas, political, social, and economic, is one of extreme fascination to every student of American develop-ment and evolution. The issues of her earlier days were of a scope and dignity to give here a most distinct place in the sunlight of national history, and all down the years she has held a foremost and commanding position in public thought and governmental activity. The independence of her citizens, their disposition to think for themselves and act upon their own judgment has been the marked and outstanding characteristic of Kansas life. In no Commonwealth I think has this independent political disposition been so pronounced. The result quite naturally has been to make her a political battle ground, where the forces of reason and passion have always strained and strug-

This year will, it is certain, prove no exception, and as we meet here upon the birthday of the Father of his Country to take certain initial steps, it behooves us all to try to see clearly and to think straight.

The biennial struggle of the year is to be had under unusual conditions, many of their unprecedented. As to some things, at least, we shall not have the light of experience to guide our footsteps, but must pick our courses by the aid of reason. What I mean is that we shall have to determine just what principles of government must be applied to the solution of the pressing problems which have grown out of conditions, some of them world-wide and in the creation of which we had no part and no responsibility, others domestic, and others interrelated between the two.

May we not at the very outset of our endeavors get one basic thought fixed firmly in our minds?

It is this: The National Democratic Party has never been, is not now, and never shall be a sectional party. It rests upon principle and not upon passion. It lives upon reason and scorns to seek victory upon prejudice. It will not seek to array one section against another; it will not hold out the suggestion of favoritism to one class or to one locality as against another class or another locality. Its national principles are of national application.

It is because this is true that it has been historically a be-liever in local governments doing the local things of gov-ernment, leaving to the Nation only the performance of those governmental duties which only the Nation can perform.

As a responsible public official who has tried to study the history and the problems of the country—the country of my fathers, my country, and which, please God, is to be the country of my children's children—I am not unmindful of the fact that the Republican Party has fine, even glorious traditions, but standing in the midst of the chaos which its modern leadership has wrought, visioning their incapacity, their petty-nesses, their pusalanimity, we are irresistably driven to the knowledge that it has nothing but traditions, and the Nation can not live upon traditions alone.

Quite recently throughout the country there have been the annual celebrations of the birth of Abraham Lincoln. North and South have vied in paying tribute to his greatness.

Standing in this presence, may I not say that I yield to no man in admiration for this exalted character, who belongs to no section and to no time but to all the world and to all time, but—God save the mark—the party of. Abraham Lincoln has become the party of TRUMAN NEWBERRY.

It is a shameful tragedy, but, after all, is it vastly surprising when we look into the history of the last half century?

The perfectly natural effect of the War of Secession was to make the Republican Party for long years the dominant political force of America. We need not go into detail as to why. It was inevitable.

Logically, therefore, there flocked to that party all the forces that were seeking governmental privilege, all the powers who wished to profit by legislative legerdemain and the manipulation of governmental functions. These seized upon it and made it their own

While the great masses of men sustained it and kept it in power because of their devotion to its traditions, special interests silently, stealthily, but ever steadily, wove their threads into its web and woof until the high idealism which marked its birth and glorified—aye, sanctified—its infancy was crushed out of its organism and it stood forth before men as the party not of humanity but of privilege; not as an organization of Inspiration but as a business machine, organized, financed, dominated by those who could benefit by its success at the expense of their fellows.

Such had become its state when, to the delectation of those who had begun to despair, Theodore Roosevelt came upon the scene of action and by reason of dominant qualities obtained for a time a degree of control over the organization, which, however much men may differ in their estimates of that remarkable man, did inspire hope for a revivification of humanity in government and a reapproachment toward civic justice and the maintenance of the essential and fundamental rights of man.

This mastery even he could not maintain. In the struggle so to do his party was rent in twain, and in the autumn of 1910 the people of the Republic, disappointed and disgusted at the breaking of the covenants that had been entered into with them by the Republican Party two years before, elected a Democratic House of Representatives and two years later intrusted that party with full power in both the legislative and executive branches, and during the succeeding six years ours was the opportunity and the responsibility.
Surely, my friends, I need not dwell upon the history of those years, so filled with luster as to constitute the most glo-rious epoch in the history of any nation in the life of the Whatever may happen adown the centuries, we may say with certainty that the story of those six years is as ineffaceable from the annals of humanity as are the eternal stars from the everlasting heavens,

I may not dwell in review upon the achievements which marked the earlier years of Democratic control. They were constructive, they were fundamental, they were humanitarian and sound. The excision of favoritism and special privilege went forward steadily, unswervingly. The people were restored to their own. They were able to feel that their Government ence more had come into their possession.

Then came the war in Europe; and, despite all the efforts of an administration profoundly devoted to peace, we at length had to choose between the surrender of national honor and casting our own sword into the contest. Of course, there was but one course to pursue. We entered the struggle and we settled the issue of arms.

There is no epoch in all the annals of mankind which compares in point of success with the execution of the war program planned and completed by a Democratic administration in

Never a battle lost, never a serious check encountered by American arms, though they drove against hitherto uncon-quered legions and assailed divisions whose lines had never en broken.

This was not chance; it was the logical culmination of plans formulated with mathematical exactness; not plans of military strategy alone, but of things behind the lines as well-the coordination, if you please, of military power and civil forces.

As the fall elections of 1918 approached, the President of the United States deemed it proper to appeal to the country to elect a Congress—House and Senate—in political sympathy with him. There was nothing unusual about it, but Republican leadership proceeded to seize upon it and made to the people suffering the pangs and horrors of war a protest that it was improper. Even some of the President's friends said it was unfortunate. I do not know about that, but I do undertake to assert that every act of the Republican leadership after his appeal had been refused absolutely justified the President's declaration to the effect that they sought power not to support him but to control him.

As a matter of fact the President knew, as did every person who sat there in the atmosphere of Washington, the intense envy and the hatred growing out of that envy, which was entertained by the Republican leaders toward him. They had supported his war plans not because they wanted to but because they had to, and for months their plans had been confidently laid and carried forward to capture the Congress, particularly

This was the why of Michigan and Newberry, and the fact that the election of Mr. Newberry did give control of the Senate is the reason why the Republican leaders of that body had to place upon the record of their country the shameful resolution retaining him in place while at the same time declaring the methods by which he was elected dangerous to free institutions.

and they kept it.

Having carried the Congress at the November election in 1918, and the war having come to an unexpected end a few days thereafter, the opportunity presented itself for the pent-up malice of the years to be unleashed. The President had made war with success; it was determined that he should fail in making peace whatever of machination it might require. All the enmities that could be mustered were coordinated beneath the control of cunning and conscienceless leadership, and from that day forth every art which prejudice could devise, every instrumentality which burning hatred could suggest were exerted both at home and abroad to drive the President of the United States from the pinnacle upon which he stood-a pinnacle the height of which no other human ever trod.

It will require years, even decades, to determine fully the extent of the injury which these unscrupulous marplots did their country and the world. They sowed the wind and in misery the world is reaping the whirlwind. That they who sowed are reaping a share evokes no pity for them, but for their sins men and women everywhere, children hungry and starving, babes suckling at withered breasts-all are paying in torture and toll and tears. They have done irreparable injury to all men everywhere except one. That one is Woodrow Wilson

His fame is beyond the menace of malignancy. Already his name is written in the everlasting firmament of the world's immortals. The inspiration of his faith and genius will be illuminating generations long centuries after his every enemy and detractor shall have perished from the memory of men.

What has come out of it all?

Republicans controlled both branches of the Sixty-sixth Congress. There were immumerable questions to be dealt with that had no partisan tinge. By a filibuster at the close of the last ses sion of the Sixty-fifth Congress the Senate Republicans defeated several of the annual supply bills so as to force the President to call an extra session of the new Congress. He called dent to call an extra session of the new Congress. He call in May and directed to it from abroad a dignified mes filled with constructive suggestions, carefully avoiding matters which might be thought to be provocative of partisan discus-

Not one was acted upon. Among his recommendations was one that the internal revenue act passed to meet war conditions might very properly be readjusted. The Treasury begged for it; the business world plead, but the responsible party continued to dawdle in idleness while feeding upon passion. Their only gestures toward anything were made with doubled fists toward the White House.

All will remember the delay occasioned in the return of the railroads to private control by their failure to pass the needed legislation in time.

They persistently proceeded to do nothing, or if they did act at all to do something worse.

I have often wondered whether their hatred had completely pletely paralyzed their faculties or whether it was a formulated plan of inaction. Probably something of both. At any rate, in the heat of discussion over the peace treaty the responsible majority succeeded not only in evading but in concealing their responsibility and in creating in the public mind somehow the feeling that it lay at the door of the Execu-

They passed the appropriation bills pretty much as they had been prepared by the Democratic committees of the preceding Congress; spent several hundred thousand dollars in investigations that have not resulted in a single constructive act of legislation, and finally quit on March 4, 1921, still so busy cursing Wilson as that they found little time to applaud Harding, or perhaps—but we will pass that,

The only excuse ever offered publicly for the inaction of the Republican Sixty-sixth Congress was that they must wait until they had control of the executive as well as the legislative branch of the Government, and so they waited for "Calpurnia to have sweeter dreams" at the election of 1920.

Well, the elections of 1920 were had, and the results, it would seem, ought to have been sufficient to satisfy the most exacting demand of the most voracious political organization which ever existed. A Republican President was elected by the largest popular majority ever known; the House of Representatives is Republican by a mojority of 169; the Senate is Republican by a majority of 24.

Practically one-fourth of the term of the Executive is gone and one-half of the term of Members of the House. The Congress has been in session almost continuously during that time.

Are we not entitled now to make assessment of what has been accomplished and to politely inquire, "How long, O Lord, how long?

Distress everywhere; millions out of employment; soup houses in every city of the country; farm products selling below the cost of production; even the most conservative of menexcept such as are fattening upon privilege—becoming restless and discontented; our very institutions threatened by the maelstrom of human suffering!

Oh, there has been legislation enacted, but I undertake to assert that not one act has been passed that gave even temporary relief, but was merely an extension of some measure originated by the Democratic Party while in power.

You read every day almost about reductions in appropriations. Do not be deceived by that. Much juggling can be done with figures, and remember not half the regular appropriation bills have even passed the House as yet, and do not forget that the appropriations are not wholly contained in the regular bills. Keep your eyes out for the deficiency bills, and remember, too, that the appropriations being made by the present Congress for next fiscal year do not mean that the sums carried therein will represent the facts as to the sums that will be then expended. There will be deficiency bills next year—after the November elections. Mark you, after the elections. The test for the average man to apply is not what he reads from day to day about appropriations from the Treasury. He can only tell by what goes into the Treasury, and he can know of a certainty that there are savings only when he sees them reflected in his tax return and receipt. If you see anything of that sort in yours this year or next-unless it be by reason of the decrease in your income under this administration-to use the words of the popular song, "drop us a line."

Oh, they have passed an internal revenue bill. Mark you, that is one of the subjects they might have dealt with, had dealt fairly, while Mr. Wilson was President, but they

They waited for complete control, then they spent the long months from March to November upon it and finally passed it. I have yet to hear of a single individual affected by the revenue bill who approves of what they passed.

The late Senator Penrose was not altogether my ideal of a statesman, but no one ever denied to him the qualities of ability and frankness. He said from his place in the Senate, speaking as chairman of the Senate Committee on Finance, as the bill was finally passed:

The revenue act of 1921 is a transitorial or temporary measure. It does not place the tax system on a stable or scientific basis.

In the press he spoke with greater emphasis declaring it a makeshift."

Let me ask this serious question of serious men everywhere: If with the President, with more than two-thirds of the House of Representatives, and with almost as large a majority in the Senate, the Republican Party after long months of travail can give the people nothing but a makeship, a temporary, transitorial measure, when, pray, may we expect from that party a different one?

What other things have been done looking toward the redemption of their platform and campaign pledges?

As for the platform promises not much need be said, because it said little

That platform was a miracle of meaninglessness

Not since the witches of Macbeth performed "a deed without name" about the boiling cauldron in the darkened cavern of Scotland has such a charm been concocted as was then evolved at the midnight sessions of the platform committee, composed in

One in imagination can easily visualize the scene as the witches of republicanism danced the can-can about the committee table room, selecting the ingredients and singing-

And these the words of Hecate:

Oh, well done! I commend your pains, And every one shall share i' the gains.

Oh, it is not strange, after all, that they have so miserably failed.

Their only tariff act has been the preposterous "farmers' emergency bill," which has proven its utter uselessness now to every thinking person in America.

The only value of that act lies in its demonstration of the false philosophy respecting a protective tariff for a creditor nation.

Their other tariff efforts have been mere gestures. The House has passed a weird and mystic measure containing Mr. Ford-NEY's pet scheme of American valuation. I know of very few who even pretended to understand it at the time of its passage, except that all knew its effect was intended to be as nearly prohibitive as Mr. FORDNEY could make it.

The trouble with Mr. FORDNEY and his school of protectionists is that they refuse to recognize the complete revolution which has taken place in the world. The United States has become both officially and through its private citizens the creditor of the world. The world can not pay us except in goods. Not only that, but we can not sell our future products, either of factory or farm, to other nations, except that we take products from them in exchange. The home-market theory has become an anachronism. The throwing of a high-tariff wall about this Nation means the shutting off for American farmers of foreign markets for their tremendous surpluses. This means stagnation, distress, abandoned farms, and complete industrial paAnd yet that Bourbon republicanism which has learned nothing and forgotten nothing pushes on along this pathway.

O my friends, we shall not find relief from present conditions nor set our Nation back on the road to progress by turning our heads to the past. We must look to the rising, not the setting of the sun.

Let us face conditions frankly and consider them as they are, and above all things let us be candid with America. Candor has not marked the course of the present administration in any of its branches; upon the contrary, political advantage seems to have been the only thing thought of or sought.

Language has been employed in state papers and in arguments not to express but to conceal thought. The majority in every move has placed party advantage above all else:

In an hour calling for the highest and most unselfish statesmanship and patriotism we have had the cheap machinations, the evasions, the special pleadings of narrow and petty political manipulators.

Thoughtful men everywhere realize that the results of the World War upon every phase and activity of our national life have been of a most far-reaching—in many cases—of a fundamental character.

Our national expenditures through the decades to come are to mount higher than anyone had dreamed a few years ago. No party can avoid that and there is no use to try to deceive either ourselves or others. What we need to do is to set ourselves resolutely and candidly to the business of adjusting our tax system to the changed conditions of national obligations, international relations, and domestic industry.

We need to readjust our tariff not along the lines of trade prohibition but of trade encouragement.

We need to work out an internal-revenue system which, while fair to business, will not give favoritism to privilege.

We need to stop opening new activities for the Federal Government along lines that States may cope with. Economy alone dictates that the States should do those things which the States can do, and that the Federal arm should be extended only when the arm of the State can not—not will not—reach.

I do not propose to enter upon any discussion of foreign affairs. The recent conference of powers in Washington evolved a series of treaties that must be studied with care. I for one am unwilling to discuss them under circumstances that might make that discussion seem to have the slightest tinge of partisanism.

I remember all too well the distress which the world has been caused by the deliberate injection of partisanship into the consideration of the treaty of Versailles.

Democrats have an abundance of opportunity for criticism of domestic activities to enable them to wait time for careful and deliberate study of the recent treaties and proposals.

Just as the extra session of the present Congress was convening in April, 1921, Hon. Marrin B. Madden, who has since become chairman of the powerful Committee on Appropriations, gave out one of the most remarkable newspaper interviews in the history of American politics.

In substance he declared that the control of the Government had passed to the heavy taxpaying section of the country; that the Republicans from the States north of the Ohio and east of the Mississippi held a sufficient majority in the House of Representatives to dominate the situation, and by clear implication avowed the purpose of that majority to administer the Government as the heavy taxpaying section from which it came should demand. It was as frank an expression of sectional prejudice and purpose as was ever avowed by a responsible statesman, and in so far as has been possible that promise has been fulfilled to the letter.

It is true that independent Congressmen, mainly from the West, have joined with the Democrats upon some notable occasions and prevented the consummation.

One was when we forced the reduction of the Army to 150,000 men over the protest of the administration.

Another was when we compelled the adoption of the Borah resolution for the calling of the Limitation of Armament Conference, forcing action upon an unwilling Executive.

The most important, perhaps, was when we prevented the repeal of the high surtaxes in the internal revenue bill. We were not strong enough to prevent the stoppage of the excess-profits taxes, and you may have noted the recent boast of Senator Lodge as to this.

But, my friends, while we have been able to negative a few things, we have not been able to initiate anything, nor shall we be until there is Democratic control again. There is no chance for progressive Republicans to wrest domination of the committees of Congress from the old element aligned with the interests, which have held the mastery of the Republican Party organization from the death of Lincoln until now, save as Recesvelt was able for a little while to break their stranglehold

The individual, to be sure, counts for much when he is strong but after all in correct organization lies the sole possibility of complete fulfillment. Conlitions can not accomplish it, and I tell you now that the hope for justice in national legislation lies in the restoration of the Democratic Party to power, where it may initiate, not merely momentarily check.

May I not reiterate, the Democratic Party is not sectional, therefore no section need fear it. It represents no class, but represents all who are content with justice and equality; therefore none save those who wish special favor and inequality need dread it. It has its proud and glorious traditions, but it does not ask for support because of traditions; it seeks support because of its readiness and its ability to do the things of justice, to apply to the evolutions of society the principles of right and to assure to all men beneath the flag that liberty and opportunity, and only that liberty and opportunity which is their due.

We seek the country's honors that we may serve the country's good.

Farm Risk Insurance.

or

HON. EDWARD J. KING,

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES,

Friday, March 3, 1923.

Mr. KING. Mr. Speaker, one of the most important questions before the farmer to-day is that of crop insurance, and in this connection I desire to discuss H. R. 10294, a bill authorizing the establishment of a bureau of farm risk insurance in the Treasury Department.

This bill was introduced by me with the indorsement of various farmers' organizations, financial leaders, and students of farm economics, and is now before the Committee on Agriculture of the House.

The bill provides for the establishment of the bureau, allows a director at $5,000 per year, and states that the bureau shall, as soon as practicable, make provision for the insurance by the United States of growing crops of nonperishable products against less or damage by the action of the elements.

An advisory board of three insurance experts, to be paid not

An advisory board of three insurance experts, to be paid not to exceed $25 per day while actually working, is provided to aid the director and the Secretary of the Treasury in publishing a standard form of farm risk policy and to fix reasonable rates of premiums.

Losses would be paid promptly, and in case of disagreement as to claims the claimant would have the right to take the east not any United States district court. A revolving fund of $10,000,000 to inaugurate the system is provided, as well as $100,000 to cover the expenses of the bureau during its initial year of operation.

However, the bureau would be self-supporting in entirety, premiums being determined according to cost. Farmers would be charged the actual expense of carrying their risks, although

I would oppose any tendency by the bureau to earn a profit. Mr. Speaker, agriculture is the only industry that can not obtain insurance, and in view of the great hazard surrounding farming, the primary interest of the Nation in making certain that its people have sufficient to est, and the discouraging, if not fatal, conditions surrounding food production to-day, I most earnestly urge favorable consideration of this bill.

This bill, with its resultant effect in stabilizing food production, is just as important to the dweller in New York as it is to the farmer. It means as much to you Members of the House from Chicago or New York as to the man from Iowa.

Bankers who have loaned the limit to food producers in their vicinity will be encouraged by knowing that they will be certain of repayment. Crop insurance would enable the farmer to obtain cost of production back, keep him on his feet, and carry him over disastrous places.

Where to-day farmers in many cases can not borrow money for seed because of the lack of security, under this bill they could be accommodated by their bankers. The farmer could assign the insurance policy to the bank as security. The banker's risk would be eliminated. The maintenance of the bureau of farm risk insurance would not cost the Government a cent. Why? Because it would be self-supporting through the premiums received from policies The premiums charged for the insurance would be sufficient to pay all expenses of the system.

Theo. H. Price, editor of Commerce and Finance, and one of the enthusiastic proponents of crop insurance, wrote a very able article on the subject in his paper of January 25. This article was placed in the Record by Senator Sheppard, of Texas, who is to-day urging an impartial investigation of the subject, and is very interesting.

Mr. V. N. Valgren, associate agricultural economist of the Department of Agriculture, who has studied the subject of crop insurance for many years and is the author of several brochures and articles on the same, states as follows:

Irepartment of Agriculture, who has studied the subject of crop insurance for many years and is the author of several brochures and articles on the same, states as follows:

1. The insurance must cover only such crop damage as will result in serious financial loss to the farmer. This means that only a reasonable amount of insurance an acre must be written. For establishing such reasonable amount the average yield and price for a series of past years is perhaps the best basis. It means, furthermore, that the acreage of a given crop, if not the entire farm, must be insured as a unit and adjustment made on the basis of average yield of such acreage. The total loss of a crop on one or a few acres out of a hundred is not a serious loss if the acreage as a whole gives average returns or a substantial part of such average.

2. The insurance must cover any and all hazards which are beyond the farmer's control. Insurance which protects against certain hazards and leaves the insured exposed to total loss from other hasards beyond his courtol is not real crop insurance.

3. In no case must the insurance protect against loss from careless-ness or negligence on the part of the insured. Such protection would involve a moral hazard, the encouragement of which is against the loss interest not only of the company but also of the insurance and the such control of the company but also of the insurance and that the expense item in the expenditures of the insurance organization must be held to a minor part of the premiums collected; that profits, if the organization operates for profit, must be mederate; and that the bulk of the premiums must be available for the payment of future losses.

5. The method of adjusting loss must be such that the insured will receive indemnity for crop damage in the amount or on the basis that he is led to expect from the figures indicating the amount of insurance an acre. The company should not profit by a calamity to the payment of future losses.

6. The method of adjusting loss must be such that the PRACTICAL EXPERIENCE.

Mr. R. M. Bissell, president of the Hartford Fire Insurance Co., a company which has had experience in this field, gives valuable information in a letter to Congressman E. HART FENN, as follows:

as follows:

As regards crop insurance, we do write crop insurance; but having had our fingers severely burned in experimenting with this form of insurance, we are now proceeding in a far more careful fashion. The problem of writing insurance on the major crops, such as corn, wheat, rye, oats, and cotton, is a tremendous one, and full of the most puszling intricacles and problems, which were unsuspected when we undertook it. After nearly three years of experimentation, during which time we have lost a very large sum of money, we have finally come to the conclusion that insurance on the large crops can only be undertaken of what might be called a banking basis; that is to say, the amount of insurance must be limited to what a bank would under ordinary circumstances advance to the farmer to enable him to finance the making of a crop, including harvesting. Farmers, as a matter of fact, have very little exact knowledge about many matters having to do with crop production, especially the matter of costs and average yields, and any attempt to insure farmers on a basis of the full cost of production in bushels would involve possible losses which would run into the hundred millions, and very probably into the billions, for a single year.

We are hoping to very shortly work out a plan with a syndicate of companies whereby we can afford to take on insurance on the larger crops. In the meantime we are doing quite a little business on special crops in connection with truck farms, fruit orchards, canning factories, etc.

A bureau of crop insurance started two years ago would have eliminated much of the present agricultural destitution, according to Mr. N. C. Sanford, cashler of the First State Bank of Celina, Tex. He continues:

Ing to Mr. N. C. Sanford, cashier of the First State Bank of Celina, Tex. He continues:

In this connection let me state that I am pleased to go on record as unreservedly indorsing this move, which is and can not help being very far-reaching in its effect and influence upon the economic life of the United States. In legislation such as this I can not but feel that here will be found a panaces for the illight flat financially beset the farming populations and communities of the world.

From the above statements, which, I will admit, may sound somewhat radical, one might be led to believe that the author of them was inclined to specialism. Indeed, this is true if by that term we mean the greatest good for the greatest number of people. However, if it is not so-cialism to subsidize other industries and businesses; if it is not so-cialism to sreet prefective tariffs around these industries and classes, then, the argument that legislation to favor crop insurance would make farming a favored industry does not seem to me to be pertinent.

The fact that you have seen fit to introduce such a bill as yon have sufficient evidence that you see the ultimate possibilities in the project. Whether or not it is incumbent upon the Federal Government to undertake this responsibility is the question involved. I am sure no right-thinking man in any line of industry will advance the theory that the farmer does not need some kind of assistance. It is no secretian the farmer does not need some kind of assistance. It is no secretian the farmer ones not not some finite of industry will advance the theory that the farmer ones not not some finite of industry will advance the theory that the farmer ones not not some some wind of assistance is it is no secretian to the farmers are fighting in the last ditch and with their backs to the wall. And from first-hand information gathered from living in a farming community, and from daily contact with farmers who till the possess now or hope to possess in the future, for enough money to keep the fi it." And what is true of this community is also true or others, we are fortunate in that we think we are somewhat better off than most places.

If there had been an insurance bureau operating in the past two years, we would not now be practically destitute nor would out condition be alarming. It is to prevent a recurrence of such calamities as have befallen us in the past that we ask for an investigation into the possibilities or feasibility of crop insurance. As a guaranty that the farmer is in carnest and has determined with an unbreakable will and a fortitude that is deserving of the highest esteem to overcome and surmount the difficulties in which he finds himself, one has only to investigate the conditions of the farms as they now are preparatory to making another crop.

I am sure the land was never better prepared than it now is. There has been mothing left audone that possibly could have been done to insure proper planting conditious. The farmer has not taken it out in talk and criticism, but has determined to do his part, as best he can, to bridge the gap between depression and prosperity. It now behooves our Government to assist him in his undertaking, even as it has seen fit to assist other branches of industry. If this assistance is forthcoming immediately, it will be a wonderful incentive and hoon to an industry that has every reason in the world to feel despondent.

Of course, there will be those who will oppose your measure. There will be proponents of plans to let the independent and private insurance companies take up this work. But I state to you that they have tried if. In the past two years there have been companies who have issued crop insurance, but this year they advise us that they will not be in the field, as their operations have necessarily, because of lack of capital, been confined to small scopes of territory, and when failures hit them there they lost money. Surely the least that can be done is to investigate the feasibility of the idea, and if in any way my services to you will ass

It can not buy insurance. If it could, bankers would furnish money for the cost of seed and labor. The Hartford Insurance Co., a splendid institution, has for the past two years done a limited amount of cropinsurance business, but has raised the rates and placed restrictions so that it at present affords but little facility, as no one insurance company can afford to carry the entire risk of this line in the United States. I myself have had crop insurance during the past two years and have collected insurance—that is, the actual cost of the investment where I lost the crop, and where there was no loss I succeeded in raising a sufficient crop to more than pay for carrying on the industry. The rate charged by the Hartford Insurance Co. two years ago was 8 per cent and last year 9 per cent, but it paid the parties who took out the insurance even at this high rate.

In its issue of February 3, 1922, Wallace's Farmer, of Des Moines, Iowa, urges crop insurance as follows:

CROP INSURANCE

The farmer in growing crops faces the uncertainties of weather, insects, diseases, and markets. When he plants in the spring he does not know whether he shall secure in the fail a high yield at a high price, a low yield at a low price, or a low yield at a high price, and his market as the farmer nevertheless removes uncertainty even more from his business by insurance. The business man insure a extensively against fire, thet, death, and a dozen other contingencies. Now, it occurs to a business man that it might be well for farmers to use insurance far more extensively than they do. Theodore Price, editor of Commerce and Finance, in an open letter to Secretary Wallace, suggests that the Department of Agriculture each lish a crop insurance bureau. Mr. Price, like all business men, is rather against putting more Government into business, but which shall it might be well for the Government to start a project of this sort insurance typical farmers in representative crop-growing areas, with the idea of securing data after a number of years upon which rates might be worked out for a yast new insurance system.

Insurance is really a practical form of socialism. It spreads risks over society as a whole instead of allowing them to burden the individual who may not be able to bear the accident which occasionally strikes him. For instance, at the present time there are thousands of splendid hard-working young farmers who are practically bankrupt through no fault of their own. On the average the best farmers win through in spite of weather and markets. Nevertheless there are thousands of cases where really splendid men have lost out merely through the accident of weather and markets. They were figuring on an even break of "heads and tails," but instead "tails" came four times straight, and they were ruined.

Mr. Price's suggestion is excellent. Perhaps the Department of Agriculture should not actually establish a crop insurance bureau, but it certainly should be at work on the fundamentals of crop insurance. How can the most good be accomplished by distributing over society as a whole the risks of weather and the market?

Crop insurance should receive the serious and favorable con-

Crop insurance should receive the serious and favorable consideration of Congress, according to Dr. Andrew M. Soule, president of the State College of Agriculture of Athens, Ga. He dent of the State College of Agriculture of Athens, Ga. He writes as follows:

There is no reason why crop insurance should not be instituted and made an effective agency in helping to maintain a desirable equilibrium in our production and distribution of food crops. Undoubtedly insurance has proven of benign value to many classes of society and has made possible the development and expansion of many phases of our industry that would have languished but for the fact that those engaged in the business were in position to insure themselves against engaged in the business were in position to insure themselves against engaged in the business were in position to insure themselves against engaged in the business were in position to insure themselves against loss. The practicability of crop insurance appeals to me, and I am disposed to think that the producers of the country are entitled to this encouragement and protection on the part of the Government, It seems to me that it is a national question, and should therefore be handled through a governmental organization. It would no doubt be difficult to work out a correct and desirable basis of rates to apply because of the variabilities in soils and the use of fertilizers and seed, the individual differences existing between landowners, and the effect which climatic conditions in a given year may exercise on crop growth. The Government, however, could experiment along these lines and soon, it seems to me, determine rates which could be applied with profit and advantage. If this were a cooperative mutual aid organization any great accumulation of funds, should the rates prove too high, could be returned as premiums to the insured at the end of any given year, or else applied in the succeeding year to the reduction of the premiums which would otherwise be paid. Removing the gambling element from agricultural production would go a very long way toward stabilizing our primary industry. It seems to me, therefore, that it is a matter which should engage the serious attention

The situation with regard to crop insurance is ably reviewed by Mr. Theo. H. Price in an article in Commerce and Finance,

February 15, as follows:

February 10, as follows:
Indorsement of the idea has come to us from every section of the country. If all those who have written to us and all who believe the possibility is worth investigation will write to their Senators the pressure will force consideration of the resolution.

The benefits to be derived from crop insurance are self-evident. The need is for further light on the practical problems involved, a light which can best be shed by Government research. Write to-day.

D. G. O'Shea, president of the Federal Land Bank of Spokane, Wash., one of the early proponents of crop insurance, wrote in the Red Cross Echo:

which can best be shed by Government research. Write to-day.
D. G. O'Shea, president of the Federal Land Bank of Spokane, Wash, one of the early proponents of crop insurance, wrote in the Red Cross Echo:

"It does not seem reasonable to expect the farmer to continue to take all the chances. It is not suggested that he should receive something for nothing, but that a method should properly be devised for affording him a reasonable protection for the chances he necessarily has to take when contending with the elements, over which no control can be exercised.

"In past years grain crops in Montana were seriously menaced by hall. Hall insurance companies were in business, charging exorbitant rates and at times defaulting in payments. There is now in effect a State hall-insurance law, which is operating successfully, economically, and dependably, and affording protection to the farmers who elect to become subject to it, so that in the event of the destruction of a field of grain by hall they will receive at least more than they have invested in the crop.

"Some such method should be devised to protect the farmer against other failure. It is not to give him charity or a gift, but to furnish him with insurance, to the end that he will be sure to receive at least what it has cost him to plant the crop, plus a small remuneration for his labor in the even which the conducted failure caused by weether conditions over which the conducted failure caused by whether conductions over which the conducted and would keep on the farms many men who otherwise would answer the call of the manufacturing centers where life may be more alluring and rewards are definite and assured.

"A scheme of insurance can readily be worked out under the operations of which no unworthy person could receive a benefit; the cost may be borne by the farmers themselves or the National Government.

"Froyleisted him the crops of the person could receive a benefit; the cost may be borne by the farmers themselves or the National Government.

may contribute to the fund; the fund should be administered by the Government.

"Provision may be made to prevent the application of the law to areas not cultivated in the past until after same would have been examined and reported upon by representatives of the Department of Agriculture to the effect that such localities are reasonably adapted to agricultural pursuits. Reasonable provision can easily be devised for determining losses, which may be limited to a stated maximum figure sufficient only to cover the cost incurred and a small margin for labor and living expenses.

"There seems to be a specific need at this time for this form of legislation; the operations of the Federal land banks can be better assured and extended if such insurance be provided; and many who naturally will become discouraged at repeated failures may be kept on the farms and inspired to make renewed efforts if a means be provided to insure them a small return for their labor even though the elements be against them."

them."

Cyrus H. McCormick, chairman of the International Harvester Co., in the Chicago Journal of Commerce goes into the basic agricultural problem with his usual acumen:

"Even though crops are now selling below cost of production, it is not visionary to consider the possibility of a food shortage. The world's population constantly increases and the total area of arable land remaining to be brought under cultivation steadily decreases. The margin between production and consumption of food staples is now, and always will be, so close that even partial failure of a major staple crop would present the serious problem of how to tide the world over until another crop.

"With improved farming machinery, a constant increase of cultivated acreage has been for the last half century or more sufficient insurance against food shortage, but as that increase of acreage grows less and less possible this protection is disappearing. Hence the importance, from this viewpoint alone, of providing reserves of foodstuffs.

"America has repeatedly been an importer of wheat in the past. The indications to-day are that while the 1921 crop was sold below a fair price, the surplus going abroad at less than the cost of production, it is possible, and even probable, that we shall be importing wheat in 1922. Aside from the question of food supply, these facts constitute a powerful argument for a better system of crop marketing.

"Under such a system the farmer could avoid the necessity of selling under pressure at too low a price, and the world's greatest graingrowing Nation would be spared the economic absurdity of importing wheat to meet its domestic requirements.

"Nations and municipalities provide sinking funds against future contingencies. Any well-managed business builds up reserves in prosperous times against such a period of strain as the present. Why, then, should not we make an effort to provide a reserve as insurance against shortage of the essentials of life, when such provision would in a great measure stabilize the value of the farmer's crops and also would protect the whole people against the distress that inevitably would follow any serious shortage in the world's food production?

"Immediate rellef for our agricultural classes might be found in better financing—in the making available of sufficient funds at reasonable ra

EXTENSION OF REMARKS

HON. ROYAL C. JOHNSON,

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES,

Wednesday, April 5, 1922.

Mr. JOHNSON of South Dakota. Mr. Speaker, in accordance with permission granted by unanimous consent of the House to extend my remarks in the Record and print the so-called extend my remarks in the Althous and Principles Stacker lists, I desire to call attention to a letter from The Adjutant General's office, dated March 31, 1922.

It is my intention to insert these lists on the 5th day of each list of the state of the st month until all of the names are printed. No good soldier will be injured by the publication of his name in these lists; but, on the contrary, if his military record is one to be proud of, the publication will only serve to call attention to that record. If by mistake the names of good soldiers have not been eliminated from the record, it will be my pleasure and duty to insert in the Record the facts in each individual case, and to see that the facts are brought to the attention of the Secretary of War, who is as anxious as any soldier of the late war with Germany to have the records correct. Mistakes ought to be corrected while the men are living and while there is evidence to substantiate any valid claim as to service.

The letter is as follows:

WAR DEPARTMENT. THE ADJUTANT GENERAL'S OFFICE, Washington, March 31, 1922.

A copy of the statement to be printed at the head of the lists is also inclosed herewith.

There is also transmitted herewith, for insertion in the Congressional Record, a list of the names of registrants which have been removed from the lists of alleged draft deserters heretofore published in the Record, the reasons for such removals being set forth in the second paragraph of the statement which is to precede the lists in the Record.

Very respectfully,

The Adjutant General.

The men whose names appear below, and who were under the jurisdiction of the local board named, were, according to the public draft records, classified and reported by the draft au-thorities as deserters from the military service of the United States. The lists in which these names were originally included have been given at least one month's publicity.

The name of any man who, since the publication of the lists, has been found to have actually rendered service in either our own forces or in those of the Allies during the period between May 18, 1917, and November 11, 1918, is not included, nor is that of any man who, though he rendered no service during the period mentioned, has since the publication of his name, been found to have been erroneously inducted or to have been erroneously certified as a deserter, nor that of any man who is known to be no longer living.

Every reasonable effort has been made by the War Department to eliminate from these lists names which, for any of the aforementioned reasons, should not appear thereon. Should it develop, however, that certain of the names listed below should, for any of these reasons, likewise be removed, notice to that effect will be published in each such case in a later issue of the Congressional Record.
